The Glen Avenue Progressive Euchre club was entertained last night by Mrs. F. O. Gleason.

This sale only lasts one week. Come early and buy dry goods at prime cost. Cocks & Morgan.

The board of registration meet next Monday at the city building to correct and change the list.

This week you can save 1-3 per cent by buying your dry goods of Cocks & Morgan, 347 Broadway.

Regular meeting of Fidelity Council No. 156, R. A., this (Friday) evening. A full attendance is desired.

The three lodges of Knights of Pythias united in giving a very enjoyable party in Everett's hall last evening.

Dr. Lawrence having sold his residence to John N. Baldwin is planning to build another fine one of Fifth avenue.

Reserved seats for Capt. Seeley's lecture Tuesday evening, the 24th inst., can be procured at Bushnell's and at Foster Bros.

John Below and Eva Gilbert were yesterday happily made husband and wife by Justice Hendricks in his magisterial parlors.

Samuel Baaty and Ella Pendergast, both of Jones township, were joined in marriage yesterday afternoon by Justice Schurz.

Mr. Gillette, of Burlington Junction, is the patentee of a stalk cutter, is planning to settle here, and manufacture them at this point.

Dr. Seybert has fitted up a new suite of rooms for his office, in the same building in which his office has been for some time, No. 525 Broadway.

The Omaha post, G. A. R., give a ball this evening. They have ordered one hundred loaves of Boston brown bread from Smith & Loercke, of this city.

Mrs. Julia Saar died at her home in Key Creek township Wednesday afternoon. The funeral will be held this afternoon at 1 o'clock at the Brick church in the Plummer settlement.

The G. A. R. should realize a handsome sum out of the lecture of Capt. Seeley next Tuesday evening, as the money is for the relief fund for the orphans and widows of soldiers. Everybody should buy one or more tickets.

Very neatly framed advertisements of the public library were yesterday hung in the several hotel offices of the city, calling the attention of strangers and travellers to the fact that Council Bluffs has one of the best public libraries in the west, and that the excellent reading room is open to all who may choose to come there.

A man named Gordon, who was sentenced to jail as a vagrant by Justice Schurz the other day, appears as one wanted in Johnson county, Kansas, having broken jail there. A telegram received from Sheriff W. H. K. Hedrick states that he will be here to-day to take Gordon back.

To-night the X. Y. Z. club will give an entertainment in the parlors of the Congregational church. It will be a Lady Washington tea party, with a large number of characters of the time of 1776. Admission free. Supper 25 cents. Table set from 5:30 to 10:30. Good music. Much mirth. A present to every one who attends.

The Cass County Democrat is showing up the great cost which the county is being put to in caring for the poor, and is urging the purchase of a poor farm. Last year it cost Cass county $6,000 for its poor, and this year it will cost $7,000. These of the east end of Pottawatomie county, who are so anxious to be joined to Cass county should take warning. If joined to Cass county they would still have some taxes to pay.

There are almost as many democratic candidates for governor as for aldermen of the Fourth ward. The following is a partial list, which is constantly being added to: E. H. Thayer and N. A. Merrill, of Clinton; C. E. Whiting and Dan Campbell, of Monona; D. P. Stubbs, of Jefferson; J. H. Murphy and D. N. Richardson, of Scott; J. H. Keastley, Pottawatomie; J. D. Whitman, of Dallas; J. H. Duncombe, of Webster; Justus Clark, of Montgomery; W. B. Culbertson, of Des Moines county; W. H. Merritt and W. W. Witmer, of Polk; Judge Jaeger, of Lee; P. G. Ballingall, of Wapello; W. T. Smith, of Mahaska; L. R. Bolter, of Harrison; Reuben Noble, of Clayton; W. H. M. Poney and W. R. Vaughan, of Pottawatomie, and Geo. Bond, of Johnson county.

Notice. I hereby give notice to all, not to trust my wife on my account, as I will not be after pay no bills for her contracting. JAMES WINANS. COUNCIL BLUFFS, Feb. 18, 1885.

E. L. Smith is an enterprising advertiser of his wood yard. He has hung a neat sign on the rail in front of the post office.

SEDUCTIVE SMILES.

They Lead a Young Woman to Ruin and a Young Man to Prison.

An Eastern Wedding Sadly Interfered With By An Iowa Sheriff.

A young lady of prepossessing appearance, of fine family, and of excellent previous reputation is now stopping with her friends here, and has a sad story to relate of how she became the victim of seductive smiles. According to her statements she was three or four years ago living in Hastings and there became acquainted with a gay and festive traveling man named C. A. Randall, who seemed so much captivated by her as she was by him. His visits to her soon became those of a lover, and of the betrothed, and yielding to his importunities, she became unto him a wife in fact without the sanction of the law to warrant her in claiming that title.

She hunted in vain for some trace of his whereabouts, and almost broke her heart with grief, receiving a letter from her, containing her name and describing her sufferings, hurried to Denver and brought her and her child back, and since then a search has been kept up for the young man whom she charged with her ruin.

A short time ago it was learned that he was traveling for an eastern house, and was making his home in Springfield, Mass., and Sheriff Farrell, of Mills county, getting the necessary requisition papers, went after him. On arriving there he learned that the young man was engaged to marry an estimable young widow of that place, and that the ceremony would have already been performed, had not the widow been taken ill, necessitating a postponement of the wedding for three weeks. Just before the wedding day Sheriff Farrell arrived and surprised the young man by placing him under arrest and bringing him back to Iowa, lodging him at last in the Mills county jail, the grand jury having found an indictment against him. He soon furnished the needed bonds, and was released from jail, to appear at the next term of the district court, which opens here March 2. Then it will appear what defense he will make to the serious charge, and whether the young lady can corroborate her claim that he is the cause of her disgrace and suffering.

RILEY IS RILED.

Who Shall Decide When Justices Disagree?

To the Editor of the Bee.

NEOLA, Iowa, February 19.—I see in your paper of the 18th inst. an article bearing the caption of "Justice at Neola." The facts, as to the date of the hearing are concerned are true. But the idea that Justice Schurz is trying to convey is absolutely false. I am the justice before whom his case is pending, and I know of no reason why Mr. Schurz or anyone else would make an assertion that a "snap judgment" was sought to be obtained before me. I would say this that I do not believe that a man who had such a conviction would let a man that he suspected try a case for him, when he could change the venue—a right that he has under the law. I am now serving my second term as justice of the peace and there is no such thing as a snap judgment allowed before me. I take this position in those matters that it will not prejudice any man's case to try it on my merits. The reason that Mr. Schurz did not get a hearing before me on the 17th inst. was that it was not possible for me to be at home on that day, and I adjourned hearing of the case indefinitely on my own motion and will give Mr. Schurz very little notice on what day it will be heard as soon as I decide when I can hear it, which will, of course, have to be within the statute limitation. Knowing that it would be a disappointment to Mr. Schurz, I met him at Weston long before he reached Neola, and told him the fact of adjournment. He did not seem very well satisfied with it. But I will give him notice now that I run my court. RILEY CLARK, Justice of the Peace, Neola, Ia.

J. B. Johansson to J. H. Crommett, 1/2, nw 1/4, 4.77, 38, $310.00.

H. N. Sbart to J. H. Yoder, 1/2, se 1/4, 77, 38, $2,000.00.

Total sales, $3,110.00.

Both Negligent. Some weeks ago Bell & Hall's grocery team ran away on Broadway, and in their wild rush collided with a platform scale, sitting on the sidewalk in front of Scholastic's store, he having this exposed there for sale for some time. Goldstein sued Bell & Hall before Justice Hendricks, claiming $18 for damages on account of the scales being smashed. It was claimed that the driver of Bell &

Hall's team was negligent in leaving the horses standing in the street unattended, in violation of the city ordinance. On the other hand, it was claimed that Goldstein was violating a city ordinance in allowing the scale to stand on the sidewalk, and that there was contributory negligence on his part. The justice decided in favor of the defendant, holding that Goldstein was more negligent in allowing the scale to stand on the sidewalk than the driver was, he being near his team when they were standing unattended. Goldstein will, therefore, have to stand the damage to the scales himself.

A WAY AND A WILL.

Some Interesting Contests Over the Estates Left by Those Who Have Gone Before.

The circuit court was engaged Wednesday and Thursday morning in the hearing of the demurrer to the petition in the case of the D. W. Flower Ice company vs. Elizabeth B. Klein. The petition states that the defendant was the wife of John A. Klein, now deceased; that at his death he left a will; that his wife elected to take under the will in Mississippi, and afterward procured her dower to be set aside in John A. Klein's lands in Iowa; that the plaintiffs are creditors of John A. Klein, and that they have been prejudiced by her taking under the will in Mississippi and her dower in Iowa. The demurrer is on the grounds that plaintiffs should have raised their objections at the time of the assignment of dower; that the widow had the right to elect in each state whether she would take under the will or under the law; that by the terms of the will she was entitled to both the property given her by the will and dower and that an election to be binding in this state must be entered on the records of the circuit court which had not been done.

The action is an important one as it involves a large amount of valuable property in the vicinity of Council Bluffs. The plaintiffs are represented by Sapp & Pusey, Palmer & Ware and Robert Percival as attorneys and the defendant by her attorneys, Dalley & Smith.

Sapp, Percival and Ware made arguments for plaintiff and Walter Smith on the part of Dalley & Smith. The arguments were all good and particularly that of Mr. Smith which is spoken of as being a very able effort and to outsiders conclusive of the question involved.

TRYING TO BREAK A WILL.

Objections have been filed against admitting to probate the will of James Dillard, of Grove township. From these objections it appears that the deceased was, at the time of his death, upwards of 70 years of age, and that during his last illness, about ten days before his death, he made a will giving his property, amounting to about $5,000, to his wife and son Robert, leaving the other children without any inheritance. It is claimed that the others had been given some portion during their lifetime, except one daughter, Mrs. Maxley, who filed the objections. It appears that she had received $500 from her father on condition that she should pay him 10 per cent interest on it during his lifetime, and at his death the money should be hers. In making this arrangement she gave her promissory note for this amount. Instead of having this amount given her in the will, she was not remembered, and the note stood out against her, and the other heirs would not let it to her. She therefore objects to the will being admitted to probate, claiming that the old man when he made the will was so affected by the disease that by the medicines that he was not in mental condition to make a will intelligently. Several witnesses testified in support of this claim, it appearing that the old gentleman was in such a stupor that he had to be roused from time to time in making the will, and that he was wandering in his mind and rambling in his talk at the time. Frank Shinn, of Carson, was the attorney for the dissatisfied heir.
