EBULLITION SHOWS LACK OF AFFINITY

Mixers Stand Around the Caldron and Look Askance as the Several Elements Show Their Independence of Each Other.

LINCOLN, Aug. 4.—(Special.)—There are two elements within the fusion party showing much dissatisfaction over the results of the recent tripartite convention. The democratic politicians do not like the nomination of the deal that made Poyner the populist nominee and have not as yet any serious prospects that they will have a share in the spoils that are to be handed around after the other struggle of machine politics in the Edmonson-Maret gang of lynch populists, who have been turned down to make room for the Burrows-Thompson-Poyner crowd of old-line farmers' alliance men. The party managers who have had control of the machinery for the last few years and who are credited with a desire to succeed and a division of spoils above principle see little in the new deal to please them and there are many hints being thrown out that the end of fusion politics in Nebraska is near at hand, and that when the shaking-up and sifting process is through, the fusionists of Nebraska, Missouri, Kentucky and Virginia politicians who have been for some time in control of the populist party will all be found in the democratic camp, where they no doubt have belonged all of the time.

Bill Allen's Little Joker

The fusionists are in a stew about another matter. The part Senator Allen took in wiping out the stock yards resolution in the populist platform has provoked a lively discussion in which there has not been a perfect agreement. It is maintained by some that when Allen asked to have the platform recommitted for the purpose of changing a few words therein relating to himself, his real reason for the move was to have the radical anti-stock yards plank wiped out and that he selected a most opportune time when one-third of the delegates were absent and another third were asleep in their seats. Those of the fusionists, however, who believe in the honesty and good faith of the senator, argue that he was entirely innocent of the matter and that without his knowledge he was made the tool of Frank Hanson and the other politicians who were attending the convention entirely in the interests of the stock yards managers. They believe that these corporation politicians had the right to refer to Senator Allen as "the greatest populist in the United States" inserted in the platform in order that a recommitment might be asked for when the proper time arrived to fool the convention on the stock yards question. Whether Senator Allen is to blame or not, the matter of the platform was juggled with and that the performance will work harm in the election.

State House Gosling

Governor Holcomb and Adjutant General Barry will leave on Monday for Chattanooga and Jacksonville, the object of their trip being to investigate the condition of the Nebraska troops and find out what can be done to add to their comfort in the southern camps. Many unofficial reports have come north regarding the unhealthfulness of the camps and the sickness that prevails, and it is proposed to ascertain the full truth of these reports. The governor and Adjutant General Barry expect to remain with the Second regiment for a few days after which they will proceed to Jacksonville to make a similar visit with the Third. The Board of Public Lands and Buildings today let the contract for the construction of the water works plant at the Beatrice institution to the United States Supply company of Omaha, the contract price being $5,241. The last legislature appropriated $7,000 for this purpose. The state treasurer has made another call for general fund warrants to come in August 15. The amount is $37,690, and the numbers run from 41,251 to 41,531. The State Banking Board has issued a charter for the Farmers' Savings bank, which is located at Plattsmouth. The institution is a private one, Charles C. Parmelee being the sole owner. The capital is $12,000 and the same amount paid up in cash.

Organizing a New College

The executive committee of the Board of Regents of the university met yesterday afternoon and listened to reports on the progress of the work of constructing the new building for the College of Mechanic Arts. The work is getting along satisfactorily, although there has been some delay in account of the late delivery of necessary material. When completed the new building will be the most substantial one on the university campus and will present a handsome appearance. Arrangements are being made by the committee for the formal opening of the new building and President Chapman of Washington University of St. Louis has been selected to make the opening address. The date of the opening has not yet been decided upon. At the meeting yesterday the committee made the assignments of the new building and made the following appointments: J. W. Frankforter, janitor; H. G. Shedd, secretary; Miss Mae Lansing, stenographer of the mimeograph bureau; J. I. Wiler, assistant librarian; Miss Belva Herron, assistant instructor in economics. Ed Ricketts was assigned to a position at the state farm where he will assist in the experiments with hog cholera. The committee voted an appropriation to form a fund for the experiment station of which Prof. Bruner is the head in order that experiments may be carried on with grasshopper fungus. The committee also decided by the committee to advertise for bids for coal, the bids to be opened on the 5th of September.

Epworth Assembly

The Nebraska Epworth assembly, which opened up at Lincoln park last night, is assuming mammoth proportions. The number of tents on the grounds has gone above the 400 mark. There are now 2,000 people camping, with the number increasing right along. Up to tonight 2,000 season tickets have been sold and the sale of single admissions has reached a high figure. Everything indicates that the assembly will be a success, both financially and otherwise. Many improvements have been laid out on the grounds and the conveniences are such as to make the camp life more pleasant even than it was at the season of last year. For the table and camp life a "jumbo" tent has been set up and comfortably seated. It is 125x70 in size and has a capacity of 5,000 people. Among those who are attending the assembly are 250 from the West Nebraska conference league, and the promise is already made that this number will be doubled next year, many from west Nebraska not being able to attend this year on account of their plans to spend the summer vacation in the Transmississippi Exposition. J. D. Hughes, who is president of the western league, is here in charge of the colony. The West Nebraska league embraces all the Epworthians in the state west of Kearney.

GOING AFTER GAFFIN'S SCALP

Wire Workers of the Popercotic Cause Not Satisfied with the New Committee Chairman.

LINCOLN, Aug. 4.—(Special Telegram.)—A rumor is current today that several of the candidates and wire workers of the popercotic party are dissatisfied with the election of Gaffin as committee chairman and that a strong pressure is being brought to bear to pull him down from the position with every assurance of success. Mr. Gaffin was elected chairman of the committee and had not yet accepted the position. He had not been a candidate for the place and was not notified of the election until after the committee had adjourned. The question with him now is whether his private business interests will allow him to take up the work of the committee. He has under advisement for a few days. In the meantime he has heard of no objections to his filling the position.

Gives Sampson the Credit

YORK, Neb., Aug. 4.—(Special.)—Luther M. Overstreet, a York boy who is an officer on board the battleship Oregon, writes an interesting letter to his parents in which he makes some pointed statements about the Santiago battle and the men who were in the fight for the victory. He credits the early newspaper reports of the battle and denies that it was due to Commodore Schley that the battle was won. He is inclined to give Sampson the credit rather than Schley. He says: "It is true that Commodore Schley was the senior officer present, but he did not direct the fight in any respect. Great credit is due to Admiral Sampson and so say all the officers here. He placed all the ships in the position that they occupied in front of the harbor and gave the instructions what each ship was to do when the enemy appeared. When the fleet of the enemy did appear each ship of the fleet instantly closed in and fought the enemy in such a manner that no directing was necessary. "Sampson had arranged so well that he could leave and know that all would be well. The battle was remarkable in that all the ships of our fleet went in line style with no signals being made as to what the ships were to do. Schley made but one signal. That was after the biggest part of the battle was over. It was a signal of no importance. Besides, the ships of his fleet were too far behind to see the signal."

Mysterious Disappearance

BEATRICE, Neb., Aug. 4.—(Special.)—Thomas Jansen, well known hereabouts, has mysteriously disappeared. Mr. Jansen was 70 years of age, in height about six feet, and weighed about 190 pounds. He wore a gray beard and was partially bald. For a number of years he has been in charge of his headquarters. He would frequently, but not at regular intervals, make trips to various parts of Nebraska and Kansas, where he had investments. His securities amounted to thousands of dollars, which he always carried with him in a leather valise. "He was last seen on December 13 last at Indianola, Neb., where he had gone to collect interest due him. While there he told some parties that he was going to California, and to others that he was going to return to New York. He has been traced over nearly the foot of his travels from Indiana, where he dropped suddenly and apparently absolved of sight. At this time it is known to a certainty that he had with him securities to the value of $25,000, and at least $1,000 in cash. About sixty days ago his son, L. Jansen, a wealthy man, died at Tecoma, Wash., visited Beatrice and other points known to have been frequented by his father. Everything indicates that Mr. Jansen has been murdered for his money.

MUNICIPAL LEAGUE ADJOURNS

Lively Fight Precipitated Over the Selection of Secretary—Other Officers Elected.

DETROIT, Aug. 4.—The League of American Municipalities this afternoon adopted the report of its special auditing committee, censuring its secretary, B. F. Gilkison of New York, for irregularities in handling of the league's funds. The league, however, re-elected the secretary in consideration of his services to the organization and on the theory that his failure to turn over the funds to the treasurer and to furnish the vouchers required by the auditing committee were technical errors and ought not to be construed as a reflection upon his character or ability. The auditing committee's report, read by the chairman, Mayor Gibson of Zanesville, O., stated that the secretary turned over to the treasurer the money received from dues, etc., from the first month, since which he had paid the bills from the money he received, regarding the latter part of the year. A warm debate succeeded the reading of the report, several delegates contending that its adoption would be unfair to Gilkison and discreditable to the league, especially since Gilkison had been the prime mover and worker in organizing the league. Other delegates contended that the organization should be conducted on strictly business principles and could find no excuses for the secretary's derelictions. Finally the previous question was moved and the report was adopted. Several constitutional amendments were then considered and adopted. The report of the Detroit delegates was placed in nomination. Mayor Maybury had previously announced to the Detroit delegation that he was not a candidate and Mayor Black, who is called the father of the league, was elected by a vote of 31 cities to 13 for Maybury. It was made unanimous. Mayor Maybury was elected president by acclamation. B. F. Gilkison was named for a second term as secretary by Alderman Elias Goodman of New York, Gilkison having declined to be secretary. The president argued that the secretary was but human, but the convention should be magnanimous to one whose services had been so valuable. "Republicans," said he, "are ungrateful, but municipalities should show that they are not."

Exalt German Power in Prayer

On entering Emperor William shook hands with Prince Hohenzollern, the chancellor. The organ was playing Beethoven's "Funeral March" as their majesties took their seats. The music ceased and the choir sang a hymn which die in the Lord," adding a number of appropriate scripture passages. Like "For today is a prince fallen in Israel." After the singing of a chorale came "Gott That Das Ist Wohlgethan," and the hymn, "Jesus Loh." Dr. Faber offered an extempore prayer, based on the 149th psalm, which he said had once been commended to Prince Bismarck at an important crisis in his life, by an old friend as a source of comfort and strength and which the great departed had often quoted. The prayer was a Germanic paean of praise to the emperor, who was the hero of Bismarck and his contemporaries. It was rich in scriptural exclamations like "My Father, my Father, the chariots of Israel and the horsemen thereof." One passage ran thus: "All who speak the German tongue will lead this to the most distant days; and the German emperor will carry them over fresh strains because through him and through all those loyal and great men who worked by the side of King William in the perilous deeds of war and in the noble works of peace that didst show thy good pleasure in us and didst gloriously help us. Thou gavest into their hands sharp swords to execute vengeance among the nations who set themselves against us and to bind their king's nobles with iron chains and to raise the words of the prophet, 'The German Reichstag to the First Chancellor of the German Empire,' was laid today upon the coffin of the late Prince Bismarck by a delegation composed of former Vice President Spahn, Dr. Bochemann Herr Gheim, councillor of accounts, Prince Herberich, secretary of the First Chancellor, the Countess von Ranau, coming to Friedrichshagen for this special purpose, received the delegation and conducted its members to the death chamber, where the delegation formally expressed the condolences of

NO TEARS FALL FOR BISMARCK

MEAGER AND SIMPLE ARE THE SERVICES

Emperor and Empress Formally Made Their Appearance and the Nobility is "Represented" in a Way.

BERLIN, Aug. 4.—Today's ceremony was brilliant and impressive as regards court display, but quite disappointing in other respects. It bore traces of haste and half-heartedness. The church was inadequately decorated and the service was an overblowing ceremony, which, so far from having the exceptional character of great national mourning for a nation's greatest statesman, differed hardly any from hundreds of similar functions that may be witnessed here at any time. Perhaps the most disappointing feature, though it was known beforehand, was the fact that not a single member of the Bismarck family attended. The royal pew, set apart for their accommodation, remained conspicuously and significantly empty. It must be admitted that the deceased statesman was not altogether popular with the masses in Berlin, but on such an occasion this alone could hardly account for the sparseness and nondescript character of the public attracted to the scene. The bitterness of the old chancellor toward the emperor is said to have reached beyond death. Today's incident was emphasized by the fact that Prince Herbert Bismarck came to Berlin during the afternoon on private business. The proceedings were characterized by the utmost splendor and pomp. The invitations in the official world were liberally responded to, many of the leading men coming from distant places for the sole purpose of being present. The emperor and empress arrived by train at Charlottenburg and drove to the church in an open laudau, the emperor in the front position, preceded by outriders and escorted by two squadrons of cuirassiers. Shortly after the service they left for Wilhelmshohe. Among the royal personages present at the service were Prince and Princess of Prussia, the late emperor's daughter, Princess Joachim Albrecht and Friedrich Wilhelm of Prussia, Prince Max von Baden, the prince of Hesse; Prince Albert of Schleswig-Holstein, the hereditary prince of Hohenzollern; Prince Carl of Hohenzollern, the hereditary prince of Hohenzollern.

Concedes Italy's Cause Just

LONDON, Aug. 5.—The Home correspondent of the Standard says "Italy having notified the United States of her intention to land a military force somewhere in Colombia in default of a compliance with her demands in connection with the Cerutti claim, the American government replied, recognizing Italy's full right to do so, and expressing the hope of a pacific solution."

DISAPPOINTS THE BADGER

Think They Are Going to Have a Fight, but Instead Only Find a Prize.

KEY WEST, Aug. 4.—No confirmation has been received here of the report that Neuvitas, the chief port of the province of Puerto Rico, has been evacuated by the Spaniards after a bombardment by American war ships. The auxiliary cruiser Badger captured three prizes at Neuvitas on July 26 and left with them that day for the Tortugas, arriving here this morning. Captain Spaulding says that the prizes were the large schooner Pizaro and the armed tug Anita and Yumuri were in the harbor. The only intelligence of the reported assault and evacuation of Neuvitas was that furnished on July 26 by Lieutenant Colonel Rojas of the insurgent forces to Commander Maynard of the gunboat Nashville.

Badger was covering the blockade station at Neuvitas on July 26, when one of the Spanish boats slipped down to the west of the harbor and took a peep at it. The enormous hull of the American ship, bristling with Nordenfolt guns, scared the Spaniard and it scurried back to shelter. A little while later three vessels were observed coming out in excellent formation and Captain Snow thought a good fight was coming. He brought his ship up to the mouth of the harbor and they promptly surrendered. The tug was the Humberto Rodriguez, fine and new, and worth about $70,000. The brigantine was the San and the barze was the San Fernando.

Party from the Badger boarded the prizes and found distributed over them about 400 Spanish soldiers who, it is said, had been ordered to Havana by General Salcedo. The surgeon in charge asserted that there were six cases of yellow fever among the troops, but a careful examination by the Badger's doctor and afterward by other physicians at Tortugas showed there was no infection among the men and that the Red Cross flags were used as a decoy.

At Neuvitas the Badger also took aboard eight deserters from the Spanish army, who are still on board the ship. They are a sergeant and seven privates of the Twenty-second Infantry, distributed over them from the town of Puerto Principe to Neuvitas, and when near the latter place the sergeant reported four men missing and asked for a detail of three men to find them. This was granted, but the detail also deserted and with the other men made their way to Matanzas, where they took the lightkeeper's boat and rowed out to the Badger, surrendering themselves with their mader rifles and ammunition. They said they did not want to serve under Spanish rule. In Neuvitas and, in fact, throughout the entire province, they said the inhabitants are starving.

The Badger proceeded with its prizes from Neuvitas to Havana, where it reported to Commodore Howell, who ordered them to Tortugas. At that place Captain Snow communicated with the Washington authorities and was instructed to send all the passengers to a steamer if one ship could carry them; if not to put some of them on a second ship and send them to New York. One of the passengers in the meanwhile died of dysentery at the Tortugas.

COLONIAL ELECTIONS WARMING UP

Ex-Premier Cecil Rhodes Makes Appearances Against Kruger

CAPETOWN, Aug. 4.—The colonial elections, which occur on September 4, are already causing great excitement. Personalities are rampant and the air is thick with the most serious allegations against the leaders of both factions. Cecil Rhodes, the former premier of Cape Colony, who at first held aloof, is now in the thick of the campaign and is carrying the fight into the camp of the Afrikanerboerd. He charges President Kruger of the Transvaal republic with using secret service money to support the candidates of the Afrikanerboerd. Sir Gordon Sprigg, the premier, and Messrs. Rose, Jones, Smutz and Brabant will be returned without opposition. Messrs. Rhodes and Hill have nominated Parkley West, who is supported by an overwhelming majority of the voters. Nevertheless, the candidates of the Afrikanerboerd demand a poll in every instance.

British Try to Obtain Concessions

LONDON, Aug. 4.—A dispatch from Peking to a local news agency says: Efforts are being made by the new British colony at New Chang in connection with the neighborhood as a proposed railroad terminus. The matter has been referred to the local taotai—the ruler of two or more departments of a province united into a taotai—whose dilatoriness in the matter is said to be due to Russian bribes. It is impossible to overestimate the importance of obtaining a proper footing in a region where British and Russian influence preponderates. A great proportion of the New Chang trade is in American goods and this fact renders the co-operation of the United States minister and his support of the British demand necessary, as the gravity of the situation is undoubted.
