Sandhills Thrill

Tourists from Holt By MRS. MERRILL ANDERSON CELIA—Home again! But determined to engage in a more extended vacation next time.

We traveled over 1,500 miles sightseeing in southwestern Nebraska, Kansas and parts of Colorado.

Leaving Atkinson, we drove 350 miles to Benkelman the first day and stopped overnight with my sister, Mrs. Marjorie Freeman. My sister and other members of her family accompanied Merrill and I as we headed westward toward Denver, Colo.

After covering about two hundred miles without incident, the blue haze of the Rocky mountains loomed in the distance and in the foreground, erupting from the flat plain, we saw the foothills. Majestic Pike's peak, most celebrated mountain in the United States, was sighted. A snowstorm was raging at its 14,000-ft. summit but at Denver—a mile above sea level—shirtsleeves prevailed in the 85-degree weather.

We saw the new Air Force academy at the outskirts of Colorado Springs. It is situated in a valley overshadowed by the colorful Rockies.

After spending the night in Colorado Springs, we continued on our tour. Entering the famous gateway to the Garden of the Gods, we fixed our eyes on the wonders of nature! Red and white jagged rocks soared to 300-ft. from the point where we stood. We were fascinated by Balancing rock and Steamboat rock—to mention only two.

We paid our respects at the beautiful memorial shrine of the late Will Rogers, which was erected by Spencer Penrose. It stands high on Cheyenne mountain—a magnificent monument. Chimes toll each half-hour the year-around.

At Benkelman we looked in on the Rock creek trout hatchery. Let me say in all sincerity I never
