The county auditor is already receiving inquiries about the bonds which the county will issue for the courthouse and jail. The county being all out of debt, the bonds will be gilt-edge, and it is evident that they will be sold as fast as issued, and at a premlum, thus redeeming another pledge made to the people by these who advocated the new buildings.

The friends of Lerch, the German edltor, are almost discouraged at the prospect of getting ball for him. It is threatened that if released on bail he will be arrested on the charge of having forged the name of Mr. Crossland, the insurance man, to a check and trying to get it cashed. This if true, would throw him in limbo again. There is much sympathy prise. There was a general expression felt for Mr. Lerch's family, but it looks now as if the law would be allowed to take its course.

Council Bluffs citizens should give Hon. W. H. M. Pusey a rousing reception upon his return to that city from Washington. No man could have done more for their financial interests than has he, his last effort being the getting of appropriations amounting to $150,000 for the public building at the Bluffs, the first appropriation for which ($100,000) he also secured. He deserves splendid treatment at the hands of the people of that city, regardless of political feeling and belief .- Cass County Democrat.

THE VERDICT.

How [it Was Received in Council Blaffe.

The news that Dr. Cross had been con victed of murder in the first degree and that I the jury recommended hanging, caused a great stir in this city yesterday.

There was a great diversity of opinion, but to nearly all the verdict came as a house. Manning, Cushing & Co., who surprise, even to many who themselves will handle boots and shoes manufacfelt that such should be the verdict. tured by Pettingall & Co., who have fac-Many expected that there would be a verdict of manslaugher, others that it would be acquittal, and still more that the jury, inetead of Dr. Cross, would hang. That a verdict of murder should be returned so quickly was a surthat the end was not yet; that there would be a new trial granted, and that with stay of proceedings and various delays, the final outcome would be that

Dr. Cross would get clear. with the verdict. Others there are who, while having no enmity toward Dr. Cross, feel that the verdict is just, and are only surprised that a jury should for once come so near bitting the nail on the head. The community seemed divided greatly, however, and more so than before the trial, as the evidence has been so conflicting in many respects, and so little can be learned from eye-witnesses as to just what occurred in the deadly struggle, which ended Dr. McKune's life.

Under the law in this state the pris oner stays no less than one year and no more than fifteen months in the penitentiary before hung. The place of execution in such a case would be the jail yard of the county where he was convicted. 2d.
