IOWA'S EXHIBIT.

New Orleans Exposition.

Laboring Under Difficulties,

The last number of the Exposition united in marriage by Justice Schurz at Iowan gives a lengthy but interesting account of the progress of the work of preparing the exhibit of this state. The folks live in Underwool, is locked up on accident which befell part of the goods a charge of stealing a pair of shoes from a in shipment is already familiar to THE BEE readers. It has necessarily caused great delay and damage, but a noble rally is being made. Superintendent be built. Professors Akers and McBride were the first to take off their coats but they discovered that their educational exhibits had been limited to a space of only 20x35 feet. After three days protesting and beseeching they secured double this space, and went to work preparing the exhibits. It was intended Charles Eiseman, of the city auction only to provide tables and racks, but store, remembered kindly his auctioneer, when it became apparent that adjoining $85,000 have been sold, and the cash Col. I. S. Toner, and on Christmas pre- spaces were being adorned handsomely, placed in the Citizens' bank. It is unsented him with a fine meerschaum pipe. a decorator was employed, handsome derstood that Mr. Reagan made the sale Rev. D. D. Proper, of Des Moines, designs selected, and Iowa's educational banking house in Montpelier, Vt. It is space speedily transformed into a parlor The space on the ground floor, intended for the general state exhibit is 55x185 feet, and platted into four main divisions with a circle in the middle of it. These divisions are awarded to the agridepartment, the flour and grain exhibit, the mechanical exhibit, and the fourth t the geological exhibit of wood, fruit, etc. the intervening spaces to be filled with miscellaneous articles. With lumber and other articles ordered in the city, five miles away, with rainy and cold weather, and the rush on all sides, it has been slow work to get the exhibits in shape. Col. Brackett, much disappointed at the preparation and temperature for his fruit in the horticultural hall, decided to make his largest display in the state ex-

The superintendent to whose lot unavoldably came the most annoyance, was Col. C. W. Huntington. He had just unloaded upon the lowa space splendid specimens of carriages, wagons, reapers, scales, barb wire, etc., when the management of the exposition interposed an objection to the placing of manufactured products and heavy machinery in the government building, claiming that it did not properly belong in the states' display but in the main building. The controversy at last accounts was still unsettled. There has been great delay getting the woman's work department adjusted. Mrs. Scott had agreed to go with other states, upon certain conditions, in the gallery opposite the Iowa space, but after numerous meetings and conferences the the chiefs of the department have not been able to make much progress toward getting ready for the several lady superintendents to place their goods.

The sanitary exhibit was ready for inspection on the opening day. In the centerof the Iowa space, a week or more ago, the much talked of corn house was erected and in charge of Mrs. T. S. Dunham. Owing to the rainy weather much of the corn sent the lady was damaged, It will require a week longer to complete it.

From the review of the work that has seen done on the Iowa exhibit, it will be inferred, and rightly too, that a large amount of work remains to be done, but as nearly every otherstate is in the same condition, the Iowa commissioners feels that they have company. The work will all be completed by January 10th or 15th, Among the Iowans whose names are pleasantly mentioned among the visitors are: W. H. Dwelle, of Ft. Dodge; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Braden and son Harry, of Des Moines; E. H. Calkins, of Burlington; James Rowan, of Dubuque;

Peter Stone, of Des Moines; R. C. Brown, of Mt. Pleasant; Mayor F. M. Drake, of Centefville, accompanied by his son John and daughter Miss Mamie, James Dunn, of Jackson county; E. G. Fracher and wife. of Iowa City; Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Reynolds, of Iowa Fails; C. S. Newbu, y and wife, of Davenport. J. Keokuk; Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Mast, of Ottumwa: Wm. McMillan, of West Lib-

Charges of Neglect in the Care of Small-Pox Case.

If one half that is currently reported. concerning the treatment of the smallupon whoever has been in fault. The girl named Froharty, who was taken down, was removed from her home on Seventh street to the pest-house, and the house quarantined. The girl may have been properly cared for there, but, if not, it will be very difficult to merit great credit for their noble effort.

A telegram to the Atchison Champion was in the house when the girl was taken sick were burned by the authorities and some blankets sent to the house to take the place, but it is said that most of o'clock this morning. Mr. Hart has these blankets were taken with the girl to the pest house, leaving the family without sufficient bedding. It is claimed that there was a lack of food also, and some private parties have sought to relieve the wants by sending in clothing and food. The daughter has thus been taken away to die in a pest house, and be buried with none of family ward every enterprise calculated to build was removed from her home on one of the worst days of the season, and this may have caused her death. To satisfy those who believe that the family have not been used humanely, there should be an official investigation, and this should be done in justice to those who have by their official position had something to do with the matter, and yet are not to blame. If there has been neglect, it should be known, and the neglect should be placed at the right door.
