HOLMES GOES BACK TO JAIL

Speculator in Exposition Railroad Tickets Fails to Prove His Innocence.

EVIDENCE IS TAKEN AS CONVICTION

Defendant is Said to Have an Exceptionally Perfect Set of Tools for the Manipulation of Railroad Tickets.

E. F. Holmes, arrested on the charge of irregularity in connection with the sale of railway tickets, and who was brought before Judge Vinohaler in the county court Thursday afternoon, was sent back to jail yesterday to await trial in the district court. Holmes' preliminary examination resulted in his being held for further investigation. Bond was fixed at $2,000, which he could not give.

The prosecuting witness was James E. Hitt, a ticket broker from St. Joseph, Mo. Mr. Hitt testified that he had received from Holmes a consignment of bogus tickets over the Burlington and Santa Fe railroads, which came about as the result of the cheap rates that were made for the exposition in Omaha. He was called upon by detectives, he said, who asked him what he knew about Holmes. For reply he gave them the consignment of tickets, which amounted to about 6,000 miles. From the evidence thus secured the railroad passenger agents and the secret service force worked up the case that landed Holmes in jail.

Mr. Hitt was subjected to rigid cross-examination by the attorneys who represented Holmes, but he did not waver in the story he told in the beginning.

According to the evidence the manner in which Holmes manipulated tickets was most clever. He is said to have had the most expert lot of tools in the country, and by his method, so the evidence showed, he could fill up a punch mark made by a conductor and by a punch of his own make a mark that would extend the ticket for any length of time, just to suit his fancy.

Holmes was a familiar street character in Omaha during the exposition. He was a

If the reader wants anything stronger than the opinions and experiences of his neighbors, what can it be?

Mrs. T. J. King of 1516 North Twenty-eighth street says: "Three weeks before I got Doan's Kidney Pills at Kuhn & Co.'s drug store, corner of 15th and Douglas streets, I could hardly crawl about the house on account of pain in the small of my back. I wore plasters all the time, but they did me no good. When sitting or reclining I could scarcely get on my feet, and I attribute the cause to an accident when I fell off the sidewalk, broke a limb and injured my back. Doan's Kidney Pills at first helped me and finally disposed of the last attack. It requires very little imagination to reason that what benefited me so greatly can be depended upon in the future should recurrence take place."

Doan's Kidney Pills are for sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents per box. Sent by mail on receipt of price by Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no substitute.

IMPLEMENT DEALERS FINISH

Closing Sessions of the Ninth Annual Convention for Two States.

OFFICERS ELECTED FOR ENSUING YEAR

Social Phases of the Annual Gathering Develop at Friday Afternoon's Open Session and Last Evening's Reception.

The annual convolve of Nebraska and Iowa implement dealers terminated Friday. The final executive session of the convention occurred in the morning, at which officers for the year were elected as follows: President, L. J. Blowers of David City, Neb.; vice president, N. L. Maloney, Essex, Ia.; directors, Geo. Babson, Seward, Neb.; H. P. Shumway, Wakefield, Neb., and C. D. Ayers, Kearney, Neb.

Resolutions were adopted expressing the thanks of the convention to the press, the jobbers, the local entertainment committee and others who had contributed to the comfort and enjoyment of the delegates.

The directors met early yesterday afternoon and re-elected Secretary-Treasurer McLaughlin for the fifth term. Mr. McLaughlin has been the leading spirit in the organization for years and has at times kept it alive by his individual efforts and means.

An open session was held during the afternoon at Morand's hall, which partook of a social character. The new president, Mr. Blowers, was in the chair. A quartet of colored men in the gallery supplied vocal and instrumental music.

J. A. Craig, general manager of the Jamesville Machine company, was called upon and spoke for some time on reforms necessary in the business of the manufacturer, the jobber and the retailer. Business, rather than must be conducted along new lines, embodying higher prices, lower discounts, shorter credit time and advanced freight, all of which necessitate larger capital. Merchants must look more closely after their discounts, however small, must limit credits and see that the interest balance is on the right side of the ledger and must dispose of machinery on hand, which was secured at better than the prices now prevailing, at the figures which it would take to replace it. The implement man's millenium, which all had long hoped for but few had expected to see, has arrived and he should prepare to take advantage of it.

Evils and Their Remedies.

F. D. Svardam of Toledo, O., spoke with the Millburn Wagon company, connected for nearly an hour on "Evils and Their Remedies." His address was decidedly entertaining even to those who were not present as implement dealers. He thought that from catalogue houses, concerning which so much has been said by the implement men, the latter have nothing to fear, for every implement man is well acquainted with the quality of goods they sell at the prices they demand and the same cash terms. He thought the dealer has no just ground of complaint against the branch house established by manufacturer or jobber, and said that the commission man competition is sure to wear itself out as unprofitable to manufacturers and jobbers. The evils appear to be due to the great variety of machines made, the ambition of the makers to get a share of the trade and the tendency to consider the farmer an easy mark. He spoke strongly against the granting of long credit as an injury both to the dealer and the farmer. Mentioning the evils that afflict the jobber

SOME LIGHT ON PHILATELY

A Peep Into the Early Chapters of an Abstruse Science.

GRAVE DOUBTS AS TO ITS DEPTH

Shades, Colors and Texture of Paper Now Perplex the Gray Matter of Stamp Collectors—Tips for the Troubled.

These are the days of and this is the season of the year for institutes of arts and sciences and in those institutes are many mansions called sections. The multiplicity of sections is in proportion to the multiplicity of the arts and sciences, which are ever multiplying.

Within the last few weeks, reports the New York Tribune, one of the leading institutes of New York City has been busy in its section of philately with a most interesting lecture. Philately is quite different from telepathy, nor is it, as many of the vulgar think, a mania; it is, on the authority of this lecture, a science. Like politics, in the words of Count Smolnikoff, it "surprises by himself" a study of great magnitude. It appears to be one of those studies to which a man may devote a lifetime, to the exclusion of all others—even grammar—without even getting to the bottom of it. In fact, the author of this lecture in one passage implies an uncertainty as to whether it has any bottom.

These statements, of course, apply only to advanced philately, of which the simple collectors and stickers in of foreign postage stamps have no more idea than a newshy has of military press censorship. "The study now for advanced collectors," says a resume of the above mentioned lecture, "must be in the direction of shades, varieties of paper, thickness, texture, methods of separation," etc. Who but philatelists and the secretary of the treasury would suppose that "at rare intervals something that is startling" in the way of "United States revenues" comes up? For the nerves of the frail advanced philatelist student have been strung up to the pitch where he will shy violently at the sight of a "part rouletted $3 1898 issue." At the same time, if he be sound in his little thing—"created stamps," for example, and "all sorts of fantastic perforations," etc. As to collecting the former, the lecturer says, in a becoming spirit of loyalty, "it is making much of wrinkled paper used by the government." As to the latter, drawing upon the sister science of ethics, he points out that "if they became popular * * * there would be opportunities for no end of fraud.

Getting Into the Subject.

It would be futile for anyone not a member of the section of philately in an institute of arts and sciences to carry serious study of this lecture further than its earlier paragraphs.

COURT UPHOLDS SETTLEMENT

Contest Over the Fortune of a Brewer Thrown Out by the Judge.

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 12.—The suit brought four years ago by Ferdinand A. Heim, administrator of the estate of Michael Heim, deceased, the big East St. Louis brewer, against Joseph J. Heim, executor of the estate of Ferdinand Heim, Sr., Joseph J. Heim, Ferdinand Heim, Jr., and Michael G. Heim, has been dismissed by Judge Slover in the district court. Judge Slover finds that the estate has been properly administered and assesses the costs in the suit against the plaintiff.

The fortune over which the parties to the suit have been contending was amassed by the brothers, Michael and Ferdinand Heim, in the brewery business in East St. Louis, Ill. In 1883 Michael Heim died intestate and the estate was not settled for over ten years, when the widow, now Mrs. Anna Helen-McArthur, of Los Angeles, Cal., and her two sons accepted $105,000 in full settlement of their shares. The contention raised in the suit just disposed of was that this sum was inadequate and that the value of their interests in the brewery was worth much more.
