

KANSAS CITY IS IN OMAHA

People from the Kaw's Mouth Come Up to Visit the Exposition.

THEY BUBBLE OVER WITH ENTHUSIASM

Several Thousand of Them Contribute to Make Their Day One of the Best in the Exposition's History.

Kansas City was here. It came in large numbers, and they were easily to be distinguished by the badges which suggested something about their town.

The visitors occupied three special trains, besides forcing the railroad companies to send several cars to their regular trains.

C. S. Curry, city clerk; R. B. Middlebrook, councillor; H. L. Lund, comptroller; J. Scott Harrison, treasurer; Amos H. Cecil, auditor; A. Wallace Love, superintendent of buildings; Henry Sieben, plumbing inspector; V. H. Pratt, gas inspector; Clarence McRoy, clerk in city clerk's office; William Wolf, deputy license inspector; J. H. Kucklick, county recorder's office.

Members of Upper House—A. F. Butt, John E. Lach, Herman M. Gerhart, C. N. Munson, P. S. Brown, Jr., William Clough, sergeant-at-arms.

Members of Lower House—John Moran, Jesse L. Jewell, Olaus Swanson, James O. Booth, John E. Lynch, Lewis B. Sawyer, William H. Ott, Burton A. D. Burren, John F. Wiedemann, John Thomas, sergeant-at-arms.

The newspaper men in the party are: Walter Sanford of the Star, J. Irwin of the Journal, Frank Marquard of the Times, J. P. Britt of the World and Arthur Cain of the Star.

Ex-Governor Thomas T. Crittenden and Hugh J. McGowan of the Barber Asphalt company and Henry R. Carson of Chicago, representing the same company, and Judge J. H. Austin are also in the party.

Modest but Insatiable. The representatives of the Manufacturers' association carried grass linen parasols, on which was inscribed the name of the organization.

The following business licenses were issued by County Judge Baxter yesterday: Name and Residence. Age. Niles Peter Anderson, South Omaha, 39. Betty Anderson, Omaha, 21.

EXPOSITION IS A WONDER

General Longstreet Expresses Great Admiration for What He Has Seen in Omaha.

General Longstreet and party expect to get away today. It was the intention to leave yesterday morning, but the members of the party concluded to remain over another day to further take in the attractions of the exposition.

"I think it is a most beautiful thing, and I have enjoyed seeing it. A wonderful enterprise, far greater than I had any hopes of witnessing. The flower parade was a marvel of beauty and a treat in itself. The universal opinion of our party is that the exposition is ahead of anything of the kind ever attempted in this country except the World's fair."

In discussing the results of the war with Spain General Longstreet expressed an emphatic opinion in favor of holding all the territory taken by the arms of this country. He admits there are numerous knotty problems to be solved, especially those bearing upon Cuba and the Philippines, but expresses the greatest confidence in the ability of the president to handle the questions wisely.

The general reports the condition of the railroad over which he has jurisdiction as being first-class. He says he has little to do with the Union Pacific, since it had paid off its bonds, but expects to find the Southern Pacific in good shape, as he says its management is in first-class hands.

JIMMY LINDSAY AT IT AGAIN

Tough Pugilist Tries to Intimidate Exposition Guards and Gets the Worst of It.

Yesterday morning several shots fired in rapid succession near the Twentieth street gate at the exposition grounds aroused the guards from their slumbers, and on investigation they found one of their comrades, William Carter, engaged in a scuffle with Jimmy Lindsay, the pugilist.

Lindsay had a revolver and the guard was unarmed. As four of the guards closed in on the struggling pair Lindsay fired several shots at them. After a struggle Lindsay was disarmed and taken to the city jail.

Lindsay's version of the story is that he left his home at Seventeenth and Madison streets, to go to Twenty-fourth street for medicine for his wife who had been taken ill very suddenly. He applied at the Twentieth street gate for the privilege of cutting across the grounds to his destination and was granted the privilege by one of the guards.

On his way back he took the same route. In attempting to pass through the gate, he says five guards attempted to prevent him and tried to arrest him. He tried to explain his presence on the grounds, but they would not listen to him. When they grew threatening in their manner and advanced as though to assault him he drew his revolver and fired in the air to intimidate them. They closed in on him, he says, and beat him about the head and face. Lindsay's face and head bear out his statement as to the beating he received. His nose is gashed and his forehead shows four long wounds.

The guards say that Lindsay was drunk and abusive in his manner and that when they spoke to him regarding his presence on the grounds he drew his revolver and threatened them. Instead of discharging the weapon into the air, they say he fired at them, but his aim was made uncertain because of his intoxicated condition.

Lindsay was convicted of killing his opponent, Robbins, in a prize fight at Platte mouth four years ago. For this he was given a seven years' sentence, but after serving one year was paroled. It is thought by the police that his parole is still in force. If it is he will probably be returned to the penitentiary if found guilty of the offenses charged to him.
