

New Presbyterian Pastor Is Installed

John L. Hart Becomes Ordained

John L. Hart, recently called by First Presbyterian church of O'Neill and rural Bethany Presbyterian church near Ewing, Sunday was ordained and installed.

Reverend Hart, a June graduate of the Presbyterian seminary at San Francisco, Calif., was formally honored at a reception that followed in Fellowship hall of the church here.

Rev. Roland Probst, pastor of Miller Park Presbyterian church in Omaha, conducted the rite of ordination and delivered the ordination sermon.

Reverend Probst is moderator of the Omaha Presbytery.

Rev. Herbert C. Young, pastor of the Community church at Stuart, officiated at an installation rite and administered the vows of installation.

Charles Mulford of Stuart, moderator of the Niobrara Presbytery, presided.

Dr. Oliver B. Pratt of Wayne delivered the charge to the minister. Doctor Pratt is stated clerk of the Niobrara Presbytery and is also the stated clerk of the Nebraska synod.

Rev. Frank L. Lepinski of Pender delivered the charge to the congregations.

Rev. Robert Ware of Norfolk, who was not present at Sunday's service was acting moderator for the O'Neill and Bethany churches during the period the churches were without a pastor.

The new pastor here is married and is the father of a small child.

Dexter's Wife, Mother Get Lebanon Letter

S/Sgt. Harold Dexter, who landed at Beirut, Lebanon, with the first United States military forces July 16, has written his mother, Mrs. Olive Tomlinson of O'Neill and his wife, the former Kathryn Hoffman, who lives at Ewing.

He told of being interviewed by National Broadcasting television network newsmen.

His first letter home was dated July 22 and the messages reached here Monday.

"Not much going on," he wrote. "We're mostly sitting around on a perimeter defense of the Beirut airport."

Dexter apparently is the only Holt countyman in the Sixth marine division which is stationed there on combat readiness status.

Tries for Fish in Inman's Main Street

H. E. Smith, Inman businessman, got out the fishing pole Sunday morning when water backed up more than a foot deep on Inman's main street. Smith said water has been higher in the past and has reached the top of the steps behind him. Some carp made their way into floodwaters in gardens and meadows.—The Frontier Photo.

Water courses through the front yard at the home of Mrs. Ray Siders at edge of Inman. In foreground is a veritable river.—The Frontier Photo.

O'Neill Guardsmen Off to Camp Ripley

Sixty-five enlisted men and five officers, comprising company D of the 195th tank battalion, Nebraska national guard, left O'Neill early Sunday in two chartered busses for a two-weeks encampment at Camp Ripley, Minn. The unit, under command of Capt. J. L. McCarville, jr., will train until August 10, arriving here about 1 a.m. that day.

Gear and equipment were transported in three trucks manned by four men. The trucks joined up with a convoy moving northward from Lincoln. The O'Neill unit and 44 other national guard units from Iowa and Nebraska comprise the 34th infantry division. This outing at Ripley will be the last camp in which the Nebraska national guard will participate for individual training. The guard will start unit training after the 1958 encampment.

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Koenig and son, Dale, returned Sunday to their home in Excelsior, Minn., following a week's visit with Mr. and Mrs. D. F. Murphy. Mrs. Koenig and Mrs. Murphy are sisters. Mrs. Koenig is the former Irene Markey.

Mr. and Mrs. Emil Weyhrich attended a Magdanz reunion at Pierce Sunday.

'Penny' Postcard Now Three-Cents

Postal rates will take a whoop tomorrow—Friday, August 1.

According to Postmaster Ira Moss, the rate hike will affect everyone who mails a letter of any kind.

The old "penny" postal card, which not long ago was raised to two cents, takes another penny raise and will become three cents.

First class letters, currently mailed at three cents an ounce, will raise to four cents. Air-mail rates increase one cent an ounce to seven cents while air-mail postal cards become five cents.

Third class, including unsealed greeting cards which now go for two cents increase to three cents for the first two ounces and 1½ cents for each additional ounce.

In addition to these rate increases, the postal department put a "penalty charge" on postage due mail as of July 1.

Short paid mail will go through to the addressee without delay and the addressee will be required to pay the shortage plus five cents penalty.

If he refuses to do this, the mail will be returned to the sender for the deficient postage and penalty. Hence, if you neglect to put a stamp on a letter
