They Will Be More and More So as the World Moves On.

PRODUCE FAR THE BEST TYPE OF MEN

Rev. John Hemphill, D. D., Expresses a Hope for an Anglo-American Alliance and Praises the Exposition.

There was a large congregation present at the First Presbyterian church yesterday morning to hear Rev. John Hemphill, D. D., of San Francisco, who is here visiting the exposition.

Dr. Hemphill chose the text of his discourse from Genesis, "Behold, therefore, the goodness and severity of God." In the course of the sermon he said:

"The command to at once behold the goodness and the severity of God seems to involve a contradiction, but the seeming severity of God is in reality a manifestation of His goodness toward us. The law of severity finds expression everywhere. Cicero called nature our stepmother, stern and cruel. The longer one lives the more he realizes the severity of nature's laws. Nature knows no indulgence and whoever dares to disobey nature's laws must pay the penalty. The ten commandments are written over all the things of life and they are not to be transgressed. This severity may not always be discernible in nature. When nature chooses an evil it always chooses a lesser evil than the one it averts. The struggle for existence has done much for the lower animals, but it has done more for man, and it will be by this same stern struggle that man will be lifted up to perfection. There must be goodness in the struggle for existence.

"The South Sea Islanders will never be in the van of the procession of the ages. Life is too easy for them. They are surrounded with open mouths for food to be dropped in. They know nothing of a struggle for existence. Man is all the better for such a struggle up to a certain point. Beyond that point the struggle is so severe as to stunt the development of real manhood. We cannot expect to find great men in Lapland and other extreme northern climes, for there the struggle for existence is too keen. We must not look near the poles for great men any more than we should in the tropics.

"The Anglo-Saxon race is located between these two regions, where the struggle for existence is sufficient to produce the best type of man. The Anglo-Saxon race is today in the van of the procession of the ages, and it will be more and more so as the world moves on.

"We ask what will be the outcome of the present war with Spain, of battles between the greatest nation of the Anglo-Saxon race and one of the slowly decaying Latin races. Whatever the final outcome may be, we do know what has been the outcome thus far. In the first place it has made no north and no south in this glorious country of ours. The boys in gray have forgotten past years and are once more the boys in blue. A slowly result already at hand is the closer union of England and America. It is a closer union than there has been between these two great nations since they separated.

"Born under the British flag, raised under the American flag, I long to see the union of the two greatest nations of the earth, the best exponents of the Anglo-Saxon race, and hope to witness the formation of a righteous international compact that shall bind us together. Then will this latest born of the Anglo-Saxon nations be lifted up to the ascendancy among all the nations of the earth.

"The struggle for existence during the last few years has been hard for many of the people. There have been droughts and consequent poor crops, or no crops at all. But nature has once more smiled on the great agricultural districts of this continent, and the evidences of prosperity are to be seen all about us. Out of the prosperity of this magnificent city has been born your grand exposition. Men of great mind conceived this exposition to give stimulus to your city, your state and the entire western country."

"The plucky, progressive American is up and doing in the struggle for existence at all times. The red trail will come to him not because he is waiting around for it but because he is working for it all the time. So with your grand exposition. It will succeed, and adequately reward the tasks and labors of the men who built it. I bid your exposition goodspeed, and I hope it will bring the fullest measure of prosperity to your city and your state, and all the surrounding country."

DR. WARFIELD RESUMES HIS WORK.

Preaches at First Congregational Church after a Month's Absence.

Having returned from his vacation in England, including a trip through Canada, and a short visit to New York, and after an absence of about a month altogether, Rev. P. A. Warfield, the pastor of the First Congregational church, occupied his pulpit yesterday morning. The theme he chose was the rather uniquely put one of the "Supreme Act of Living." From the point of view he took, character-building was the great purpose of life here.

"This inspired text gives me the keynote of my thought this morning. Happy are they who are sincere in the perfect way, they who walk in the law of the Lord. In this the psalmist defines the attitude of a happy soul, his alliance with truth, his proper ambition, and his attainment of the perfect happiness. The world desires happiness—we are inclined that way, and Jesus would turn our happiness in a right direction. He would enlarge our happiness, broaden our joys, and deepen our delights. With a high conception of the trust joy attainable we may follow Him.

"Life is really the supreme act of the age to which everyone should devote himself. With Ruskin we must remember that a certain self-culture and discipline are required would we see the beauties of nature from the cottage window, and so to make these joys accessible in our daily life we must discipline and cultivate ourselves."

Mr. Warfield dwelt upon the rounding out of character, due to the maturing which the years bring, the corrected impressions and the accumulated experience. In this connection he alluded to the careers of Mandelstam and Burns to illustrate his point.

"And what is true of art," said Dr. Warfield, "is true of life. The materials are at hand, but there must be self-culture be-

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR CONVENT.

Thirteenth District Meeting Develops Considerable Interest.

The thirteenth district meeting of the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor was held in Omaha yesterday, F. F. Tucker of Lincoln, president of the Nebraska State Christian Endeavor union, and several other out-of-town Endeavorers being in attendance. At 9 o'clock in the morning prayer meetings were held at the First Presbyterian, St. Mary's Avenue Congregational and First Presbyterian churches and at 4 in the afternoon special services were held at the First Presbyterian church. Rev. A. J. Turkle presided at the afternoon meetings and after a brief address of welcome introduced Rev. P. F. Tucker.

Mr. Tucker spoke briefly of the Christian Endeavor movement and emphasized the great responsibility of the young people of England and America in the Christianization of the world.

The Tenth Legion of the Endeavorers was explained by Mr. Tucker as a portion of the members of the society who have pledged themselves to give one-tenth of their earnings to God's cause. The legion is getting a firm hold among the society's membership and Mr. Tucker urged that all members join.

He next spoke of the accusation which is frequently brought against the society that it is not in accord with the various church organizations of the country and declared that it was false and that the church attendance and church support of Endeavorers was far above that of the average church member.

Rev. Mr. Turkle next introduced Dr. J. M. Wilson, pastor of the Castellor Street Presbyterian church, who spoke earnestly concerning the many conflicting systems of philosophy which are offered to a seeker after truth. Dr. Wilson warned his hearers against false systems of philosophy and co-called scientific truths and begged in conclusion that all young persons when called upon to choose between vital questions of philosophy would hold in mind the fact that one guiding hand made all things of earth and that any belief which denies God's existence is false.

First Universalist Church.

At the First Universalist church yesterday morning Rev. Clinton Simonton of Portland, Me., preached on the subject, "God's Religion in the World," bringing to bear upon it the revelation of modern thought in bible interpretation as bearing out the relation of God to the world and man as that of divine proprietorship and universal fatherhood.

The claim, he said, that the mystical being called by certain ecclesiastical bodies the devil had been practically acknowledged long ago, leaving men to excuse sin on the ground of necessity or to be paralyzed by both because of its power.

This was Jesus' temptation and because he would not acknowledge this truth in religion as based on his own teachings was rejected and despised as a heretic. Mr. Simonton will continue these services and the great number of unchurched people are cordially invited to attend.

Principle of Christ's Spirit.

The thirteenth district meeting of the Theosophical society yesterday afternoon was in regard to the principle of the Christ spirit. It was felt that the attitude of the true Christian was not a matter of belief or dogma, but of living and action. It has always been a fact, the lecturer said, that the founder of Christianity had been considered a character too sacred for human comprehension or criticism. It was pointed out, on the contrary, that He had lifted His life high by carrying His love low and that He became more truly our brother as we more perfectly understood Him. It was not believed to be so simple to believe in the Christ as to face or the immaculate conception as to lack the lowliness, purity and unselfishness of His life the motives of our own.

HOW A WAR IS FOUGHT.

The Changes in the Mode of Warfare Illustrated by Pictures.

If you wish to properly understand the war news, if you wish to have a definite knowledge of naval affairs, and of the changes that are occurring in the East and West Indies you can secure no better, no more reliable source of information than the official photographs of the United States navy, just issued by the Omaha Bee. The price is only 25 cents, and more valuable and timely information was never offered at such a low price. It is an Omaha Bee counting-room, or will be sent to you on receipt of price.

The book consists of nearly 200 pages of photos, made by a naval photographer, and the list of subjects embraces everything of interest pertaining to our navy, from the smallest gunboat to the largest battleship, and the latest official photographs of our torpedo boats, torpedos, boat destroyers, cruisers, battleships, gunboats, monitors, rams, dynamite mines, dispatch vessels, and other war craft, the whole embodying an authentic portrayal of the American navy as it exists today in all its fighting strength. Included are shown, and a close study of these maps will give one a thorough understanding of this territory, in regard to which the intelligence of the American public is now at fever heat.

Then follow more than 200 rare pictures of the navy, its officers and equipment. The ships are all authentic, and are the latest official photographs of our torpedo boats, torpedos, boat destroyers, cruisers, battleships, gunboats, monitors, rams, dynamite mines, dispatch vessels, and other war craft, the whole embodying an authentic portrayal of the American navy as it exists today in all its fighting strength. Included are shown, and a close study of these maps will give one a thorough understanding of this territory, in regard to which the intelligence of the American public is now at fever heat.

By far the most interesting portions of the book are the authentic photographs of the disaster in Havana harbor, showing the life and discipline aboard a battleship, together with portraits of the officers and crew, supplemented by photographs taken after the explosion, depicting the divers at work, and other incidents in connection with this sad and memorable event.

Falls from a Car. Peter Hanson fell from a Park avenue street car at Twenty-sixth and Leavenworth streets last night and received severe bruises and a dislocation of the shoulder. He was rescued at the outer end of the seas and a doctor was carried away with him. In his effort to recover it Hanson lost his balance and fell to the pavement. He was taken to his home, 3814 South Sixteenth street.

VETERAN FOUND DEAD IN BED

Charles Lyford, an Old Soldier, Dies Alone in a Lodging House on South Twelfth Street.

CHARLES LYFORD, an old soldier, died suddenly yesterday afternoon in the Chicago lodging house, 209 South Twelfth street. He arrived in Omaha June 1 from an unknown direction and engaged the room, No. 13, which he has occupied since Saturday night he started to retire about 10 o'clock and remained to the proprietor, L. Cohen, that he felt rather tired. Accordingly he was not disturbed the next morning and even after midday no alarm was felt. When he had not made his appearance at 5 p. m., however, the proprietor looked into the room over the six-foot partition with which it is enclosed and perceived that the lodger had been dead for some time. The coroner was summoned and an inquest will be held today.

On the dead man's person were found credentials made out to Charles Lyford, a slight variation of the name on the register in the office of the Sixteenth regiment of Michigan volunteers, certifying that he was a member of the Western division of the National Home for Disabled Veterans. This institution is located at 1325 North Twenty-fourth street. The management has been communicated with. There was no money or other effects in the clothing. Lyford was about 55 years old and was slightly lame.

SOUTH OMAHA NEWS.

Tonight the Board of Education will meet in regular monthly session. The annual report will be made and teachers will be elected. Owing to the immense amount of improvements to be made to the school district this summer it is thought that the levy will be made to the limit allowed by law, namely, 20 mills. Even with this levy the amount derived will not pay for all the improvements needed. With the other improvements and deducting the 15 per cent reserve a 20-mill levy would bring in about $25,000, and it is estimated that at least $40,000 will have to be spent in buildings, etc.

The committee on teachers will be prepared to make a recommendation as to the number of teachers to be retained, while the employing of new teachers will be left to the reorganized board. A superintendent of instruction will most likely be elected at tonight's meeting and from all signs Prof. Munro will be re-elected. Several letters of more or less note have been filed applications for the position of superintendent, but it is understood that a majority of the board favors the retention of Superintendent Munro. While the members of the board who will take their seats on July 1 assert that the old board has no right in the regime, they insist that the present board insists that it has the right and proposes to go ahead and do what it thinks best in the matter.

Blessing of St. Bridget's.

The ceremony of blessing St. Bridget's church, Twenty-sixth and F streets, was conducted yesterday by Rt. Rev. Bishop Scannell of Omaha. Bishop Scannell was assisted in the services by Very Rev. J. J. Jeannette, Rev. A. M. Colaneri, Rev. D. W. Moriarty and Rev. Gleason. At 10 o'clock the officiating minister, the bishop, blessed the interior and the exterior of the remodeled house of worship. At the conclusion of this ceremony solemn high mass was celebrated in the presence of the bishop. Rev. Gleason was the celebrant, Rev. Jeannette deacon, Rev. Moriarty subdeacon and Rev. Colaneri master of ceremonies. During high mass Bishop Scannell sat on the throne in the sanctuary with Rev. H. J. McDevitt and Rev. T. O'Callahan on his right and left.

The sermon which followed was preached by Rev. McDevitt of the Omaha cathedral and this was followed by a solemn benediction by the bishop. The church was tastefully decorated and the music, which was of a high order, was under the direction of Miss Theresa Casey. Miss Jean Kane of Omaha sang the offertory.

Public Clocks.

Few great cities of America are adequately provided with public clocks of such a size and prominent location as to indicate the time over wide metropolitan districts. But it is high time to check kidney and bladder complaint manifested to the sufferer by inactivity of the organs affected. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters remedies this as it does dyspepsia, rheumatism, constipation, biliousness and nervousness.

AMUSEMENTS.

"Jim, the Penman," was presented twice yesterday in a very enjoyable manner at the Creighton theater, where it began what bids fair to be a successful and popular week's run. It has been some years since this formerly favorite melodrama was seen here and its revival at this time is made under the favorable auspices of a powerful cast. What is, technically speaking, the best part of the piece—that of detective fame, in which E. M. Holland gained added fame, is admirably played by Mr. Davis, with a finesse and a command of resources which his excellent Gaston of a fortnight ago has already shown to his advantage. Mr. Smith and Miss Kennard are the Penman and his wife, Mr. Enos the Hartfeld, Mr. Green the Percival and Miss Dunn the Agnes. Mr. Frank Lee Short, who has never before been seen in this city in any connection with professional, makes a good impression for sincerity and intelligence. The little work that falls to him as Lord Drellcourt, and Mr. Lathan, another newcomer, plays thoroughly well a part too small to show his real ability.

The specialties for the week comprise a quite clever but altogether too quick prestidigitator, who shows a diverting "flow of 'patter' talk to accentuate his antics; a rather diverting sketch team called Leroy and Clayton, and a man and woman designated as Crimmins and Gore, whose performance, if yesterday's exhibition may be taken as an sample, is not calculated to appeal strongly to the refined taste of theater goers.

EX-POLICEMAN TANGEMAN IN JAIL.

Herman Tangeman, an ex-policeman, is in jail for assaulting D. Snell with intent to do great bodily injury. Saturday night Snell called on Tangeman and asked for money for a wagon which Tangeman had purchased a year before. The request for money angered the ex-policeman and he struck Snell over the right eye with some blunt instrument, inflicting a dangerous wound. Mr. Snell is 70 years of age and is quite feeble. He was taken to the hospital and he stated yesterday that it was impossible to tell how just how serious the wound was. Snell is still unable to see out of the eye at all and it is feared that the loss of sight may be permanent. Tangeman was removed from the police force for fighting.

WANT BETTER STREET CAR SERVICE.

A committee of the council, composed of Trainer, Chingen and Kelly, will call on the officers of the Omaha Street Railway company today for the purpose of making a request for better street car service. Not long ago Councilman Barrett had a talk with Superintendent Tucker and the latter agreed to have the Q and Albright cars leave on their last trip at 11:30 o'clock. This change was to go into effect on June 1, but no orders were issued by the city and the people and the stub line cars still leave at 11 o'clock. In addition to the extension of the stub line service the committee will urge that more cars be put on the Omaha line during the busy hours of the day.
