She was Taken to St. Joseph's Hos pital Where She Died Yesterday Morning-Verdict of the Jury.

The investigation of the South Omaha ragedy had scarcely been finished when the news came that a lady by the name of Mrs. Ryan had taken her own life by the aid of a butcher knife, in the house of a friend on Sixteenth street.

In looking up the matter it was found that the lady in question was the wife of Mr. William Ryan, a fireman stationed at No. 2 engine house. The facts in the case are these: Thursday morning she left her home at the corner of Fourteenth and Webster streets, and went to look at a house, which she purposed occupying as it would bring her nearer her hus Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, Hay Fever, Loss of Voice, Tickling in the Throat, Pain in Side and Chest, or any disease of the Throat and Lungs, a positive cure. In 1881 the job department was abandoned, and all the energies and capital of the concern were concentrated upon the newspaper. Last spring the capacity of the engine was found insufficient, and the ten horse-power Baxter was replaced by a new thirty-five horse-power engine, which has power enough for the largest newspaper office in any city. No More Injunctions at Present but a New Breaking Out May Occur at Any Time,

The St. Paul and the Belt line appear now to have become partially reconciled toward each other. It was a genuine scare that the Belt people had Wednesday night. As stated by the BEE, Church Howe was at the bottom of it. He had a talk with John D. Howe, the St. Paul information that would be worth carryand vindictive war waged by newspaper ing to the U. P. He got more of a " pointer" than he was probably expecting. The attorney intimated that by morning there would be no Belt railway. Immediately Church Howe rushed into court with an affidavit and proceeded to give his information where he thought it was most needed. Then followed the commotion that was described in Thursday morning's BEE.

The injunction suits instituted against each by the Union Pacific and Omaha Belt fire, and within two weeks afterwards a railways, on the one side, and the Chicago, Minneapolis, St. Paul & Omaha on the other, have all been dismissed, and a drum-cylinder press, which could print truce has been declared.
