Modern Living

This educated O'Neill cat is fully domesticated and is housebroken to the "nth degree. The man at the household says that "Topsy was "no more difficult to train than any other two-year-old." The Frontier editors decided that if the cat belonged at Bassett or Plainview, for example, its unusual health habits would not make picture news in The Frontier. But it's an O'Neill cat—a smart one! Jess Hupp Fatally Stricken

Dustin Farmer Dies Suddenly While At Lunch Table

ATKINSON—Jess Hupp, 60, virtually a lifelong resident of Boyd and Holt counties, was stricken fatally with a heart attack during the noon hour Wednesday, November 20, at his home. He fell to the floor while seated at the lunch table and died immediately. His wife was nearby.

Mr. Hupp had suffered a serious heart attack October 11 and was hospitalized nine days in Atkinson Tuesday of this week he suffered another attack and Wednesday's attack proved fatal.

Funeral services are tentatively scheduled for 2 p.m., Saturday, November 23, at the Butte Community church. Burial will be in the Butte cemetery under direction of the Raymer funeral home.

Rev. Walter Steinkamp of Wesleyan Methodist church in Atkinson will officiate.

The late Mr. Hupp was born in Johnson county in 1896—a son of Isaac and Rose Hupp. In March, 1897, the Hupp family moved to Boyd county Mr. Hupp attended school in the Butte community and farmed the remainder of his life in Boyd and also in Dustin township in Holt.

He came to Holt in 1934. In 1937 he moved onto the 320-acre farm where he resided and which he owned at the time of his death.

He married Sadie ("Dollie") Willard at Colome, S. D. The Willard family lived in the Butte and Gregory, S.D., localities.

The Hupps became the parents of three children—all born near Butte. Mr. Hupp attended Wesleyan Methodist church in Atkinson. The combination Hupp farm-ranch, known as the homeplace, is located 24 miles north of Atkinson half-mile west.

Survivors include: Widow—Sadie; son—James of Atkinson; daughters—Mrs. David (Viola) Rahn of Atkinson and Mrs. Orville (Velma) Orr of Atkinson; seven grandchildren.

Wet field conditions have hampered machine picking and the enforced delay is considered a blessing by many of the farmers because of wetness.

The corn crop, claimed by many corn growers as the best ever, is about half harvested. High moisture content is reported everywhere in the area. Much of the crop and most of November have not been conducive to drying out. Overcast, damp skies have slowed the drying.

Sieliers Observe 60th Wedding Anniversary— Born in Russia, Meet in Butte

BUTTE—Both were born in Russia of German parentage, both immigrated to the United States when they were very young. They met and married at Butte.

Sunday, November 17, Mr. and Mrs. Sielier celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary, observing open-house at the Butte American Legion club.

A family dinner was served at noon to 35, including members of their immediate family and close friends.

Mr. Sielier was born in the Ukraine province of Russia. As a boy of four he accompanied his parents to Zanikton, S. D., where a colony from that sector of Europe took government land offered to farmers.

Later the family lived at nearby Scotland, S. D., on a farm.

Mr. Sielier came to Butte in 1892 and established a general merchandise store, which he continued to operate for many years. In 1954 he retired, but he still keeps busy as a "non-paid employee" at the dry goods store, which is still in the family. He is now 87 and enjoys good health.

When Mr. Sielier entered business here the infant town of Butte was without a railroad. He was engaged in business with his only brother Jake, until 1900, with the exception of a few years. Mr. Sielier has been in business in Butte, Spencer and Anoka.

Mrs. Sielier's maiden name was Minnie Ellwanger. She was born near Odessa, in southern Russia. Her parents, like Mr. Sielier's, had been induced to leave Germany and farm in the Ukraine, but gave up the settlement there when America beckoned thousands of Central Europeans.

She was three-years-old when she came to America.

The Ellwangers lived near Sutton for a time and several other points before coming to Boyd county. The Ellwangers came to Boyd from Nance county.

Schools were assigned to the respective districts last week by the Nebraska High School Activities association.

Supt. Elmer Stroh of Bloomfield is chairman of the B district, which includes O'Neill high Bloomfield, Neligh, Plainview, Creighton, Burwell, Bassett and Chadron.

O'Neill had always been the B tourney site until last year when the district was halved and three games were played here.

Supt. Leo Marx of Spencer has been named chairman of the C district in the area which includes Atkinson high, Spencer, St. Mary's of O'Neill, Butte, Stuart, Ewing, Verdigré, Springview and St. Joseph's of Atkinson.

Robert Pease of Center is chairman for class D schools in this area. Schools assigned are Naper, Lynch, Center, St. Ludwig of Creighton, Orchard, Page, Inman and Chambers.

Services were held Tuesday, November 19, at 2 p.m., at the Seger funeral chapel. Rev. Earl Schwick of the Memorial Baptist church at Chambers officiated.

A quartet sang "When the Roll Is Called Up Yonder", "Old Rugged Cross" and "Abide With Me".

Burial was in Seward at 3:30 p.m.

Honorary pallbearers were Robert Bourne, Robert Fullerton, Leo Adams, Melvin Klingler, Harry Werner, Walter Puckett and Barney Nickless.

She was born February 3, 1889 at Glidden, Ia., the daughter of John and Hannah Pruss Heuton. She was united in marriage to John J. Zinky at Carroll, Ia. They had two sons and one daughter.

After the death of her husband on April 3, 1952, she purchased a house in Atkinson and lived there as long as her health permitted.

Survivors include: Son—Cleo of National City, Calif.; daughter—Mrs. Lawrence (Gladys) Widman of Sequine, Wash.; two grandsons; two granddaughters, and one great-grandson. A son, Elvyn, died in infancy.

Early Publication Next Week

Because of the Thanksgiving holiday next week's issue of The Frontier will go to press 24 hours earlier than usual. Correspondents, news contributors and advertisers are urged to submit material a day earlier to insure publication.

The November 28 issue will be distributed throughout the area on Wednesday morning, November 27.

Youth HQ Fate Will Be Discussed

Center Needs Sponsor; Public Meeting Set for Friday Night

Individuals or groups interested in perpetuating the youth center after December 1 are asked to attend a meeting Friday at 8 p.m. at the youth center.

"Funds are needed to continue operating the youth center," an interested person told The Frontier late Wednesday.

"The center needs sponsorship and needs it badly," the spokesman declared.

Christian Mothers Planning Bazaar

EWING—The Christian Mothers of St. Peter's Catholic church have completed their plans for the annual bazaar to be held the day before Thanksgiving—November 27—at St. Dominic's hall. Serving of lunch and sale of bazaar articles will begin at 11:30 a. m. There will be a great variety of items displayed for sale in booths.

Mr. Dailey . . . "thrill of life."—The Frontier Photo.

O'Neillites Glimpse Russia's Sputnik II

A one-minute glimpse of Sputnik II was the highlight of a three-weeks' western trip for Mr. and Mrs. William P. Dailey of O'Neill.

They were at Jerome, Ida., at a rail station about dawn one morning last week, awaiting the arrival of their train. The newspapers had previously announced that the Russian's baby moon would be visible at Jerome. At the predetermined time, the Daileys and others on the rail platform looked into the clear sky and saw the object sailing from southeast to northwest.

"It was like a bright star and was clearly visible," Mr. Dailey told The Frontier.

"Seeing a space object gives a person a peculiar thrill and certainly was a highlight of our trip—if not of our lives."

The Daileys had visited their son, John, and his wife in Los Angeles, Calif., and at Jerome were reunited with their nephew, Robert Dailey, and niece, Mrs. Guy Stanton. The nephew and niece had not been seen in 16 years.

BUYS BUILDING

Neil Ryan has purchased the Donohoe frame building on South Fourth street which until recently housed a beer tavern. Initially it was planned to raze the building, but Mr. Ryan found the building in better condition than anticipated and has decided to remodel and improve it.

REGISTRANTS LEAVE

Two Holt county selective service registrants departed by train early Monday for military induction at Omaha as volunteers through the selective service system: David Charles Moses and Robert Dean Hoffman, both of Stuart.

Stockgrowers Meet Today, Ainsworth

Mrs. Lorena B. Hahn of Omaha, a representative to the United Nations, has been secured to speak at the Nebraska Stock Growers' regional meeting at Ainsworth today (Thursday).

Mrs. Hahn, a past national president of the American Legion auxiliary, is the United States representative on the status of women commission of the United Nations. She was first appointed by President Eisenhower in 1953 and was reappointed in 1956.

Because Mrs. Hahn has diligently applied herself in the work of the UN assembly the past four years, we believe her address will be of tremendous interest to our Secretary Robert Howard said.

Other scheduled speakers include Edwin Karlen of Columbia, S. D., president of the National Beef council; Dr. Marvel L. Baker, assistant dean of the University of Nebraska, who recently returned from Turkey; Dr. Carlston Rogers, pastor of the First Methodist church of Elgin, Ill., banquet speaker.

The one-day meeting gets under way at the Ainsworth city hall at 9:30 a.m. (CST) and closes tonight with a banquet and dance. A luncheon for the ladies will be held at noon in the IOOF building.
