

Exposition's Success.

OPINION OF A SOUTHERN PASSENGER MAN

Colonel Horner of the Louisville & Nashville Has Many Good Words for the Fair-Advice to Local Lines.

Colonel George B. Horner, general northover the exposition. Mr. Horner was an active factor in the success of the Nashville exposition and is in a position to speak in tolligently about the various phases of the Judge Kelly, Union Pacific attorney for Transmississippi Exposition. He expresses the state of Nebraska, went to Denver yesamazement at the scope and magnitude of the Omaha show and declares that the patronage of the south, a little later, is certain Mr. Horner asserts that the exposition is well advertised in those sections of the south through which his line operates and he expects to send several large excursions to Omaha shortly. He says everybody it the south is talking of the exposition and an enormous traffic is anticipated by the southern lines during the last two months of the exposition period.

Discussing proposed reduced rates on the gallroads to the exposition, Mr. Horner said: "Southern railroads are prepared to join the initial roads in materially reducing rates to the Transmississippi Expositon as soon as the proper protection is afforded the lines from the inroads of the scalpers In this section. We controlled these fellows fluring the Nashville exposition and the mu nicipal authorities of Omaha can do the same. Of course we were busy all the time. but this feature is as much an essential of success for the exposition as anything else. In Nashville we secured an ordinance placing a tax of $1,000 a month on all brokers. Of course this was finally defeated by litigation, but it was prohibitive as long as it lasted. After much skirmishing the federal courts decreed that the scalping of a contract ticket by brokers was a violation of the criminal law and the signing of those tickets by other than the original purchasers was forgery. This effectually ended the illegal business. This decision is on the records today and the local railroads can us the same methods to prevent the illicit traffic in railroad tickets and thus help the ex

"We did not destroy the ticket brokerage business entirely in Nashville, but we made it unprofitable. One broker told me he lost $10,000 during the exposition where he expected to make that much. The situation in Omaha I find is exactly a parallel of the Nashville exposition. I find that many brokers have commenced business here since the exposition opened. Certainly, with these fellows reaping all the benefit of the reduced rates, the exposition officials cannot insist that the roads should reduce their regular rates for travel. As far as my road is concerned we are anxious to send a number of big excursions from the south to the Transmississippi Exposition, but we cannot roduce the tariff with the knowledge that our lines will be flooded with cut tickets for months to follow. I believe this is the plyot on which the exposition turns to success or failure. The show is a great thing-the finest of course since the World's fair, but it will take reduced rates to bring in the people. Several committees from Omaha lines have discussed the situation with us, but I cannot understand how relief can be granted until the ticket scalpers are cleaned out. The exposition is well known in the south. It is noted in the press and the literature of the Department of Publicity and Promotion has done its work well in the south. In addition some of the railroads are advertising the enterprise. Reduced rates now are the only things in the way

Judge Munger is at his home in Fremont nd will not convene court until Monday. According to the provisions of the new proprietors of billiard halls, theaters and other places of amusement are required to pay the special tax levied upon them before August 1, and if the tax is not paid by that time they are subject to being fined and to penal prosecution. Few of the Omaha parties who fall under the provisions of this law have paid their tax as yet.

The custom house has received three car loads of tea which were consigned to Omaha wholesale houses. The tax paid on the tea in compliance with the new internal revenue law was $6,000. Omaha firms have about fifty carloads of tea bought and in transit. FIX THE DATE FOR RAILROAD DAY.

Pleasant Saturday in September is Picked Out for the Reunion.

Saturday, September 17, has been desighated as Railroad day at the Transmississippl Exposition and from the thorough manner in which the railroad men are enlering into the plan for the occasion it is nesured that the event will be a red-letter bne.

The date for Railroad day was fixed on Friday morning at a conference of Super-Intendent Babcock of the Department of Transportation of the exposition and a number of local railroad men. It is believed that a very good season has been selected. The weather then should be delightful, the rummer rush of excursion business for the tailroads will be over and the trip will interfere with no one's summer vacation. The railroaders will spend both Saturday and Sunday here.

One of the railroad officials who has been Interested in the movement says: "All the railroad men in Omaha are going to turn put on that occasion, and we are going to)end to Kansas City, St. Louis and Chicago and endeavor to have the various western lines run special trains for their representatives at these points. During the World's fair at Chicago the Pennsylvania railroad ran special trains for its employes from the Philadelphia headquarters, and arranged so that all of the clerks could spend a week at the fair. There are four Omaha-Chicago lines, and they are all interested in the exposition and appear to be doing a good business on account of the show. We shall try to have all of them transfer their headquarter forces to Omaha for Railroad day. It would cost the companies comparatively little, and would be a great treat for their men. We shall also
