Large Crowd Sees Farce Comedy

INMAN—The Inman high junior class play presented a situation that was sufficiently bewildering. The play was presented Tuesday evening, November 26.
 The erratic Mrs. Highgate (Jackie Butterfield) continually forgot names and mistook identities of her daughter and servants. But the stage became a pandemonium of rib-splitting laughs when, to keep from being outed by the town's social set, she decided to have her portrait painted by an artist, Tom Laurence (Dick Appleby), who, incidentally, she had chased from the house the week before while he was making a social call on Nancy (Joan Barlow).
 Others in the cast were: Lon Torence (Bob Ruther); John Florenz (Harold Sobotka); Florence (Edna Fairbanks); Philip (Clark Goughensbaugh); Mary (Cleo Scholtz); Arthur (Albert Kopejka) and Beagle Jones (Tom Cunningham).
 Mrs. Spann is class sponsor.

Daughter of Founder of Frontier Dies

Mrs. Mabel McKenna attended the funeral in Omaha of Mrs. Marcia Riggs Todd on Monday, November 25. Mrs. Todd, who died Friday, November 22, was a cousin of Mrs. McKenna and the daughter of the founder of The Frontier, James H. Riggs.
 Mrs. McKenna spent Thanksgiving in Omaha with her son and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh McKenna. They had recently returned from Tokyo, where Mr. McKenna was on a mission for the United States Junior of Commerce.
 Newlyweds Honored—
 Mr. and Mrs. John Bellin went to Ainsworth Sunday where they attended a family dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bud Ryn-
