Proper Food Keeps One Young

By BLANCHE SPANN PEASE, Homemaking Editor

It's hard to believe that it is mid-June. There is so much to be done these days, but I trust everyone has finished housecleaning and most of us are working with chickens, gardens, flower borders and such things.

School is out and there is no more school lunches to pack for the country youngsters—that is until fall.

It is a busy time and most of us want time and labor saving meals as well as economical ones. I don't know that this is so labor-and time-saving, but it is economical and that is a big factor these days of high grocery bills.

OX JOINTS AND NOODLES

You'll need two oxtails, cut in two-inch lengths. One cup chopped onion, one tablespoon vinegar, one-half teaspoon minced garlic, two teaspoons salt, one-eighth teaspoon pepper, one tablespoon granulated sugar.

Wipe oxtails with damp cloth. Flour and brown well with chopped onions in hot lard or other fat. Add two cups hot water, vinegar, garlic, salt, pepper and sugar. Cover and simmer 3 1/2 hours, or until meat is tender, replenishing water with boiling water if necessary. Remove meat to a hot platter and keep warm. Thicken liquid for gravy. Serve with meat and hot noodles.

You can extend ground round steak by making beefburgers. Ground round steak can also be extended by adding cereal cooked or ready to eat 1/2 to 3/4 cup cereal to one cup ground beef. Here is a way to fix the—two teaspoons minced onion, 1/2 teaspoon salt, one eighth teaspoon pepper. Put the meat through a grinder. Combine with rest of the ingredients and shape into eight flat round patties. Coat with flour. Melt enough shortening in a skillet to cover bottom generously. When hot, add patties. Fry until browned on both sides. Cover skillet and cook very slowly for five minutes. If gravy is desired, stir 2 tablespoons flour into shortening left in skillet. Add 1 1/3 cups milk. Cook until gravy thickens, stirring constantly. Serves four.

BEEFBURGERS

One-half pound round steak, 1/2 pound ground raw potatoes,

DINNER IN A DISH

Three tablespoons shortening, one pound ground beef, two green peppers, two eggs, two cups corn, four medium tomatoes.

Lightly fry the beef and peppers, cut in strips in hot shortening. Remove from stove and stir in eggs. Season with salt and pepper. In casserole or baking dish arrange layers of corn (fresh frozen or canned) meat mixture and sliced tomatoes. Top with buttered crumbs. Bake in a moderate oven of 375 F. for 30 minutes. Will serve four to six people.

Revelling in Past Growing Old Signs—

Dear Mrs. Pease:

We so enjoy reading your column in The Frontier. So thought I would add my bit.

It has been several years since I tried, but it is such a nice spring morning here I thought I would write and chat about staying young. Here in York we are voting for a new addition to the high school. Parents should stay young in spirit and show the boundless interest and enthusiasm that their children do for new things to come—that is grow up with your children, share their work and play.

Youth looks forward, the best years are still ahead. One starts to get old, not when he puts on bifocals, but when he begins to dwell on the good old days.

How young you are depends a good bit on your food habits. Check your list and see if you have these foods daily?

For protein and tissue repair, a liberal serving of lean meat, fish or fowl with liver once a week, a pint of milk and one or two eggs. For body regulating materials and needed vitamins, green and yellow vegetables plus a salad with dark green leafy vegetables, fruits including a citrus fruit or juice and whole grain cereal or bread and butter. These are the protective foods—better than any spring tonic.

It Happened In NEBRASKA...

Old-time freighting was a costly operation. This picturesque Conestoga wagon, which carried from 5,000 to 16,000 pounds of freight, might cost up to $1,500. Good mules cost from $500 to $1,000 per team; harness up to $600. $7.10 per outfit!

Great as our growth in transportation since then have been Nebraska's strides in tavern management. Today's tavern operator is a respected businessman, aware of his responsibilities to customer and community.
