THE WHIRLPOOL OF POLITICS.

Sensational, Romantic and Æsthetic Events in Washington.

Gen, Logan's Election.

Special Correspondence of The BEE, events of the last week have been of a kind and style that should gratify our most sensational, romantic and restheticloving people. We have had a horse ment, domestic and foreign scandals to set the Prims and Prurients to peeping through their fingers; church and newspaper duels, with cold lead and sharp pens for weapons - church wounded and newspaper still lying—at the point of death colored hanging largely attended by curious christian people, and other light, airy summer entertainments. And still the politicians and newspapers have the blues and are not happy! There was some cause for uncasiness and distrust of the government before

THOSE TWO CENTS were found in the treasury building. I ning, with hands thrust deep into his commedicus pockets, pacing up and down these cold marble halls (which are not very much deserted these days), head bent forward on his troubled breast in dead, or that something direful was about o happen and with one full swope they'd all be fired out of the doors and windows. A noble army of penny-snatchers were employed at from $4 per day and upwards, to search for these missing two cents! All the ex-secretaries were notified and hurried thither; the beautiful treasury women were in tears, melting tears, and not a few of them not only shed their idle tears, but told their busy fears to Higgins. Oh! plty is akin tonot an appointment in the treasury by a long way—but divine love, and Higgins' soul was stirred with emotion and commotion for those two cents! Every nook and crook of that building, which is a pretty good sized village, was searched day and night. The poor clerks all felt con-demned and would gladly have sacrificed two cents of their own salaries, but the vigilance committee had their eagle eyes upon them and it was impossible to make good them two cents! However, the weary search was rewarded way down in Every 10 to 14 Days.

GENERAL LOGAN'S ELECTION were found in the treasury building. I tell you we were mighty uneasy. Not only for the financial crash that was imminent, but for the mental condition of the secretary of the treasury. It was a harrowing sight to see poor Dan Manning with heads the secretary of the secretary of the treasury. It was a far wanted here. Surely, if the republicans of the United States chose Gen. Logan for their vice president in Gen. Logan for their vice-president in the late presidential contest, the republicaus of his own state did what they ought to have done, and what was expected of them, in re-electing him to the senate, and we are very glad to welcome him, and his noble wife is receiving such an evation to day as seldom falls to the lot of woman in political life. profound "worriment" over those two cents! When a senator is about to leave—his time expires—his seat, if a desirable one, is speken for by one of the senators. Gen. Manderson speke for Gen. Logan's seat, which is near the centre aisle and just where the speaker's eye is easily caught, provided he isn't willingly blind, but Senator Manderson refused to occupy the Senator Manderson refused to occupy the seat during the extra session of the senate, while Gen.
