

THE DAILY BEE. COUNCIL BLUFFS.

Friday Morning, June 5, 1885. SUBSCRIPTION RATES: By Mail $1.00 per week $10.00 per year

MINOR MENTION.

A regular meeting of Fidelity council No. 156, R. A., will be held this evening. Stray cows are now being picked up by the marshal's force and put into the pound.

No decisions in the injunction cases. The judges are still reading up the authorities, and pondering.

To-morrow is the time set for knowing whether Aylesworth or Loeboworow is the judge of the district court.

The semi-annual settlement of the board of supervisors and the county treasurer was made yesterday.

Ritter is offering great bargains at his merchant tailoring establishment, No. 310 Broadway. See his goods and get his prices.

At the prize contest to-night the doors will be kept closed while the speaking is in progress, so that the audience may not be disturbed.

Prices still lower at the Boston Boot and Shoe Store. Immense stock of "Newport" button and ties, also other styles at unheard-of prices.

Lighting, on Wednesday night, struck a tree at the corner of Madison and Knepper streets, giving the residents in that vicinity a lively shock.

The chief of the fire department, Capt. Eicher, did not turn out to the fire yesterday morning. Walters was on hand and took charge of the work.

The regulation papers were being got out yesterday to bring Mary French back from the other side of the river, she being the woman who went through the house where she was given lodging the other night.

B. F. Sterick and Miss Ella DeLong were last night happily united in marriage at the residence of E. A. Spooner, and at once commenced keeping house in the new residence, corner of Washington avenue and Harrison street.

It is stated that the barber's intended, who so suddenly left for parts unknown, Miss Ida Diggs, with her lover's presents, also ran off with another fellow's gold watch and fifty dollars. Miss Diggs' whereabouts still remains a mystery, and Jake a wiser barber.

The prize speaking of the high school takes place this evening at the opera house, and promises to be a very interesting entertainment, while the purpose is one worthy of generous encouragement. The judges selected for the awarding of the prizes are N. P. Dodge, L. W. Tolley, D. C. Bloomer, Mrs. Horace Everett and Mrs. Charles Officer.

Vic Bayard, the barber who is employed by the "Two Jakes," yesterday went over to Omaha to look up his best girl, who, it was reported, had skipped along with the girl of one of the Jakes, who left her intended husband (as he thought), so suddenly. Vic found his girl and returned feeling much better than when he left.

Mr. C. H. Sholes, the new editor of the Evening Herald, began his duties yesterday, and opened up with a neat, modest salutory. He is a young man of good ability, and although not experienced in the management of a great daily, yet he has the material for the making of an editor of more than ordinary worth. Personally, he is popular, and the Herald will, under his management, continue to grow and prosper. Mr. Spencer, who retires, has been somewhat crippled in his work by not having the physical strength and health to endure the arduous duties of the position, but he has done much to build up the paper, and has many friends whose best wishes will go with him into whatever field he may decide to enter. He is now thinking of locating in Nebraska.

PERSONAL.

Mrs. R. T. Bryant is reported as quite ill. Mrs. Mark Duryea has gone to Cedar Rapids on a visit to her old home.

Mrs. John W. Hoiser left yesterday for a short visit to her parents in Plattsmouth, Neb.

J. A. Powers took a trip up to Missouri Valley yesterday in the interests of the Singer machine.

Capt. B. B. Frayne has arrived from Washington, and will remain for a time with his relatives here.

A. Alexander, of Chicago, one of the best known commercial tourists, was in the city yesterday on his way back from Chyenne.

Thomas McCue has returned from Chicago, and is spending a few days with his friend here before proceeding to Nebraska to visit his folks.

C. D. Harmon and wife last evening celebrated their first wedding anniversary by entertaining a few of their friends in a happy tea-party.

Substantial abstracts of title and real estate loans. J. W. & E. L. Squire, 101 Pearl street.

An Early Blaze.

The fire department was called out at about 4 o'clock yesterday morning by the blazing up of a gasoline stove in the Phoenix. The blaze communicated to a pile of straw in the basement, and the smoke was so dense that the firemen had to crawl into the building, dragging the hose after them, and it was almost impossible to work to any advantage, but a stream was put on, and the blaze put out before there was any special damage done.

CLAIMING A CHILD.

The Contest Brings Out Serious Charges Against All Concerned.

Mother and Daughter at Loggerheads.

An interesting habeas corpus case was decided by Judge Aylesworth, of the superior court, yesterday. The case was brought by Clay, Harrison county, and the parties concerned were relatives, the petitioner being a grandmother who wanted possession of her granddaughter, and who claimed that her own daughter, the mother of the child, was anything but pure, while the daughter claimed the same sad fact about her own mother. The petitioner was Mrs. Nancy Gerling, and in her statement she claims that she ought to have possession of her granddaughter, a girl twelve years of age, who she claims, lived with her nearly all the time since her babyhood, and has been cared for and supported by her. She claims that the child is now being held in unlawful restraint by Elias Pegg, who has been lewdly cohabiting with Mrs. Margaret Asher, the mother of the little girl. It is claimed that Pegg took the child away from her grandmother on the 28th of May last, his purpose being to suppress her evidence in an action pending against Pegg and Mrs. Asher on a charge of lewdness. As Pegg is no relation to the little girl, the grandmother wanted the court to make him give up possession of the child, and further set up the claim that the mother of the girl is not a fit person, morally or financially to have charge of her.

The other side of the case was a denial of the charge that Mr. Pegg and Mrs. Asher were unduly intimate. Pegg denied that he had the custody of the child, and he made counter-charges against Gerling, claiming that she was a woman of bad repute, and not a fit person to have the child. In the hearing of the case the judge thought the evidence did not show that Pegg had taken the child, or that he had her. It seemed that the child was taken away from the grandmother's home by the mother, and that the only connection that Pegg had with the matter was that he engaged the team for the woman to go after the child. The case was therefore dismissed.

A CHAIN OF EVIDENCE.

It Resulted in Convicting the President of the Y. M. C. A. of Larceny.

Yesterday afternoon there was a drawing card in Justice Frayne's court, it being the trial of Dr. Montgomery on the charge of petit larceny. The prominence of the doctor, and his position as president of the young men's christian association, and as one of the leaders in the prohibitory movement, created special interest in the crowd, and there was evident a feeling among many of the ungodly that he should be punished whether or no. The testimony was about as outlined in yesterday's Bee, there being no dispute about the fact that the doctor had possession of the girl's gold chain, the controversy being over the question as to whether he stole it, or whether he was legitimately holding the chain as security for his bill, he having been treating the girl. The doctor claimed that he had given the girl credit for $10, and had told her that she could redeem the chain at any time by paying the money. He explained that she was at the time out of her head and not expected to live and he thought that some one might steal the chain, which was lying on the stand, and so he took it. Afterwards one of the Overton boys, who were interested in the prosecution of the case, came to the doctor with a written order for the chain, but he would not give it up. The doctor claimed in court that he held the chain by virtue of a lien on account of professional services. The girl claimed that she did not think that she would have to pay anything, as the doctor was running a free dispensary, and that in fact she did not order the doctor, but being taken ill at the Revere house, Mr. St. John, one of the proprietors, went for the doctor. Mr. St. John also testified that it was his understanding that the doctor was not to charge the girl anything, she being poor and without friends. The justice, in rendering his decision, remarked that he did not know of any law by which a physician could thus take a lien on a gold chain to secure his bill, and that he should have to find the doctor guilty, and he imposed a fine of $10 and costs, and placed the appeal bonds at $300.

The doctor had not decided last evening whether he would appeal or not. He said he wanted to wash his hands of the whole affair, and denounced the prosecution as malicious and the decision unjust. Considering the prominence and reputation of the doctor it is a rather hard pinch to be thus placed on the records as guilty of larceny.

More Dimes than dollars. The dime museum seems to be in bad luck. A short time ago one of the proprietors, Sanders, was missing, and all sorts of rumors about him were flying in the air; and now the other proprietor, J. W. Palmer, has gone, leaving some morning creditors. It is said that he has gone to Minneapolis in company with two gentlemen named Tibbits and Wilson. He left about $200 to be divided up among the creditors, and much more than that is due on salaries. H. H. Martens has taken the business, and is the owner of the building, and this action being necessary as the rent was behind. He will continue to run the museum for a week or so, and may find it to his advantage to run it longer. The museum and theatre started in with a rush of business, and promised to be of permanent and profitable enterprise, but mismanagement has brought it to grief.

A "FREE" MASON.

He Won't be One Long, if He is Once Caught.

The young man George Mason, whose actions in connection with the bill-tapping at McIntyre's store were narrated in yesterday's Bee, seems to have a rather bad record before this event. It now appears that before entering the employ of Mr. McIntyre he was engaged in soliciting orders for Mr. Samuel Tate, and that gentleman says that he found Mason was collecting money and not turning it over to him. He therefore discharged him, and wrote the facts to Mason's father, who is an attorney in Westfield, N. Y., and the latter wrote in return that he was not surprised, as he had been caused much trouble before by his son's actions. He wanted Mr. Tate to retain the young man in his employ at a small salary, and give him a chance to square the matter up, but this request was not granted. It is reported the young man in skipping out of town forgot or neglected to settle his board bill with Mrs. Porterfield, the amount due being about eighteen dollars. Mr. Tate is thinking strongly of having him brought back here to answer a charge of embezzlement.

Not a Safe Tackle.

A safe weighing 2,500 pounds was being taken up the stairs at No. 12 South Main street yesterday into the office of the Mutual Life and accident association, when some part of the tackling broke and the safe fell crashing through the stairway, but fortunately injuring no one.
