The Missouri Pacific last night was four late, and all eastern trains excepting the etal were from one to two hours late, the Denver west bound on the U. P., left a depot one hour late.

Yesterday an expressman named Kellner appeared in police court and complained against another expressman named Atkinson, who, Kellner claimed, had threatened to kill his (Kellner's) horse with an axe. No arrests were made and the horse has not been killed yet.

Ex-Coroner Maul returned from Lincoln last night. He was called upon to swear to an affidavit to the effect that the description of Mrs. Alta E. Hagen, wife of the missing James E. Hagen, tallied with the general appearance of the floater who was found in the Missouri river last summer.

About three weeks ago the building of the Minnesota Boot and Shoe company at Weston, Neb., was burned down, and suspicion pointed to Lars Larson, one of the firm, as having set fire to the building. The case was worked up by a private detective of this city, who yesterday decoyed Larson to Omaha. The suspected man was clothed for a long time with the detective, and every means was taken to bring a confession from him. It was useless, however, as Larson would not admit his guilt. He will have to be released unless new evidence is discovered eliminating him.

O'Neill has a prize fighter who thinks he is going to knock out all other pugilists in short order. His name is Patrick McNally, and is a Frenchman from Cork. He has sent a few local bruisers to grass, got his picture in the Police News (which is not the organ of the Sabbath school), and he is now hardening up his knuckles for a bout with a stone wall. He imagines he can do up John L. Sullivan on short notice, and is going east to pick a fuss with that refined and respected citizen of Boston. Good bye, Mr. McNally; may your grave be kept green. (Fremont Tribune.)

Judge Benke has received a letter from Dr. Hinkle, German consul at Chicago, inquiring with reference to the number of boards of trade in Nebraska. He says that the German country is preparing a vast business directory, containing the names of 2,600 manufacturing firms in that country. These directors will be sent out to the different boards of trade throughout America, with a view of increasing the export trade of Germany. Judge Benke has replied, stating that to the best of his knowledge, there are four boards of trade in Nebraska, the names of which will be duly forwarded.

Local wheelmen are discussing with considerable interest the following definition upon an amateur, which has special bearing upon the case of the Omaha bicyclists who were so cleverly taken in by "Patterson," the alleged amateur some months ago. The definition was recently laid down by the chairman of the racing board of the Eastern League: "(a) An amateur is a person that has never competed in an open competition, (b) nor for a stake, (c) nor for public money, (d) nor for gate money, (e) nor under a false name, (f) nor with a professional when gate money was charged, (g) that has never engaged in any athletic sport for money, (h) that has never exhibited his skill in any branch of athletics for money, (i) and that is not a paid teacher of any branch of athletics. This rule not to apply to the teaching of the elements of bicycling solely for the purpose of effecting the sale of a bicycle, nor to the acts of minors under sixteen years of age that are not members of this association. Pace-making for a professional or accepting such service from a professional will violate this rule.

"GAVIN'S SISTER-IN-LAW."

A Terse and Timely Defense of a Maligned Woman.

To the editor of the Bee. In the Republican, under date of January 26, will be found an article called, "Gavin's Sister-in-law, the other side of the Maggie Walsh Replevin Case."

The whole article was manufactured for the purpose of vindicating Mr. Gavin's character (something which he never had,) in order that the Times-Dispatch might not suffer disgrace at the hands of one of the proprietors. Gavin not only tries to vindicate himself in the article, but stoops in his meanness to drag a poor befriended girl's character to the lowest possible point, in order to further his own wicked ends. He says, "Maggie, instead of being a doctile girl, has pursued a course of giddiness which places her, if not already lost, on the border of moral and social ruin. He then brings in the names of her three benefactors, Whitener, Hess and Youngusband, the former being the one that furnished a home for her after being abused and driven from Mr. Gavin's home; the latter merely figuring as a bodysman on the replevin case; the other merely being a neighbor to the house where Maggie has been stopping and in no way was connected with the case, excepting that Maggie was spending an evening with the family on the evening that Mr. Gavin called at the within house for her. Mr. Gavin and the Republican will both have a chance to prove their assertion in regard to the parties mentioned as they don't intend to pursue merely a newspaper wrangle with a man that is so mean as to rob a home of its virtue by writing lies to a newspaper. Mr. Gavin has told Maggie repeatedly that she might go ahead and get judgment against him. He did not care a d--n for the judgments and it seems to be about the case, his property being all transferred out of his hands and he is doing business under the name of P. E. Collin on Fifteenth street, near Farnam. One judgment is already against him for conduct unbecoming a neighbor and gentleman by calling to one of his neighbors houses to settle some neighborhood brawl without soft gloves, in which the neighbor woman, finding her spouse getting the best of it, pitched into Mr. Gavin and handled him pretty rough, knocking an $18 sealskin cap from his head, which has never been recovered from the neighbor's house. A tight board fence 12 ft high may be found on the north side of Mr. Gavin's house, which does not show that everything is all right. Mr. Gavin threatened to ruin Maggie's character if she did not comply with his demands by going to her home, and he has done his worst. Maggie has always been a perfect lady and has never done anything to deserve any censure. Mr. Gavin has even robbed her of her clothing so that in going out in the cold she is forced to wear borrowed clothes.

Mr. Gavin says he still retains the girl's trunk. So he does, but Constable Edgerton found that it had been transferred to other quarters and was not able to replevin it. Mr. Gavin also states in his article that his daughter is still a member of his family, and has been for the past three years. He tells an untruth in making that statement, as his daughter has not been inside of his house since last June until the 26th of this month, the night before the article in question was written, but has been boarding at a respectable house on Seventeenth street, near Jackson, and has treated her father as she would a stranger during her absence from home. HOME FOR THE BOYS. Rooms Obtained and a Newsboys Home to Be Opened at Once.

The Youth's Improvement association held a meeting Tuesday at their rooms in Koster's block, No. 109 south Fourteenth street. They have succeeded in completing almost thoroughly all necessary preparations for establishing a newsboys' home, to be conducted upon principles common with such institutions in the large cities. In the home there will be a lunch room, savings bank, sleeping compartments, reading room, night school and employment bureau. For the lunch and sleeping the boys will have to pay a nominal sum, so that pauperism will not be encouraged.

Mr. W. R. Jarvis and C. O. Howard, the president and secretary of the Y. M. C. A., will call upon some of the principal business men of the city to-day to solicit more money for the News Boys' Home. The amount they want to raise is $500, and the amount that ought to be devoted to this work by the citizens of Omaha is at least $1,000.

The home will be located in Koster's block, where meeting rooms have already been secured.

The following officers and committee boards have been elected: Officers—President, Mr. W. R. Jarvis; first vice-president, (Officer) Jno. B. Turnbull; second vice-president, Mrs. Jno. L. McQuig; corresponding secretary, John T. Bell; recording secretary, Chancy Howard; treasurer, L. M. Rheson.

Executive committee—P. C. Himebaugh, Edg. Hon. Geo. W. Frost, May or P. F. Murphy, T. M. Cummings, city marshal; Mrs. G. W. Clarke, Mrs. Jacob Crowl, Capt. J. A. Sladen, Leavitt Burnham, Warren Switzer, Dr. Gilroy, H. T. Leavitt, Judge McCulloch, Mrs. J. W. Beatty, Dr. P. S. Lelsanring, Miss Bella McDonald, Mrs. Zaviske, Mrs. S. W. Chase, Mr. Bishop Clarkson.

Boys' committee—London G. Charlton, Walter L. Forst, John McQuinlan.

HOG KILLING. Getting Ready to Spill Blood at the Packing House.

Yesterday circulars were sent out announcing the fact that the Union stock yards are now open for business and requesting shippers to bill their hogs to these yards. The packing house is now open for business, thus insuring the best market for hogs in the west. There are good pens, good water and the best of accommodations in every way.

This outlook, of course, makes the gritty commission men, who have hung on here for a year, waiting the expected flood tide, feel happy. Among the first to see the importance of Omaha as a stock market, and to take advantage of it, are Sander, Howe & Co., who occupy a high place among the handlers of stock. This firm have offices at the stock

THE CRIMINAL RECORD.

Lemke and Grenold Held for the Crime of Arson—Schroeder's Attempted Subornation of Perjury.

The case of L. Grenold and Albert Lemke, charged with arson in connection with the burning of the butcher shop on Jackson street Monday morning, was given preliminary hearing in the police court yesterday afternoon. Lee Estelle appeared for the prosecution and J. J. O'Connor for the defense.

After hearing the evidence in the case, Judge Benke held Lemke in the sum of $1,000 for the grand jury and Grenold in the sum of $200.

The testimony pointed directly to the fact of Lemke's guilt in the matter. In the first place it was shown that just a short time before Lemke had insured the furniture, contents and property of the meat market for $100, though in reality they were not worth more than $100 or $200.

John Palm, one of the five persons who were sleeping in the second story of the building when the fire broke out, testified that he was awakened by Green's rushing out and crying "fire!" He went out and met Lemke and asked what the matter was. He replied, "the butcher shop's afire and I am sorry for the boys in the second story." Lemke said he had just come from a house of ill-fame. (This statement is in direct contradiction to Lemke's declaration to one of the insurance men the next morning that he was sleeping in the building at the time that the fire broke out.)

Assistant Chief Jack Galligan testified to the circumstances of the fire, and the suspicious actions of Lemke which induced the belief that he had committed the crime of arson.

It was shown that Lemke had, twenty minutes before the fire was discovered, been in Snell's saloon on Tenth street; that as soon as the cry of fire was heard he ran down the alley to Ninth street, reappearing in the front of the building.

To the parties in the saloon Lemke claimed to have spent the evening at Kessler's hall dancing. This was proven to be false by the testimony of Mr. Kessler himself, who asserted that Lemke had not been in his hall Sunday night. In fact, Lemke's statements were so confused and contradictory that they could not but give rise to an inference of guilt. Grenold's part in the affair is not so clearly defined, and he will probably be discharged.

L. W. Schroeder was tried and sentenced to twenty days on bread and water in the county jail for stealing a porker from E. S. Jester. Schroeder's case was made all the more painfully ludicrous, not to say serious, by an abortive attempt at the subornation of perjury. While he was on trial, he wrote a note to his wife as follows:

"Mary, I want you to swear in court that you saw two men leave the pasture, and take the pig in the sack; when I came up, they took fright, and that we then picked up the pig and dressed it; that we never saw it except dead."

This note was handed to a discharged fellow-prisoner who promised to deliver it to Mrs. Schroeder. He failed to do so, however, but left it with Judge Benke, who soon became aware of its criminal contents. For this reason, the sentence was made unusually heavy.

Almost Fatal. Another one of those dangerous mistakes of the careless apothecary's clerk has recently been discovered which well nigh proved fatal.

Mrs. Eran Wyman, wife of the Fifteenth street book store man, has been suffering for a week or more with a severe illness. Tuesday night the physician in charge of the case made out a prescription for a certain medicine, which was filled at a drug store on St. Marys avenue. It seems that the medicine was compounded by a young clerk recently from Chicago, who sports a duly signed diploma. By a dangerous mistake the wrong medicine was given, a poisonous drug being substituted. The supposed physician was administered to Mrs. Wyman, and reacted immediately upon her system, with dangerous effect. For some hours her life was despaired of, though by dint of hard work she finally rallied. Mrs. Wyman is now resting easily and will probably recover.

Real Estate Transfers. The following transfers were filed in the county clerk's office Tuesday and reported for THE BEE by the Ames' real estate agency January 27, 1885.

Saunders & Himebaugh, trustees to R. C. Patterson, w. d. lot 3, block K, Saunders & Himebaugh add, $102. R. C. Patterson to U. F. Huber, w. d. lot 2, block K, Saunders & Himebaugh's add, $175. J. A. McShane to C. Carmichael, w. d. lot 34, block 3, Brookline, $150.

Wasn't There. Omaha, Jan. 27, '85. Mr. Editor, I desire to make a correction of the statement you had in yesterday's morning and evening BEE. Whoever informed you of the proceedings at Turner hall night before last was mistaken about there being an exhibition between Messrs. Kelley and Bruner, as I was at home that night and I do not wish to have my name in connection with an affair of this kind. J. W. BEUZER.

Ladies should reflect well before using any preparation that is applied to so delicate a surface as the skin. Any cosmetic will at first impart a beautifying effect and not apparently injure the skin, but in a very short time little blotches and discolorations appear on the face which conclusively show the poisonous drugs in their composition. It can be safely said that more than two-thirds of the face powders contain these injurious ingredients. Pozzoni's medicated complexion powder is not only absolutely free from all deleterious matter, but its principal ingredient is an active curative for all diseases of the skin. It has stood the test of years. Sold by all druggists.

THE NEW BISHOP.

The consecration of Rev. Dr. Worthington on the Twenty-fourth of February.

Advice were received in this city yesterday to the effect that the consecration of Rev. Dr. Worthington as bishop of Nebraska will take place at Detroit on February 24. Owing to the inability of the bishops who are to act as consecrators to be present, it has been impracticable to perform the ceremony at an earlier date. This results in a disappointment to some of the clergy from this state who had hoped to attend, as they will be detained at home by the Lenten services.

At a recent meeting of the Protestant Episcopal clergy of Detroit, the following preamble and resolution, reported by the committee, Revs. S. W. Frisbie and G. Mott Williams, were unanimously adopted:

WHEREAS, The Rev. George Worthington, S. T. D., rector of St. John's church, Detroit, after a second election to the important bishopric of Nebraska, made vacant by the death of the Rt. Rev. Dr. Clarkson, has signified his acceptance of the office and

WHEREAS, His consecration will soon take place and he will shortly remove to the scene of his future labors, therefore, we his brethren desire to offer him the following as a tribute of our love:

Resolved, That in the rectorship of Dr. Worthington in St. John's church, embracing a period of nearly 17 years, during which the parish has become one of the greatest in our communion, we recognize those manifold virtues of a loving shepherd and a wise administrator required in the office of a priest of God. Faithful in the instruction of the people committed to his charge in all things necessary to salvation; faithful in the ministrations of the sacraments and services of the church; faithful in visiting from house to house; faithful in giving godly counsel and advice to the sin-sick soul; faithful in helping the poor and needy; faithful in prayer and faithful in obedience to the lawful authority of the church, our brother has likewise shown great wisdom and zeal by enlisting the laymen and women of his parish in the formation of guilds and societies for the relief of the needy and the instruction of the ignorant, by the organization and successful maintenance of parish missions, by visitations of jails and hospitals and by many other ways in which the capacities of a great parish have been fully utilized.

Resolved, That we recognize and appreciate the great amount of good Dr. Worthington has done for the church at large, in that he has always been one of the warmest and most zealous supporters of the missionary work in the domestic and foreign field. Special and general meetings in aid of the work have been displayed by our brother and by the parish of which he is rector in the missionary work and needs of our growing diocese. Not the least part of his interest has been shown in his influencing a large number of young men to study for the sacred ministry and by assisting them by personal instruction and otherwise for their work. For a long period as a member, and latterly as president of the standing committee, for many years as a member of the convention, and as holding many other positions of trust, we recognize the ability with which he has discharged his manifold duties with fidelity and honor.

Resolved, That we shall remember him as a kind and loving brother, willing to share our joys and sympathize in our trials, and whose home and heart will have always stood open to us.

Resolved, That in his oft-repeated calls to the office of greater honor, as well as responsibility, we believe the diocese of Nebraska has chosen well, and will find him eminently fitted for that position.

Resolved, That while we, with his loved parish and the whole diocese keenly feel his departure from among us, we congratulate the diocese of Nebraska upon their choice, and our fervent prayers shall accompany our brother, that he may be found as faithful in his work there as he has been here, and so doing may merit the approval of our Common Lord and Master.

More Than a Success. The lecture by Rev. T. F. Clark at the First Methodist church Tuesday is pronounced by all who heard it more than a success. Mr. Clark spoke without notes, his manner was very captivating. From his first sentences, the audience was completely under his control. For two hours they gave closest attention and heard the closing words with regret.

Beginning with London, the lecturer took his hearers hastily through Europe, spending most of the time in recounting his experiences in Asia. The account of his entertainment at a Parace hotel was full of information and bristled with laugh-provoking incidents.

A most striking word picture was that of a Purse funeral, and those who heard it will not soon forget the striking contrast drawn between that and a Christian funeral, at which the lecturer himself had officiated.

A thrilling account was given of an adventure in an Indian village, from which the speaker barely escaped with his life. All who listened were sorry that time prevented the pilgrim from taking them with him in his journey to the Himalaya mountains.

The lecture was more than advertised. The descriptions were wholly new, being such as are not found in books of travel. We doubt if there is a lecturer who gives an audience a whole evening of such entirely unique narrations. We bespeak Mr. Clark a crowded house if he shall visit our city again.
