One of the items of advantage of this road is that it enables the grain merchants at Kansas City to pay 7 ceuts more a bushel for grain than merchants at other points can pay and still market the grain with the apparent. same margin of profit. Then again there is a saving to the railroads. The road following the natural declivity of the country is enabled to hauf heavier trains at a less expense than roads without this advantage and with heavy grades.

The Nebraska & Gulf people now have a corps of men in Boyd county seeking an for a right of way. They are presumably secking to reach the large cattle ranges in the White river country. But it is not at all probable that this part of their road will ever be built, for the reason that it is said by engineers familiar with the country to be an impracticable route because of the conditions which obtain in that secthe banks of the Niobrara river are such that it can be bridged at but two places.
