El Bayle, arrested for being intoxicated, pleaded $10 for his expenses, but still to come to town. His money was forfeited.

A large and enthusiastic meeting was held last evening in the southern part of the city. A number of the republican candidates were present and made addresses.

Joe Proctor, charged with being a fugitive from justice, was taken to Omaha yesterday. Proctor is wanted for complicity in robbing some freight cars near Cut-Off island.

People who have neglected to register, or those who have changed their residence from one ward to another since the election last fall, must register today or lose their votes.

The city clerk was furnished with the usual quota of sample ballots yesterday. They are a bright yellow, and wherever posted suggest a measles or scarlet fever warning.

A change of venue has been taken in the case of H. P. Korns, charged with assaulting Jessie Pierce, to Justice Cook's court. He will have a hearing this morning at 9 o'clock.

Lloyd Blackmore, recently sentenced to a jail term of fifteen days, was released on the promise that he would leave the city. Fearing to do this he locked up, and is now serving out his time.

Chicken thieves were operating in the vicinity of Manawa Thursday night. Yesterday morning Dave... discovered that a large number of... chickens were missing.

There were no vacant seats at the new Dohany last night and standing room was again at a premium. Tonight the bill will be "Papa Ticket No. 210," the play that made Little Lottie famous.

J. J. Frailey has returned to the city after an extended trip throughout the state giving Shakespearean recitals. Mr. Frailey will leave next Tuesday, appearing at Cornish March 4. He has dates until April 10, when he will speak at Webster City under the auspices of the Elks. He says he came home to vote.

Stella Thompson, the woman arrested for her illegitimate accomplishments, which she excelled upon the officers who arrested Joe Proctor at Cut Off, was given a fine of $15 by Judge McGee yesterday. The charge against the woman for vagrancy. She could not control her tongue or her temper when arraigned in the police court, and the marks made at the time helped to increase her punishment.

The bootlegger who never reads and never learns was in his customary trouble with the federal revenue officers yesterday. There were two of them before Commissioner Steadman during the afternoon. One was Cass Townsend of Hamburg, and the other was George Byrd of Atlantic. Byrd was released under a nominal bond, but Townsend was shown to be a serious violator of the revenue laws and was held under $200 bond, after having been fined $100.

Manawa's Corporate Existence. The suit of John Tobin against the town of Lake Manawa was called in the superior court yesterday and continued by agreement until this morning.

In this action Tobin seeks to have the incorporation of the town of Lake Manawa set aside and declared null and void on the ground that the law was not complied with in the steps necessary to incorporate the town.

While the question of the town's right to name is in litigation the inhabitants thereof are going right along with big preparations for the hottest kind of an election, that is looked for next Monday. The two factions that have been at odds for some time since the place was incorporated are going to have another fight, and it promises to be a finish this time. Each side accuses the other of trying to win votes and there is a chance that further litigation may come of the deal before the present case is settled by the tedious process of the courts.

Dr. Cleaver's office moved to 600 Broadway. Representative Potter of Pottawattamie county is the father of a bill which has been recommended by the house committee for passage, placing the express companies under the control of the State Banking board. The bill is conceded to be an outgrowth of an attempt on the part of the country bankers of the state to punish the express companies by a private act in two months ago in advancing the rates for the transmission of currency between different points. The bill, as it will be reported from the committee, provides that the express companies shall be subject in all respects to the laws governing banks and bankers, and shall be required to keep and maintain at some point in each county of the state an amount of capital equal to at least $5,000, which shall be subject to taxation.

Only two weeks more remain of the great furniture sale of the Durfee Furniture company. All of the stock of the Council Bluffs Furniture company must be closed out by March 1.

Davis, only drug store with registered clerk. High School Boys Give a Dinner. A very pleasant social event occurred at the Grand hotel last evening. A number of the members of the High school gave a class dinner, to which an equal number of the High school girls were invited. The dinner was served in a private dining room in the usual faultless manner of Landlord Clark. Prof. Gellenbeck's Banjo club of Omaha furnished the music. The affair was agreeably new and interesting. Toasts were proposed and responded to after the last courses were served, and the healths of the young warriors pledged in glasses of strong lemonade.

Stephen Brons, for plumbing and heating; also fine line of gas fixtures. Funeral of John Metcalf. The funeral of the late John E. Metcalf took place yesterday afternoon under the auspices of the Grand army men and the members of the United Veteran Legion. Both organizations met at the upper end of Broadway and marched to the residence in a body. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. Mr. Simpson, rector of Grace Episcopal church. The body was buried in Walnut Hill cemetery. The funeral cortege was a long one. The body was buried with military honors.

GET ANOTHER BOY FIRE BUG

Police Add a Second Ackerman to the Collection Under Arrest.

OPERATIONS OF THE GANG EXPLAINED

Members Give Details of the Methods of Entering and Firing Houses and Then Making Their Escape.

A fifth boy was implicated with the gang of four young firebugs arrested Thursday night for burning a dwelling house on Fifth avenue. The boy is Albert Ackerman, an older brother of Harry Ackerman. He was arrested yesterday upon an information furnished by Chief Templeton of the fire department, charging him with setting fire to a vacant dwelling at 2431 Fifth avenue on the night of January 30. The older Ackerman boy is about 15 years of age, a few months younger than the Bethers boy, and was arrested yesterday when the younger Ackerman and his brother confessed that they had set the building afire by procuring oil waste from car axle boxes and putting it back of the lat in a closet, after kicking off the plastering. The boys said they generally took about fifteen minutes to get the fire started, and were careful to close the closet door. This would give them ample time to get out of the house and to shift the responsibility before the fire would be noticed.

All five of the boys, Jake Bethers, Harry and Albert Ackerman, Fred Trux and George Trux, were arrested before Judge McGee yesterday morning. They were questioned by the judge at some length. Each was ready and willing to confess to the other boys and to shift the responsibility for dropping the lighted match into the wisp of hay, but all admitted carrying the match and helping to get it back of the plastering. After getting a portion of the stories the further hearing of the cases was postponed until today.

Chief Templeton thinks that the two houses which the boys have admitted they have burned were not the only ones, and that Bethers was the real leader in all of the crimes. At about every fire in that portion of the town where these boys live, where the origin of the flames was such a mystery that it pointed to incendiarism, young Bethers was always the first person to meet the chief at the scene and was always ready with a story about seeing somebody run from the building a few minutes before the fire broke out. It may be impossible to connect the boys with any other acts of incendiarism, but the belief is strong that there are several other cases before Judge McGee of a dwelling house belonging to Mrs. Noyack and occupied by her at the time caught fire in a closet. Jake Bethers was on hand with a lot of information which he obviously gave the chief, which, in the light of the present revelations, creates a strong suspicion that Bethers did the work by getting into the house without attracting attention.

GROWS OUT OF THE BIG FIRE.

Deere, Wells & Co. File a Suit Against the Milwaukee Railway Company. The petitioners were filed in the United States district court yesterday by Deere, Wells & Co. in the amount of $100,000, against the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway company for the destruction of their big implement warehouse by fire last December. The amount sued for reaches the handsome sum of $125,129.38, and is the total loss sustained by the implement people at the time of the fire.

The petition recites that the defendant railway company, after negligently permitting the weeds and grass to grow upon its right of way, which caused the destruction of the implement building and its contents by permitting its employees to set fire to the same, and after having been notified and desired to destroy, and that the fire was built on the property of the railroad company, which approaches very close to the warehouse, and that the negligence of the employees of the fire was permitted to get beyond their control and was communicated to the buildings, which were destroyed on December 12.

There are two counts in the petition and both recite the foregoing facts. In both the petitioners pray for the amount of $100,000, and are willing to accept of a judgment for the amount of $100,000, and that the flames reached the Deere, Wells & Co. building by crossing the street.

For Polk Wells' Pardon.

The house committee on pardons has unanimously voted to recommend the pardon of Polk Wells, who is serving a life sentence in the penitentiary at Fort Madison for the murder of Fitzgerald.

Wells was originally a member of the Jesse James gang and was captured in Wisconsin in 1876 by Dan Forrest, an sheriff of Mills county. He was convicted on charges of bank robbery and was sentenced to twelve years in the penitentiary. Just after his term of imprisonment began he made his escape with other convicts, and in doing so shot and killed a guard, Fitzgerald.

Wells was recaptured and sentenced to life in the penitentiary. Since his recapture he has been an exemplary prisoner and the application for his pardon has met with the approval of all the prison officials.

A friend of Polk Wells has promised that if he is pardoned he will not write a book and will not go on the lecture platform, but will settle down at Fort Madison, where he has a sister living, and will spend the rest of his days in that town.

Organized a Socialist Section. "General" Kelly and a number of speakers from Omaha last night concluded the series of meetings that have been held at Danneberg hall during the week. At the close of a meeting a socialist section was organized with a membership of sixty.

"General" Kelly will meet Dr. Ferrin next Wednesday night in a debate on the subject of socialism against populism, and on Sunday night, March 8, Mr. and Mrs. Kelly will speak at the DeLong mission.

Electric Bitters. Electric Bitters is a medicine suited for any season, but perhaps more generally needed in the spring, when the languid exhausted feeling prevails, when the liver is torpid and sluggish and the need of a tonic and alterative is felt. A prompt use of this medicine has often averted long and perhaps fatal bilious fevers. No medicine will act more surely in counteracting and freeing the system from the malarial poison. Headache, indigestion, constipation, dizziness yield to Electric Bitters. Only fifty cents per bottle at Kuhn & Co.'s drug store.

NEW YORK'S NEW LIQUOR LAW.

Raines Excise Bill Will Easily Pass the Senate. ALBANY, Feb. 28.—In a senate republican caucus it was shown that the Raines excise bill was sure of thirty-two votes in the senate, which insures its passage by that body today. The principal features of the measure are: Abolition of all local excise boards on April 30, 1896. Termination of all excise licenses June 30, 1896. Creation of a state excise commissioner at a salary of $2,000 a year, deputy at $1,000; three special inspectors at $4,000, $3,000 and $2,000; six inspectors at large at $1,200 and expenses for all.

First class license for saloons, clubs and hotels, at $800 in New York, $650 in Brooklyn, $500 in Buffalo and second class cities, and graded according to population in others. Gives one-third of the net revenues collected to the state and two-thirds to the counties. Allows county treasurers except in counties containing cities of the first class, less excise, to collect and remit to the state, the latter in county districts.

Prohibits all-night licenses and the sale of liquor on Sunday, except in hotels with a license for the purpose of watering clubs. Fines for violation of law is fixed at not less than twice the amount of license. Allows legal option in towns only and not in cities.

Compels posting of liquor licenses in windows of saloons. Prohibits saloons within 200 feet of a church or school. Allows courts to review applications for license, also petitions for revocation of licenses.

SHOT IN PLACE OF HIS FRIEND. Story from Missouri that Smacks of the Improbable. CHICAGO, Feb. 28.—A special dispatch from Springfield, Mo., says: President Homer T. Fuller of Drury college announces that he has received a singular proposition from a wealthy Massachusetts man, whose identity he would not disclose. The man offers Drury a large sum of money if he will verify the truth of a war incident which is alleged to have taken place in Missouri, and which, if true, would be a great asset to the college. The man offers $10,000 if the college will accept the offer, and he requests the students to help him secure positive evidence if such a thing really did occur.

The story is that in the early part of the war a detachment of confederate troops in Missouri took about 100 union prisoners. Twelve of these prisoners were lined up and shot without provocation by the confederate officers. Upon hearing of this act the commander of the federal regiment drafted twelve confederate prisoners to be shot in retaliation. As the line was being formed, a young man, named Lewis, stepped forward and asked permission to take the place of one of the condemned men, who was a friend of his. The request was granted, and Lewis was shot in place of his friend.

RAN AWAY WITH HIS GIRL COUSIN. Bank Robber Lynched in Texas Had an Unusual Record. NEOSHO, Mo., Feb. 28.—The news of the bank robbery at Wichita Falls, Tex., in which Elmer Lewis, formerly of this place, was implicated, has just reached this city. Lewis was a son of James Lewis, and had always lived here until about a year ago when he went to the territory. Later he returned and left next fall, taking with him his cousin, Miss Lulu, who was never seen again. He was engaged in lawlessness of any consequence, but always wanted to convey the idea of being a hard man, and his lawlessness was a great surprise. The father is master mechanic in the Neosho foundry at this place and for a number of years has been leading a quiet life, although he has been in a highway robbery in this county a number of years ago, for which he served a sentence in the penitentiary. He has been authorized by the father to give him a decent burial, stating that he would pay all expenses. Nothing is known of the whereabouts of the young woman he took from here with him.

NO PARADE OF BLUE AND GRAY. Prominent Grand Army Leaders Opposed to the Idea. WILMINGTON, Del., Feb. 28.—National Commander Walker, who attended the session of the Grand Army of the Republic at Newark, this state, has freely expressed himself on the proposed meeting of the blue and the gray in New York. He said: "There is not a loyal union soldier who would approve of such a thing. Loyalty deserves its reward, and treason deserves its punishment. There is a broad distinction between union soldiers and confederates and so long as I am the head of the Grand Army of the Republic the distinction shall be observed so far as this organization is concerned. I would not for a minute favor any suggestion that would offer to place union and confederate soldiers side by side in parade, wearing blue and gray uniforms, even though they both marched under the flag of the United States."

Not a few who read what Mr. Robert Rowis, of Holland, Va., has to say below, will remember their own experience under like circumstances. "Last winter, I had a grippe which left me in a low state of health. I tried numerous remedies, none of which did me any good, until I was induced to try a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. I had taken the first bottle of it so far relieved me that I was enabled to attend to my work, and the second bottle effected a cure. For sale at 25 and 50 cents per bottle by druggists."

AWFUL DEATH OF A MECHANIC. Sioux City Man Caught in Shafting and Torn to Pieces. SIOUX CITY, Feb. 28.—Special Telegram.—Amos Wymann, head carpenter here for the Cudahy Packing company, caught his coat this morning in the shafting near the roof of the cutting room in the company's Sioux City plant while making repairs upon the machinery and was whipped around by the steel shaft at the rate of 120 revolutions per minute, until life was taken from his body. Before the machinery could be stopped, Wymann was completely denuded of clothing, both legs below the knees and one hand torn off and nearly ever since he has been broken. The room was absolutely drenched with his blood, and fragments of bone and flesh were found at a distance of 100 feet from the spot where the accident occurred.

Musical Event at Missouri Valley. MISSOURI VALLEY, Ia., Feb. 28.—(Special)—The Frank Harris benefit entertainment was a brilliant social and musical event, having been planned as a manifestation of his friends' approval of his determination to excel as an actor in honor of his return from Germany, where for the past two years he has been a student of Hart Prof. Jellinsky of Berlin. Mr. Harris was assisted by Messrs. Hill and McKay. Miss Blakeslee and Messrs. Middleton. The program was composed of popular classics from Chopin, Schumann, Rubinstein and Liszt. Their masters. To say that Mr. Harris' performances surprised and delighted his friends is stating it mildly. He will return to Germany under a brief contract.

Indicted a Bank Cashier. SIOUX CITY, Feb. 28.—(Special Telegram)—Four indictments, charging fraudulent banking and the exhibition of false assets to the bank examiner, were returned today against Cashier A. E. Thompson of the defunct Maure State bank. Some time before the bank's failure the examiner listed $75,000 of notes, which failed to show up when the receiver took charge. In their place was Thompson's personal note for a like amount. It is charged that the original notes were forged, and that when failure became imminent Thompson destroyed them and substituted his own.

Many merchants are aware that their customers are their best friends, and that the best way of supplying them with the best goods obtainable. As an instance we mention Perry & Cameron, prominent druggists of Flushing, Michigan. They are now offering a special remedy in recommending Chamberlain's Cough Remedy to our customers, as it is the best cough medicine we have ever sold, and always with great satisfaction. Only fifty cents per bottle at Kuhn & Co.'s drug store.

POKER STORIES.

Several Instances Given of the Perseverance of Luck. "Poker? I've played poker all my life," said a gamester to a reporter of the New York Recorder.

"I've gone into a game with a $5 stack and cashed in $100. I've gone in with $100 and have left the table without cashing in anything. I've made phenomenal draws; been beat out on four kings; I've stood pat on a pair of jacks and I've stood pat on four of a kind.

"I've been flush and been broke, but the worst move of my life was when I caught one of the best poker players in Syracuse. I rolled into Syracuse from Rochester after a most unexciting week at the table. I am a professional, of course, I don't make any bones about it. I make my living by it, and I have to take my chances against the best men in the business.

"They did me in Rochester, hang 'em; took my heart, almost. But, heart! That's everything in poker. The man without heart is sure to get run like a cat, it is no use in a poker game.

"I had my heart when I landed in Syracuse, and about 60 cents. I went to the hotel, got a meal and a cocktail, and I leaned up against the clerk's desk wondering how soon it would be before I would get angry again, a drummer appeared who had known me in Rochester, and he said: 'He gave me the glad hand, and after he had registered asked me if there was any chance of going to a game at night. I said, 'Of course, if you like to call it, I could get one man to have two saloons acquaintances who wanted to play a little room at 8 o'clock, we might get the evening pleasantly. I agreed, but where I was going to get my whereabouts was a mystery. I had made up my mind to strike the clerk for a few dollars, but I had to send a check, when my eye lighted on a paper weight which lay on the desk. It was a simple iron, a steel house, and it was made in imitation of a pile of half dollars, making in all a stack that looked like $20.

"There! I was healed. 'What a corker you are! looking I captured it. I procured a piece of paper from the clerk's pad, and, going into the coat room, I wrapped up Mr. Paperweight until he looked so natural that any bank clerk that ever lived would have bought it for $18 and smiled at his bargain.

"At 8 o'clock I was on hand. There was a fellow I supposed was a young drummer, the fellow who said that any bank clerk that ever lived would have bought it for $18 and smiled at his bargain. My drummer friend had brought him along as a 'snip.'

"He didn't know me, but I supposed, of course, that he was right, or his friend would not have invited him in the game. So when we were seated about a little round table he said, 'Let Lew,' meaning me, 'be banker.'

"No one ever kicks against a suggestion of that kind, and I was made banker. 'I set up my roll of steel and took $20 worth of money, and everybody else took $10. I put their money and my roll on a chair and we began playing.

"I lost on every hand I played, and my $20 was gone in ten minutes. I took another stack, and remarked that the clerk would make me good. Then luck changed—I won. The green drummer was the only other lucky man at the table. He won every hand for me to bum against. He beat me every time.

"Finally, I stood to win $50 if I cashed in, steel and all. I took my roll and went to the plain of cold feet and quit, but I took one more hand.

"Four sevens! Sevens! The very hand that a man told me not to play until I did, and I had made a full house, and the money was mine, and I called him, simply because there were no more paper-weights in sight.

"I've got a small two pair," said he. 'I knew he had two pairs of one kind, and I remarked: 'Mine are sevens.' 'I'm broke, gentlemen,' said I, and I picked up my overcoat and left before he could open the roll of steel.

"I went and looked up the clerk that I was going out to make a borrow. I got out of town on the 'cannon ball' at 1 o'clock, and I got off at Oneida because that was the first stop, and the conductor rather insisted on it."

"This may sound a little fishy, but every poker player in Syracuse knows of it. It is on the ground that the famous 'Charley' Perkins story.

Perkins was a Rochester man. He played poker in Denver or in New York—wherever one occasion found him—on a Mississippi steamer loaded with corn. There was a party playing poker with corn-red corn; there was no white corn in the west at that time.

Perkins sat in and went broke. He excused himself for a moment and went out—went down into the hold and felt among the bags of corn. He got one and shelled a lot of kernels.

When he came back he found a jack-pot had just started. He remarked that the fellow who had taken the corn from him, and blessed if they were not all white.

He was called down 'for fair,' as the boys say, and he had to quit.

This big raft was brought here by Charles Frazer, who has had considerable experience in handling piling. He was present when the first tree was cut for this raft and remained on the ground until the raft was raised. Then he came up with it on the tugs, and it proved a very pleasant trip.

Several dealers in timber and piling were down in the success of the enterprise. They handle such a mass of logs, especially at a time of the year when high winds and storms are of frequent occurrence, but the safe arrival of the greater part of the logs demonstrated the complete practicability of the scheme.

TRUE STORIES FROM REAL LIFE.

FROM WASHINGTON.

TAKE GOOD ADVICE.

DEFENDING THE FLAG.

In speaking of the many sudden deaths that have lately taken place in public life, Congressman Daniel Lockwood said: "Our grandfathers had family remedies which seemed to preserve health and prolong life, and it would appear as if some modern scientific preparation should be found that would be a welcome relief. But Warner's Safe Cure was recommended to me by my druggist and I was persuaded to try it. I was astonished at the marvelous change it made, even before I had finished one bottle. I am now feeling well and strong and am able to attend to all my domestic duties. This is only one case among thousands, but it is sufficient to prove that this great remedy can always be relied upon to relieve and cure. That is why it is so universally recognized as the best family remedy."

Here are the words of Mrs. H. P. G. Carnes, one of the best known ladies in Butler, Pa., which are given for the benefit of all ladies. "For eight years I was a constant sufferer from female weaknesses in the most aggravated form. Medicine did me no good, and at times I felt that death would be a welcome relief. But Warner's Safe Cure was recommended to me by my druggist and I was persuaded to try it. I was astonished at the marvelous change it made, even before I had finished one bottle. I am now feeling well and strong and am able to attend to all my domestic duties. This is only one case among thousands, but it is sufficient to prove that this great remedy can always be relied upon to relieve and cure. That is why it is so universally recognized as the best family remedy."

Some interesting facts regarding the Naval Service were recently given by a prominent official. D. A. Grosvenor says: "Some years ago I received an injury to the kidneys. At the time I was barely able to get about, suffered great pain, and at times passed blood with my urine. I got better, but for three or four years I had trouble at times. Whenever I took cold I felt the trouble, and very often I suffered severely and was troubled in passing water. I was finally persuaded to try Warner's Safe Cure, which effected a complete cure, and since that time I have had no trouble or weakness whatever in the region of the kidneys. I am a well, rosy man today." This great remedy has never once failed in fighting these complaints. Its effects are unequalled and
