Hurry-Up Storm Delivers Damage

Neill on U.S. highway 281 on the Holt-Wheeler county line, reported an inch of rain Tuesday afternoon and strong wind, which drove a water tank about a mile from the place.

The rainfall was considered very beneficial as hot winds during the past two weeks had dried out soil.

Atkinson received only a few sprinkles. Spencer, 30 miles north of O'Neill, had considerable wind, some hail and about a quarter of an inch of moisture. The storm arrived at Spencer about an hour after striking O'Neill.

The storm came up rapidly in the south and within a few minutes the wind shifted to the north.

The Chicago & North Western railroad's telegraph circuits were knocked out and the Western Union circuits into O'Neill were still unserviceable Wednesday afternoon. A mobile telegraph repair crew happened to be stationed in O'Neill on the Burlington sidetracks. Their quarters were parked about one hundred yards from the Ryan barn.

Grain Harvesters Race Elements

ROCK FALLS—Drying winds and intense heat seem to be the chief topics of the day. Everyone is wishfully watching the horizon for the approaching cloud that would give promise of a good general rain. Ever in the distance are the roar and whir of the tractors and harvesting machinery as men strive desperately to get the ripened grain safely out of the way of possible wind or hail. It seems to be a constant battle with the elements, which all too often win out.

Omaha Market Lower-to-Steady

McKenna Leaves For 'White House'—Hugh McKenna, 33, native O'Neillite, and new president of the U.S. Junior Chamber of Commerce, will be the first to occupy the national Jaycee's "little white house" in Tulsa, Okla.

The new residence for Jaycee presidents is 95 percent complete. The $65,000 home was built mainly by cash and materials from Jaycee chapters.

McKenna Wednesday, July 6, began a year's absence from his job as an administrative assistant from an Omaha insurance company. His wife and two children will join him in Tulsa.

Guild to Meet—St. Catherine's Guild will entertain St. Patrick's Altar society on Thursday, July 21, at St. Mary's gymnasium. Miss Elsie Peter will be chairman.
