therefore, the mayor decided that it would be useless to contend further with the council. That body is unanimous in its opinion and the mayor's veto would simply serve to delay action for a few weeks. In view of the fact that city employes are now behind on their salaries the mayor felt his disapproval of the ordinance would impose a hardship without any object being attained. All the funds are exhausted with the exception of the library and park funds, which contain sufficient moneys to meet the January pay-

In view of the fact that the general fund has received an increase the police commissloners may ask that a portion of it be diverted to their department. One of them remarked humorously; "If we run the department on a proper basis until about October and then close the jail and discharge the force I think the council might be induced to allow us part of the general fund. It didn't take them long to come to time last year when we closed the engine house at Thirteenth and Harney streets."
