Stocks—The stock market has been feverish and irregular, but with a tendency toward lower quotations. In early dealings there was a decline of 1/2, this was followed by a reaction in which the early losses was recovered, and at the end of the first hour, in most cases the quotations were higher than the opening figure, the tendency of prices is downward for the next two hours; the lowest price being reached before 1. This was followed by a reaction which carried the quotations to the highest figure of the day for the most active stocks, the extreme advance being reached about 2 p.m. In the last hour a portion of the advance was again lost, but the market finally closed steady to strong prices, generally 1/2 to 1/4 lower than last evening.
