Expect No Change In Market Until 1960 Kutish Says

The next 6 to 12 months will be "most critical for all those in the cattle business in the Midwest," Francis A. Kutish, agricultural economist of Iowa State College, told approximately 350 Sandhills cattlemen and their wives that this is the time that will tell the most about the future business.

Kutish, the main speaker at the 20th annual convention of the Sandhills Cattle Association in O'Neill, said he looked for little change in the prices of cattle for 1959 but expected a decrease in 1960 to 1962.

"If we are going to have serious trouble, I don't see it before 1963," he said.

He told the cattlemen the slowdown in slaughtering older cows and bulls would have a tendency to possibly flood the market during those years.

"The best thing that could happen to the cattle market would be the selling of about 20 percent more of these older cows, which is the 'possibly dangerous years of 1963-1965.'"

At the business meeting following the main speaker, seven new board of directors were chosen.

The new men include Erwin Minner, Bassett; Ernest Abbott, Almeria; Darwin Bradley, Brewster; Eugene Fink, Ely; Emmet Adamson, Cody; Melvin Grote, Harrison, and John L. Deamont, Rose.

In afternoon sessions J. C. Holbert, president of the Iowa Beef Producers Association spoke on "What the cattle feeder is looking for when buying replacements."

A panel discussion by several Sandhills lawyers followed. Attorneys participating were Daniel Stubbs, Alliance; W. B. Quigley, Valentine; John Cassel, Ainsworth, and William Griffin, O'Neill. The men spoke on estate and tax planning.

A social hour followed in the afternoon at the Legion Club and the annual banquet began at 7 p. m. George B. German, WAX, Yarmouth, S.D., was master of ceremonies and N. H. Dekle, of Plaquemine, La., was the guest speaker.
