A Mechanic's Slip and Fatal Clutch,

Cincinnati Commercial Gazette.

Joseph Bohlman, 25 years aga, a machanicin the employ of John H. McGowan & Co., was instantly killed at 5:30 p. m. yesterday, on a roof of the Gibson House, by contact with the large electric light he brought the little one out in safety, wire. This is the first fatal accident of At another time he saved the life of a boy

The victim had been sent by his employers of the pump works to take at order from the engineer of the Gibson House for a condenser for a steam pipe over the laundry. It was found necessary for him to ascend to the laundry roof, at one of the highest of the building, they reached through a scuttle. It has con-C. There was no time for there for: it was there, a stout wire, and he grasped it. Of course Fells had no time to think and warn. He says that doubtless he would have made the same fatal mistake himself under like circumstances. Had the wire not been there Bohlman would not have fallen from the roof, as it ran down against another wall. The body was soon taken down to a ower and flat roof on the south, where the writer saw it. A sheet was thrown over it and the Coroner was sent for and viewed it. He did not decide immediately when he should hold the inquest, as the case will evidently assume great importance. These wires are stretched over hundreds of buildings in this city, The alarm of fire last evening was and if they are generally as dangerous a caused by the burning of an old barn this proved itself to be, through inade of this fatality may become general and
