

THE DAILY BEE

Saturday Morning, Feb. 7.

LOCAL BREVITIES.

The ferry train will commence running over the river today.

Reveling meetings are held at the First M. E. church, on Davenport street every evening.

The first society of spiritualists will meet at Metropolitan hall, corner of Fourteenth and Dodge streets tomorrow (Sunday) at 2 and 7 p. m.

The tinners and cornice workers of the city held a meeting last night and decided to effect a permanent organization at a meeting to be held at some future date.

Tom Murray has commenced a number of actions to compel a number of his objectionable tenants, on the southeast corner of Fourteenth and Jackson, to move out.

The committee of the workmen who went to Lincoln to look after the convict labor bill returned Thursday night and report that they succeeded in inducing the committee to give the bill a favorable preliminary hearing.

The special car containing the scenery of the "Storm Beaten" company, arrived in Omaha this morning. It is a model of beauty and is supplied with all the modern conveniences for the transportation of live scenery.

A letter from Dick Dwyer, the first baseman of the old U. P. club, announces that Frank Bandle has signed with the White League club of St. Louis. Mr. Dwyer, Lynch and Walsh will sign with the Rochester Base Ball association.

Yesterday was the regular occasion of distribution of food and fuel to the county poor, and the matinee of Superintendent Pierce was quite largely attended. The demand for coal and wood has fallen off very largely since the recent warm weather.

The Painters' union effected a permanent organization at the city hall last night, and elected officers as follows: C. W. Campbell, president; Thomas Simpson, secretary; Harry De, treasurer.

Forty-one members were enrolled, and they intend to combine against any reduction in wages. Another meeting will be held next Tuesday night.

The building at the corner of Capitol avenue and Thirteenth street, well known as the old Creighton house, has been leased by the Omaha Surgical and Medical Institute and will at once be furnished for a medical institution. There are fifty rooms which will be used for patients and this will double the means of bringing many patients to Omaha for treatment.

The day is not far distant when Omaha will be known as medical headquarters.

It will be interesting to those engaged in the public improvement of Omaha to know that recent asphalt investigation in the city has been fully upheld by the action of the Chicago authorities with reference to the adoption of asphalt. The county judge deciding that the ordinance as originally framed was illegal. The Chicago aldermen immediately went to work and framed a new ordinance ordering asphalt, and it is quite probable that the streets of the western metropolis will be paved with that material.

PERSONAL.

W. B. Murphy, of Maringo, is at the Paxton.

Chas. T. Dickinson, Tekamah, is at the Millard.

R. P. Holmes, of Beatrice, is staying at the Millard.

W. R. Monroe of Clark, is a guest at the Millard.

J. M. Hedge and wife, of Clear Creek, are at the Paxton.

Mr. James Stephenson has gone to St. Louis for a few days stay.

Thirteen members of the "Storm Beaten" company are at the Good hotel.

E. B. Vashburg, agent of "the Gaiety company" is in the city quartered at the Metropolitan.

Mr. A. H. Swan, the great cattle man from Cheneyne, is in the city and is staying at the Millard.

Mrs. C. H. Walker, of Denver, who has been visiting in Omaha for some time, left yesterday for her western home.

John T. Burke, Miss Charlotte Wayland and Miss Leslie Leigh, of the "Storm Beaten" company are at the Millard.

J. W. Collier, manager of the "Storm Beaten" company, and wife are at the Millard. Mrs. Collier is the leading lady.

Assistant Chief Galligan of the fire department returned last night from Lincoln where he has been visiting the fire boys for the past week.

Geo. H. Hobson, Publisher, C. A. C. L. Lamb Stanton, H. A. Chamberlain, and James Slater, Chicago were registered at the Paxton last night.

Ed O'Connor, the popular saloonist, corner of Sixteenth street and Capital avenue, returned yesterday from a few days sojourn in Lincoln.

L. H. Deason, Crete, Neb., M. B. Thrift, J. F. Mend, Beatrice, A. B. Christian, Fairmount, were Nebraskans registered at the Millard last night.

George Mitchell, of Milwaukee, is at the Paxton. He registered from Cheneyne and John Donnelly says that he is trying to be a bald, bald man and palm himself off for a genuine cowboy, but he can't.

Mr. W. H. Kent, a former Omaha journalist, and probably as well known as any newspaper man who ever lived in Omaha, has been engaged as editor of the Laramie Boomerang and already his work begins to show.

Mr. Edmund Collier, leading man of the "Storm Beaten" company, is at the Millard. Mr. Collier has attained considerable prominence as an actor. He was for a long time leading man for John McCulloch and proposes to "star" next season.

M. Elgutter, the clothier, leaves to-day for the east on a combined business and pleasure trip. During his absence he will visit his son at Harvard College and will come home by the way of New Orleans and pay his respects to the World's exposition.

Thos. Leighton, Plattsmouth, J. J. Andrews, Wynona, John Clark, David City, A. K. Mack, Sutton, M. S. Collins, Grand Island, A. C. Vincent, Hastings, W. Townsend, David City, E. S. Abbott, and child, Lincoln, W. E. Smith, St. Paul and A. B. Skelton, of North Loup, Neb., are stopping at the Metropolitan.

Do not be deceived; ask for and take only B. H. Douglas & Sons' Capiscum Cough Drops for Coughs, Colds and Sore Throat. D. S. and Trade Mark on every drop.

A VILLAIN'S WILES.

A Man Seduces an Innocent and Friendless Girl and then Disorients Her.

In the Clutches of the Law. Chooses to Marry her but Disowns and Drives her from his Home.

Emma Green-Krambeck, an unfortunate young girl lying dangerously ill at St. Joseph's hospital, has a sad and peculiar story.

Some months ago, the girl, then Emma Green, entered suit against a farmer living near Florence, William Krambeck, for seduction. The case was subsequently compromised by Krambeck marrying the girl, who preferred this method of settlement. Krambeck and his wife then left the court room. By an adroit species of villainy, Krambeck succeeded in deserting his wife in the streets and then running off to his home at Florence, leaving Mrs. Krambeck, who is nothing more than a young girl, wandering aimlessly about the city. She finally found her way out to the Krambeck farm, but was driven away by her seducer and a woman who claims to be his wife. The next day the girl appeared in tears before the judge, and told him her story.

Judge Weiss kindly advised her that under the circumstances the best thing she could do would be to go back to her husband and compel him to treat her as a husband should a wife. The young girl walked back to Florence and beseeched Krambeck to receive her into his home. He demurred strongly at first, but finally consented that she should come to his house and live. She remained there a short time, and was again driven into the streets. She wandered about until at last she was taken in by kindly parties, not, however, before she had suffered severe injuries from freezing. Krambeck was at length prevailed upon to accord the girl, whom he had betrayed, some slight show of justice. He brought her to Omaha and secured quarters for her at a dingy little house in quarters of the vilest kind. There he left her. About to become a mother, Mrs. Krambeck was placed in the hands of a midwife on North Sixteenth street. After the birth of the child she was removed to the hospital, where she now lies in a precarious condition, suffering from puerperal fever.

The man Krambeck, who accomplished the girl's ruin and subsequently refused to allow her the faintest shadow of her rights as recognized by moral and civil law, is a villain worthy of the deepest contempt and abhorrence. Those interested in the case have determined to prosecute him, should his victim die.

SALA'S ASSERTIONS.

One of Them Flatly Contradicted by Historic Facts.

To the Editor of THE BEE.

I have read in to-day's issue of THE BEE an interview with that celebrated English journalist, Sala. He has charged that the chasm which exists between England and Ireland was caused by religion. That is an infamous lie. Look at the long list of Irish patriots who sacrificed their lives for the unfortunate country and people. What was Lord Edward Fitzgerald, Wolfe, Tone, Hamilton, Rhone, G. B. McCrackin, Munroe, the Emmets, Curran and Steel, the brother Sharo, Grattan, William Smith O'Brien, John Mitchell, and the grand old Parson James, great Col. Orr, present recognized leader; E. S. Farnell, with hundreds of others.

Not one of these men were of the religion of the common people, or as I may put it, Catholic. Then look at what Catholicity did for freedom, it produced two men—O'Connell and Shields. And as to the Catholic church fostering the feeling of anarchy, it is false. A faction of the church in former days was no more the tool of England than the police were. Some of the priests compelled the ignorant peasant to pray for the queen and the royal family, especially since Maynooth got the subsidy of £80,000 per annum for the Duoboyne establishment.

I would not have noticed Sala's slander if it was in a penny sheet, but in such a paper as the Bee, which spreads its broadcast to the world, I could not let it pass without making an effort to refute it through my effort is feeble.

The volunteers of 1782 were Protestant to a man, commanded by Lord Charlemont, Flood and Browne when 11,000 Protestants with armies in their hands shook England to her foundation and compelled her to open her ports for the world's commerce.

The rebellion of '98 was nurtured in the Protestant institution of Trinity college, Dublin, where a Catholic graduate never passed its doors. The cause of the chasm was England's greed for money coupled with her brutality, such as she dispensed in the colonies of America, causing them to throw off her yoke. Mr. Sala is like the majority of his countrymen, ignorant of Irish affairs and too prejudiced to give a true version of it. M. J. O'CONNOR.

ULLEN CASE.

Arrest of the Important Witnesses Who Make Criminating Statements.—Other Details.

Testimony in the case of Carrie Mullen, who was arrested Thursday night for tampering with the United States mail, in opening letters not her own, is accumulating. There is now every probability that the woman will be bound over on the serious charge to the jurisdiction of the United States authorities.

Yesterday two important witnesses in the case were arrested, and being unable to furnish bonds, jailed. The first one was Lillie Woods, a sporting woman, who has been in Carrie Mullen's house. The witness was Carrie on the lot, as she admitted to Officer Donovan, and had so declared to several parties. She was about to leave town, having made every preparation to do so, but was cleverly captured by Donovan, just as she was about to leave for Council Bluffs. She will be held as an important, if not the most important witness against the Mullen woman.

The second party arrested is a girl named Chub Raymond, who also claims to have seen Carrie open the letters and abstract therefrom the money. The witness furthermore confesses that Carrie, on divers occasions had opened letters which came addressed to girls in her care, and to violate the privacy of whose correspondence she had not the slightest right.

There is another witness in the case, a boy, not yet named, who is connected with Carrie Mullen for opening the letters, and to whom, as alleged, that party made reply. I am going to keep this money for what it is worth. This evidence is quite direct, and is regarded of sufficient strength to hold the defendant when taken before United States Commissioner Anderson. Inspector John Steen, of the postoffice department, has looked the matter up, and is determined to push the case.

Carrie Mullen denies ever having opened any letters belonging to the sick woman, or taking any money from her. The credit of working up the case rests with Officer Donovan, who has been quietly engaged for three days past procuring evidence, and who made the first discovery which led to the detection of the crime.

COAL GAS.

Narrow Escape of Wm. Rocheford and Family Thursday Night.

Thursday Wm. Rocheford and family who reside near the corner of Eighteenth and Castellar streets, narrowly escaped death by the inhaling of coal gas, which escaped from a baseburner stove.

Mr. Rocheford has a family consisting of his wife and five children, and upon retiring last evening Mr. Rocheford closed, as he supposed, the stove, in such a manner as to prevent the escapement of gas.

The baby was ailing slightly and restless and its crying aroused the father about midnight. He found himself hardly able to rise and noticed that two, his wife and one of the children, were struggling for breath. Comprehending the situation, he made his way to the door, threw them open, and called to the neighbors for help. This gave partial relief to the victims, and the neighbors telephoned for Dr. Swetnam, who completed airing the house, and gave such remedies as were necessary to revive the family.

The family were pronounced all out of danger, but had such a narrow escape as was not pleasant to contemplate. They were so nearly asphyxiated that it was a parent half an hour longer would have found not more than one or two alive.

An examination of the stove showed that a piece of mica had fallen from one of the doors, allowing the deadly gas to escape and fill the rooms.

Sacred Concert.

By request of a large number of their friends the Musical Union orchestra has concluded to hold their Sunday afternoon concert in Boyd's opera house. On next Sunday afternoon, at 3 o'clock they will give a grand sacred concert in the opera house, with the following program:

- 1. Coronation March, "Prophet," Meyerbeer
- 2. Overture, "The Mill on the Rock," Reisinger
- 3. Cornet Solo, "The Steinhilber," Steinhilber
- 4. H. T. Irvine
- 5. Bridal Procession, "Lohengrin," Wagner
- 6. Overture, "Dame Blanche," Boieldieu
- 7. Evening Song, "The Bohemians," Volz
- 8. Idyll, "The Forge in the Forest," Beethoven
- 9. Overture, "The Forge in the Forest," Beethoven
- 10. "The Skaters," Waldteufel

Omaha as a Stock Center.

The receipts of cattle, hogs and sheep at Schaller's bridge yards have been unusually heavy the last ten days. Fraen & Burke have received consignments of nearly 100 cars, all finding ready purchasers, not one car being allowed to go on to Chicago, which shows that Omaha is rapidly becoming a good stock center. On Wednesday they placed on the market some of the finest steers offered here within the last twelve months, of which Harris & Fischer, the well-known butchers, were ready purchasers. They paid almost Chicago prices, and for such cattle say they are ready to do so at any time.

IN THE RAIL.

Stopping-Over Privileges for the Inspecting Emigrant to be Conceded.—Personal Intelligence.

The following circular has been issued by the Union Pacific:

"By courtesy of the Central Pacific railway, we are permitted to assure immigrants to California, holding emigrant or third-class tickets, that they will be allowed to stop over at points in that state short of destination for the purpose of inspecting lands with a view to settlement. The privilege of stopping over is confined to points in California. The time of stop-over must not exceed ten days at any one station. Passengers should notify conductors that they wish to stop off, naming station. The agent at each station will take up passenger's ticket and give a receipt for same. Upon surrendering agent's receipt, when the journey is to be resumed passenger will receive his ticket endorsed by agent, good for the further journey. The same course will be followed at each station at which passenger wishes to stop over. Baggage will be checked to destination named in ticket, but should a passenger decide to remain at a station at which he has stopped over, the agent receiving the ticket where passenger leaves train will have baggage returned from station at which it has been checked, to the station at which passenger decides to remain. Every passenger of the Union Pacific railway, holding an emigrant ticket to any point in California, is entitled to the concession above named. For instance, if passenger holds an emigrant ticket to San Francisco, he can stop off at any or several points between Truckee and San Francisco."

PERSONAL Gossip.

T. J. Potter, general manager of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy, arrived in the city last night, accompanied by his private secretary. He disclaims any official business in connection with his visit, and will leave to-day for the south.

Charles Atkins, general agent of the passenger and ticket department of the U. P., with headquarters at Beatrice, Mo., is in the city. Mr. Atkins was formerly agent of the Northwestern in this city.

Traveling Agent Murdock, of the C. & A., after a brief visit to Omaha, has returned to headquarters at Kansas City.

THE EVENT OF THE ERA.

The Press Club Ball on the Evening of February 12th.

A Mastodon and Peerlessly Transcendent Scheme of the Collocative Brain of Omaha Journalism !!!

"The Press Club Ball!" How the heart of the Omaha society man flutters with expectant joy, as this stupendous event becomes more and more brightly outlined against the black sky of futurity, like the pillar of fire ready to guide to the sphere of untrammelled joy and festivity! Gigantic undertaking of journalistic genius! Elegant epitome of elysian ecstacy! Tickets, one dollar, for sale everywhere. (The reader will kindly excuse this abrupt transition, business is business.)

Without prevarication, the event promises to be one of extraordinary brilliance. No effort will be spared to make the event one of royal joy and festivity. Among the many features of the occasion, in addition to the fighting reporter, will be the unexcelled, peerlessly transcendent "all-around" reporter.

This wonderful creature is anywhere and everywhere. Will report a prayer meeting and "size up" a bass ball game; can write up Mrs. Peckin's elegant chiny wedding, and report a cock-fight. Retaining from a trip to a red-hot revival meeting, he will get points on a scorching South Thirteenth "scrap," and before he jumps into the office will incidentally drop on to a bull-fight. Will preside with ease as the ruling genius of a card party, and upon hearing an alarm of fire will kick over the table, "pot" and all, in his frantic haste to jump to the hose cart. He feels perfectly at ease in the atmosphere of a Baptist convention, and after reporting the proceedings of one of these bodies, is itching to write up the Barnes-McNally mill; who is as a sort of relish you know, he will sling up a slug-head item about the happy nuptials of Miss Hegenbott, the belle of Capitol avenue; to Mr. Dogenzosh, the handsome young member of the local bank clerk fraternity, and winding up the night's work with a tender dirge of a black and tan terrier found dead in the street.

In fact, he is a wonderful creature this "all-around" reporter, and the society heart of Omaha will be filled with pride and amaze upon gazing at the wonderful specimen of mammoth-brain journalism. Hold up your hands and deliver them, to the extent of one dollar!

Ladies! Physicians and chemists have analyzed Pozzoni's medicated complexion powder and recommend its use to their wives and lady friends. Who better could be said of it.

A COMPLETE SURPRISE.

Mr. and Mrs. John W. Bell Taken by Storm Thursday Night.

Thursday night a pleasant and agreeable surprise was given to Mr. and Mrs. John W. Bell, at their residence, 1409 Park Wild avenue. About sixty of their friends gathered at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. W. Meyers, on Pacific street at 8 o'clock and marched in a body to Mr. Bell's house, where the guests were made to feel thrice welcome and amusements of various kinds indulged in. Card playing and tripping the light fantastic taking precedence. At about 11 o'clock Mr. Edwin R. Mathews called the assembly together and in a very neat and appropriate speech, presenting Mr. Bell with a beautiful cherry and brocade plush rocking chair, on behalf of his friends who had gathered together for the purpose of spending the evening of his thirty-sixth birthday with him. Mr. Bell in treacherous voice thanked his friends for so kindly remembering him at this time. The guests were invited to partake of a bountiful repast, which was duly appreciated by all concerned. There were present:

- Mrs. L. S. Stevens, Salt Lake, Utah, M. W. Burnham and wife, Geo. W. Meyers and wife, Miss Abbie Cypher, Chas. H. Mack and wife, Jerome K. Coulter and wife, Mrs. Francis S. Atkins, Miss Jennie Sampson, Miss Addie Sampson, Miss Katie Wilcox, Theo. E. Cannon, A. W. Beach, Walter C. Kelly, John Gannon, S. W. Hanson, S. J. Kimsey, B. C. Bell, F. A. Bulch, Jerry Mulvihill, and many others whose names could not be learned.

A little after midnight the guests bade Mr. and Mrs. Bell good night, all agreeing that they had spent a very pleasant and enjoyable evening.

WHAT'S THE MATTER NOW?

George Howard Gets Out of Jail Before the Expiration of His Sentence.

On the 22d day of December last, George Howard, the one-eyed thief, was sentenced to thirty days in the county jail on bread and water and fined $20 and the cost of presentment. Taken altogether this would amount to seventy-two days in the county jail, which would keep Howard until the 6th day of March.

Howard has been out of jail for several days and the question now is, "how did he get out?" Judge Benke says he knows nothing of his release, so he has given no order for any such business and at he is the man who is supposed to be house arrest, provided they are released before the expiration of their sentence, he would like to know something about the matter.

The marshal and police judge propose to look up the matter and see who is responsible for the discharge of prisoners before the expiration of their time. It is a disreputable character, and the only safe place for him is behind the prison bars, and to have him released before his sentence is served out is quite a serious matter and calls for an investigation.

A Pleasant Card Party.

On Wednesday evening Miss Ijams gave a most delightful progressive euchre party in honor of her guest, Miss Carrie Bishop, of Denver. Although intended as a rather informal affair, the exquisite taste of the fair hostess and her friend made it one of the most enjoyable gatherings which has taken place this winter. The guests began to arrive at 7:30. Playing commenced at 8 o'clock and the excitement continued until 10:30, when all partook of a most delectable supper; after which the play was resumed till 12. At that time the handsome prizes were awarded to the fortunate winners. Mrs. Minnie Richardson was the favored one of the ladies, with Miss Brown, of Chicago, as second, while Miss Dollie McCrackin was given the prize for the lowest games won. Of the gentlemen, Mr. John Clark secured the first, and Mr. Bark the second prize. Mr. Nate Cray was jubilant with the last one. There were present during the evening: Mrs. Ijams, Mrs. Bemis, Mrs. Ed. Peck, Misses Carrie Ijams, Carrie Bishop, Minnie Richardson, Grace Chambers, Julia and Mary Knight, Mary Lake, Brown, Dollie McCrackin, Butler, Henshaw, Clara Deane, Jessie Millard, Nora and Margaret Boyd, Mattie Sharp, Mrs. Callie McConnell; Messrs. Ijams, Ed. Peck, Wollent, Nate and Wil Cray, Garlich, Sharp, Frank and Will Hamilton, Butler, Lee Fankhouser, Jno. Clark, Clement Chase, Ed. Rapp, Beach Maurice, and others.

POLICE COURT.

A Check Fined Placed in Limbo to Await Trial.

Yesterday's session in police court was not a decidedly interesting one, although several important cases were called.

The first man to stand before his honor and face the music was Dan Daly, who was charged with having been drunk. He pleaded guilty and was fined $5 and costs.

MIKE McLaughlin, a three-time winner, was the next victim. He said he would leave town, but the judge said, "Oh, no, not until you pay $5 and costs and eat bread and drink water in the county jail for five days."

Jerry Kerran was charged with disorderly conduct and fighting. He pleaded guilty, but promised to leave the city. The judge said he thought the city would be greatly benefited by his leaving and said he would give him $1 and costs and sentenced him to fifteen days in the county jail on bread and water, but suspended sentence in case he got out of town by noon.

Charles Wilson was charged with being a suspicious person. He pleaded not guilty and his case was continued. Mr. Neu, who was fined out of $20, by a bogus check a few days since, recognized Wilson as the man who "worked" him. When arrested Wilson was trying to work off another check.

J. H. Vicary was charged with being a suspicious person. He pleaded not guilty and his case was continued. He is the man who was sleeping over Gring's auction store and left the door open the night of the robbery. It is thought by the police that he knows something about the robbery.

Wm. Johnson was charged with selling an overcoat, valued at $5 and a suit of clothes, valued at $10, from James Herne. He pleaded not guilty and was held for trial.
