

EARLY EPISCOPAL BISHOPS

Their Labors, Trials and Triumphs in Pioneer Times in Nebraska.

PREPARING THE GROUND FOR THE SEEDING

Struggles and Privations of Church Workers Thirty Years Ago—The Harvest Time of Later Years.

The labors, trials and triumphs of the pioneer bishops of the Episcopal church in Nebraska are appreciatively, though briefly, sketched by Henry W. Yates in the January number of the Crozier.

The first establishment of the church here was accomplished by laymen without the sanction or aid of any episcopal functionary.

The first church movement occurred in Omaha. A few laymen met together in 1856 and decided that they wanted the church, and sent an urgent request to Bishop Lee of Iowa to visit them with reference to organizing a parish.

This was the first and only visit ever made to Nebraska by Bishop Kemper. Shortly afterwards he received his jurisdiction over the Episcopal church in Nebraska.

I can find no record of any other visit from Bishop Lee than the one referred to, except when the cornerstone was laid, which is mentioned in the quotations which follow.

A paper entitled "An Account of Bishop Talbot's Mission of Trinity Church" presented in 1862 contains the story of the first church erected in Nebraska.

Trinity church was the last at which Bishop Clarkson presided, the numbers had grown to thirty-six parishes and forty-six missions.

This is the brief and terse record of his achievements as given in Bishop Perry's history of the diocese.

The creation of an endowment for the episcopate, the erection of a noble cathedral, the establishment of the diocesan schools and the rapid development of missions into parishes make the episcopate of Bishop Clarkson a noble memorial in God's work.

It is hardly fair to pass any judgment on the work of Bishop Talbot.

At this time there were seven parishes and three missions in Nebraska. His services were rendered in Nebraska at the most important part of his work that remains in Brownell hall.

It is hardly fair to pass any judgment on the work of Bishop Talbot.

We all covet strength and admire it. We look at the marvelous muscular development of a Sandow and wish straightaway to resolve to buy a pair of dumb bells and get strong.

To establish the stomach and the digestive and nutritive functions in perfect health, there is no medicine so sure and so satisfactory as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.

About twelve years ago I was suddenly taken with a pain in the pit of the stomach which was relieved only by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.

EMIGRATION FROM IRELAND

Seamus MacManus Dwells on the Lights and Shadows of an Ocean Trip.

EMIGRA TION OF FIFTY YEARS AGO AND TODAY

Protracted Voyages in Sailing Ships—Characteristic Farewell Revelries, Patriotic Leave Takings and Joyful Returns.

The other day I went into the large office at the foot of New York to the freshly landed emigrant and see him go through the routine necessary on landing.

I came from the one country of Ireland which perhaps more than any other has for generations been sending into exile its sons and its daughters—the County of Donegal.

For our Irish boys and girls to leave their homes now is a trial and perhaps only second to death. In the Irish famine times of 1846-47-48, and for half a dozen years after, my countrymen and women swarmed across the Atlantic by hundreds of thousands.

Three weeks before the date of his proposed sailing the intending emigrant started out over the countryside to say good-bye to his neighbors and friends.

His immediate neighbors and his friends from far and near a week before his sailing began baking and hardening out everything they could.

On the morning when the ship was to start for the shore, a piper and a fiddler were carried on board with the emigrants.

When all were aboard the skipper, waiting upon wind or weather, or often upon something of far less importance, delayed a day, a week, three weeks or even actually a month before the emigrant's friends.

When all were aboard the skipper, waiting upon wind or weather, or often upon something of far less importance, delayed a day, a week, three weeks or even actually a month before the emigrant's friends.

When all were aboard the skipper, waiting upon wind or weather, or often upon something of far less importance, delayed a day, a week, three weeks or even actually a month before the emigrant's friends.

When all were aboard the skipper, waiting upon wind or weather, or often upon something of far less importance, delayed a day, a week, three weeks or even actually a month before the emigrant's friends.

When all were aboard the skipper, waiting upon wind or weather, or often upon something of far less importance, delayed a day, a week, three weeks or even actually a month before the emigrant's friends.

When all were aboard the skipper, waiting upon wind or weather, or often upon something of far less importance, delayed a day, a week, three weeks or even actually a month before the emigrant's friends.

When all were aboard the skipper, waiting upon wind or weather, or often upon something of far less importance, delayed a day, a week, three weeks or even actually a month before the emigrant's friends.

When all were aboard the skipper, waiting upon wind or weather, or often upon something of far less importance, delayed a day, a week, three weeks or even actually a month before the emigrant's friends.

When all were aboard the skipper, waiting upon wind or weather, or often upon something of far less importance, delayed a day, a week, three weeks or even actually a month before the emigrant's friends.

When all were aboard the skipper, waiting upon wind or weather, or often upon something of far less importance, delayed a day, a week, three weeks or even actually a month before the emigrant's friends.

When all were aboard the skipper, waiting upon wind or weather, or often upon something of far less importance, delayed a day, a week, three weeks or even actually a month before the emigrant's friends.

When all were aboard the skipper, waiting upon wind or weather, or often upon something of far less importance, delayed a day, a week, three weeks or even actually a month before the emigrant's friends.

When all were aboard the skipper, waiting upon wind or weather, or often upon something of far less importance, delayed a day, a week, three weeks or even actually a month before the emigrant's friends.

EMIGRATION FROM IRELAND

Seamus MacManus Dwells on the Lights and Shadows of an Ocean Trip.

EMIGRA TION OF FIFTY YEARS AGO AND TODAY

Protracted Voyages in Sailing Ships—Characteristic Farewell Revelries, Patriotic Leave Takings and Joyful Returns.

The other day I went into the large office at the foot of New York to the freshly landed emigrant and see him go through the routine necessary on landing.

I came from the one country of Ireland which perhaps more than any other has for generations been sending into exile its sons and its daughters—the County of Donegal.

For our Irish boys and girls to leave their homes now is a trial and perhaps only second to death. In the Irish famine times of 1846-47-48, and for half a dozen years after, my countrymen and women swarmed across the Atlantic by hundreds of thousands.

Three weeks before the date of his proposed sailing the intending emigrant started out over the countryside to say good-bye to his neighbors and friends.

His immediate neighbors and his friends from far and near a week before his sailing began baking and hardening out everything they could.

On the morning when the ship was to start for the shore, a piper and a fiddler were carried on board with the emigrants.

When all were aboard the skipper, waiting upon wind or weather, or often upon something of far less importance, delayed a day, a week, three weeks or even actually a month before the emigrant's friends.

When all were aboard the skipper, waiting upon wind or weather, or often upon something of far less importance, delayed a day, a week, three weeks or even actually a month before the emigrant's friends.

When all were aboard the skipper, waiting upon wind or weather, or often upon something of far less importance, delayed a day, a week, three weeks or even actually a month before the emigrant's friends.

When all were aboard the skipper, waiting upon wind or weather, or often upon something of far less importance, delayed a day, a week, three weeks or even actually a month before the emigrant's friends.

When all were aboard the skipper, waiting upon wind or weather, or often upon something of far less importance, delayed a day, a week, three weeks or even actually a month before the emigrant's friends.

When all were aboard the skipper, waiting upon wind or weather, or often upon something of far less importance, delayed a day, a week, three weeks or even actually a month before the emigrant's friends.

When all were aboard the skipper, waiting upon wind or weather, or often upon something of far less importance, delayed a day, a week, three weeks or even actually a month before the emigrant's friends.

When all were aboard the skipper, waiting upon wind or weather, or often upon something of far less importance, delayed a day, a week, three weeks or even actually a month before the emigrant's friends.

When all were aboard the skipper, waiting upon wind or weather, or often upon something of far less importance, delayed a day, a week, three weeks or even actually a month before the emigrant's friends.

When all were aboard the skipper, waiting upon wind or weather, or often upon something of far less importance, delayed a day, a week, three weeks or even actually a month before the emigrant's friends.

When all were aboard the skipper, waiting upon wind or weather, or often upon something of far less importance, delayed a day, a week, three weeks or even actually a month before the emigrant's friends.

When all were aboard the skipper, waiting upon wind or weather, or often upon something of far less importance, delayed a day, a week, three weeks or even actually a month before the emigrant's friends.

When all were aboard the skipper, waiting upon wind or weather, or often upon something of far less importance, delayed a day, a week, three weeks or even actually a month before the emigrant's friends.

EMIGRATION FROM IRELAND

Seamus MacManus Dwells on the Lights and Shadows of an Ocean Trip.

EMIGRA TION OF FIFTY YEARS AGO AND TODAY

Protracted Voyages in Sailing Ships—Characteristic Farewell Revelries, Patriotic Leave Takings and Joyful Returns.

The other day I went into the large office at the foot of New York to the freshly landed emigrant and see him go through the routine necessary on landing.

I came from the one country of Ireland which perhaps more than any other has for generations been sending into exile its sons and its daughters—the County of Donegal.

For our Irish boys and girls to leave their homes now is a trial and perhaps only second to death. In the Irish famine times of 1846-47-48, and for half a dozen years after, my countrymen and women swarmed across the Atlantic by hundreds of thousands.

Three weeks before the date of his proposed sailing the intending emigrant started out over the countryside to say good-bye to his neighbors and friends.

His immediate neighbors and his friends from far and near a week before his sailing began baking and hardening out everything they could.

On the morning when the ship was to start for the shore, a piper and a fiddler were carried on board with the emigrants.

When all were aboard the skipper, waiting upon wind or weather, or often upon something of far less importance, delayed a day, a week, three weeks or even actually a month before the emigrant's friends.

When all were aboard the skipper, waiting upon wind or weather, or often upon something of far less importance, delayed a day, a week, three weeks or even actually a month before the emigrant's friends.

When all were aboard the skipper, waiting upon wind or weather, or often upon something of far less importance, delayed a day, a week, three weeks or even actually a month before the emigrant's friends.

When all were aboard the skipper, waiting upon wind or weather, or often upon something of far less importance, delayed a day, a week, three weeks or even actually a month before the emigrant's friends.

When all were aboard the skipper, waiting upon wind or weather, or often upon something of far less importance, delayed a day, a week, three weeks or even actually a month before the emigrant's friends.

When all were aboard the skipper, waiting upon wind or weather, or often upon something of far less importance, delayed a day, a week, three weeks or even actually a month before the emigrant's friends.

When all were aboard the skipper, waiting upon wind or weather, or often upon something of far less importance, delayed a day, a week, three weeks or even actually a month before the emigrant's friends.

When all were aboard the skipper, waiting upon wind or weather, or often upon something of far less importance, delayed a day, a week, three weeks or even actually a month before the emigrant's friends.

When all were aboard the skipper, waiting upon wind or weather, or often upon something of far less importance, delayed a day, a week, three weeks or even actually a month before the emigrant's friends.

When all were aboard the skipper, waiting upon wind or weather, or often upon something of far less importance, delayed a day, a week, three weeks or even actually a month before the emigrant's friends.

When all were aboard the skipper, waiting upon wind or weather, or often upon something of far less importance, delayed a day, a week, three weeks or even actually a month before the emigrant's friends.

When all were aboard the skipper, waiting upon wind or weather, or often upon something of far less importance, delayed a day, a week, three weeks or even actually a month before the emigrant's friends.

When all were aboard the skipper, waiting upon wind or weather, or often upon something of far less importance, delayed a day, a week, three weeks or even actually a month before the emigrant's friends.

Sample Furniture Sale

About 200 sample furniture pieces are put in this sale to move them quickly. These are all good desirable high grade goods—one or two pieces of a pattern, which cannot be made today for the prices we have marked them.

We need the room for goods which we have coming in large quantities, which explains our reason for sacrificing our sample pieces.

It will pay you to investigate these goods—as you may see just what you have been looking for, and the saving to you will be one-fourth to one-third.

Table listing furniture items and prices. Items include iron beds, folding beds, bookcases, tables, chairs, and sofas. Prices range from $17 to $129.

Curtain Special

200 pairs Ruffled Curtains in muslin and fish nets—muslins in plain, dotted, figured, striped and checked, also in colors—fish nets in assorted styles, 3 yards long, 38 to 45 inches wide. An elegant assortment worth $1.25, $1.50 and $1.75 a pair—special for this week only $1.00 pair. 100 pairs extra good quality Ruffled Curtains in muslins and fish nets, plain figured and colored, curtains that sold at $2.50, $3.00 and $3.50 pair. Special for this week, $2.00 per pair.

Orchard & Wilhelm Carpet Co.,

1414-16-18 DOUGLAS STREET.

And more than enough for me. I have 22 shillings, and that's too much—too much when I think of all you have to do with your little money.

"No, Roy, I—I must give you more," her father pleaded, a big tear forcing itself out of his eye.

"Father, oh father! won't you—won't you put up the purse? You've too little and I have too much."

He closed the purse again and put it in his vest hesitatingly.

All of the girls bore up bravely until, when they were seated in the carriage and the train having whistled, they must say their final good-bye.

Room for Improvement.

Aboard the passenger steamers today the treatment of these emigrant boys and girls is not yet everything it should be.

Struggles and Disappointments.

To one who considers the childish, joyous optimism that inspires the Irish youth whose eyes are bent on the states, and having been, realizes the circumstances and the struggles that await his brethren.

Stood Death Out.

E. B. Munday, a lawyer of Henrietta, Tex., once fooled a grave digger. He says: "My brother was very low with malarial fever and jaundice. I persuaded him to try Electric Bitters and he was soon much better."

I saw some strong testimonials of Wine of Cardui when I was in bed sick, and my husband got me a bottle. I was in bad shape and had spent over $200.00 for treatment.

YOU CAN GET A BOTTLE AT YOUR DRUG STORE TO-DAY FOR $1.00.