

Cities Face Costly Interstate Expense

LINCOLN—Every city along the interstate highway is going to have to make costly improvements to handle traffic to and from the route.

That's the report from State Engineer L. N. Riss. He said "expensive street improvements" will be required to accommodate the interstate traffic to and from a city lying along its route.

The engineer said Lincoln, Grand Island, Kearney, Lexington, North Platte, Sidney, Seward, Aurora, Shelton, Ashland, Cozad, Gothenburg and Ogallala face the problem, among others.

All these towns, Riss said, have "serious" problems in providing adequate highway facilities for interstate traffic desiring to do business in them.

In the matter of county roads that connect with the interstate, Riss said these will have to be improved to higher standards, also.

The state highway department, the engineer commented, can't do anything to help counties with that problem.

It is expected that traffic will be using the Omaha to Lincoln segment of the interstate highway by 1960. The route now is taking shape. The next construction is due in the Lincoln area.

Route of the four-lane road has not yet been announced west of Lincoln.

Work in the Omaha area has been stalled by an argument between Riss and the federal labor department over wage rates contractors should pay on a project in rural Douglas county.

Riss claims the area is not in the jurisdiction of Omaha unions. Unions claim it is and that wages should therefore be union scale.

There has been a lot of fuss about the Omaha project. Contractors claim privately and Riss publicly that the project could set a pattern which would hike wages on all highway projects in Nebraska.

Most of the contractors who build roads in Nebraska are not unionized.

Therefore, lower wages are paid. Riss says union scale will hike road costs a minimum of 25 percent, state-wide, eventually.

Nebraska labor officials have been in Washington claiming the union scale should prevail at Omaha. Riss was there asserting otherwise.

Tax Council

Proposals are going to be circulated designed to force a broad-based state tax base.

Some lively congressional races are rapidly shaping up for Nebraska's May 13 primary.

Battles are assured in the First district on both the republican and democratic tickets. It appears the Second district will come up with at least a handful of democratic candidates.

In the Third, there are two democrats and at least two republicans lined up.

Rep. A. L. Miller has opposition in the Fourth district on the republican side.

Congressman Phil Weaver represents the First district, Glenn Cunningham the Second and Robert Harrison the third.

Democrats express optimism at cracking the solid GOP wall in Nebraska this year. Some republicans are concerned about apparent weak spots in some of the congressional races, but officials claim they are moving to combat over-confidence troubles.

Governor's Mansion

Nebraskans have poured through the new governor's mansion in the capital city.

Three days of open house were held so taxpayers could get a peak at the colonial type house, of pink brick and estimated to cost, furnished, about $288,000.

Gov. Victor Anderson was on hand to greet a large number of the visitors, who were given a limited tour of the ground floor of the two-story structure.

Spring Break-up

Roads in Nebraska are showing up with a perennial spring ailment—chuck holes.

The spring thaw is starting to be felt, especially on black top. City and state highway departments, from now on, have a busy time ahead keeping up with the holes, until warm weather sets in solid.

Spring trouble is not limited to hard-top roads. State Maintenance Engineer John McMeekin said state gravel highways are in a "mess" in south central counties, especially.

Mud is the big problem on the state roads. McMeekin said it is an uphill battle to try to keep the gravel roads drained so they can dry out.

McMeekin said "a lot of sun and a good southwest wind" are the best remedy for soggy roads in the springtime, plus plenty of maintenance.

White Elephant Auction Planned

MARRIAGE LICENSES

Ivan Eugene Couch, 20 of Inman and Lucy Belle Cunningham, 20 of O'Neill on March 21.

Richard Bruce Holder, 21 of Spencer and Lanna Claire Hartsock, 19 of Spencer on March 21.

Lucy Cunningham, Gene Couch United

INMAN—Vases of multi-colored snapdragons decorated the altar at the Methodist church on Saturday, March 22, for the marriage of Miss Lucy Cunningham, daughter of Mrs. Alice Cunningham, and Gene Couch, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Couch.

Rev. Lisle Mewmaw, church pastor, officiated at the 2 o'clock double-ring ceremony. Miss Lanelle Tompkins, a friend of the couple, played the wedding marches.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother-in-law, Horace Sholes. Her white lace over satin ballerina-length gown was fashioned on princess lines with a bustle bow in the back. She wore a white half-hat with shoulder-length streamers of nylon net. She carried a white Bible topped with a bridal bouquet of white feathered carnations and pink satin streamers.

Miss Conda Couch, sister of the bridegroom, was bridesmaid and was gowned in a ballerina-length formal of blue lace over taffeta with matching head dress. She carried a bouquet of white feathered carnations with pink satin streamers.

Robert Davis served the bridegroom as bestman. Ushers were Thomas Cunningham, brother of the bride, and William DeLong, cousin of the bride.

A reception for 50 guests followed in the Maxey Memorial addition of the church. The bride's table was laid with a lace cloth centered with a four-tier wedding cake with pink tapers in crystal holders on either side.

The wedding cake was baked and decorated by two of the bride's aunts, Mrs. James Coug and Mrs. Floyd DeLong. Kitchen hostesses were Mrs. Wilbur Brown and Mrs. Woodrow Gaughenbaugh. The Misses Dianne and Barbara Snyder, friends of the bride, had charge of the guestbook and gifts.

The bride and bridegroom were both graduated from Inman high school with the class of 1956. The bride is employed by the telephone company in O'Neill and Gene is employed with a highway construction crew.

After a very brief wedding trip the couple will make their home in O'Neill.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding included: Mr. and Mrs. Leyle Couch and Mrs. Walter Lee Pluggs and Mrs. James Coug; Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Cunningham, Mrs. Eva Cunningham, Don and Dannie, all of Page; Mrs. Roy Brandt of Atkinson, Mr. and Mrs. Darold Couch, Letta, D. D. and Rory of Woonsocket, S. D.; Mr. and Mrs. Dan Sholes of O'Neill, and Mrs. Howard Beed of Chambers.

Musical Pagent to Be Presented

CHAMBERS—A colorful musical pagent entitled "The Two Ways" will be presented at the Memorial Baptist church in Chambers Monday night, March 31, at 8 o'clock.

The pagent will be presented by 20 young folks from the Sunshine Bible academy of Miller, S. D. Millard Seeman, principal of the academy, and John Remple will accompany the group. John Remple is well-known in the area. He is now chaplain of the school.

The group will be on a tour through Iowa, Nebraska and South Dakota presenting the pagent in various churches and public buildings. Colorful dress, dramatic scenes and instrumental numbers will add to the presentation.
