INTERNATIONAL MILLING COMPANY

CREAM PRODUCERS

is owned and operated entirely by its producer patrons. It is one of the Midwest's largest receivers of butterfat direct from farm to plant, but now find it necessary to obtain additional supply of good quality cream to fill their orders and demand for fine butter. Accordingly, they are inaugurating a new marketing service by receiving good quality cream at Norfolk from direct rail shipments by producers on the Chicago & Northwestern Railway Lines.

Day to day cash returns will be all that efficient manufacturing and the best markets for fine quality butter will afford. These cash returns, it is felt, will consistently set the pace for other handlers of cream to follow. In addition, direct rail shippers will have the opportunity to participate in year end dividend allocations of earnings.

Every producer of good quality cream on the C & NW railroad to Norfolk is cordially and urgently invited to take advantage of this new marketing opportunity. Write for greater detail, or even better, direct your next can of cream to

Madison Coop. Creamery
(Rail Station) Norfolk, Nebraska
(Post Office) Madison, Nebraska

Check in payment will go out by return mail and cans will be returned on next train.
