

Board Abolishment Forecast

LINCOLN—Nebraska's mental health program again is in the spotlight after a flurry of developments.

The developments began with the Lincoln Journal obtaining a copy of a 1951 report by the American Psychiatric association on Nebraska's mental hospitals.

Dr. G. L. Sandritter, resigned head of the Hastings state hospital, had charged the board of control, which governs state institutions, "suppressed" the four-year-old report.

Basically, the report said Nebraska needed more psychiatrists and nurses. Also it recommended a mental health director be named, advisory boards for each mental institution, and separate treatment facilities for mentally ill patients and mentally ill tubercular patients.

Sandritter charged the board failed to meet the need for psychiatrists. He said the board set its requirements too high and the pay scale too low to get any qualified persons and as a result patients are not being released from the mental hospitals like they should.

This Sandritter said, forced superintendents to hire more non-skilled custodial type employees to take care of the persons who normally would have been released.

"We are running a glorified jail," Sandritter said.

But the board of control chairman, Thomas Dredla, vigorously defended hiring policies of the board. He said requirements were set up by Dr. Cecil Wittson of Omaha, state mental health director.

Dredla said the board had met the major points of the report, but agreed the state does not have enough psychiatrists. Neither do other states generally, Dredla said.

Wittson disagreed with one recommendation in the report. He called for a new 1,800-bed mental hospital in the Omaha vicinity. Wittson said the answer is not new large mental hospitals, but psychiatric clinics in private hospitals.

Meanwhile, Sen. George Syas of Omaha, outspoken critic of the board of control system of running of state institutions, said a move to abolish the board as a system will be made in the 1957 legislature.

Syas said he thinks the effort will succeed in view of the dispute over mental hospital administration, and handling of the penitentiary and reformatory incidents.

Power Meet Delayed—
Gov. Victor Anderson said he believes a meeting of state senators and power district officials for progress reports on November 1 would be "premature."

Anderson made the statement in a letter to Amos Morrison, Mitchell senator. The governor said he would determine a future date for the progress report.

Meanwhile, the power problem looms large in the background. Lloyd Neil, president of the Nebraska Rural Power association, wrote a letter to the governor.

In the letter, Neil said Consumers Public Power district officials are planning to block all power developments in the state unless it gets its way, and it wants to set itself up as a "super power agency."

But R. L. Schacht said an effective consolidation of major Nebraska power facilities is necessary "if the best interests of the majority of eastern Nebraska's electric users are to be served."

Schacht said: "It should be obvious that the present arrangement cannot meet today's needs and a better one must be developed."

White House Conference—
Governor Anderson has named 11 civic and church leaders as Nebraska's delegation to the white house conference on education November 28 to December 1.

Anderson said finding persons to serve as delegates was "one of the most difficult appointment jobs I've had." He said his final selection was based on what "would reap the most benefits" in terms of Nebraska school progress.

Delegates are:

Mrs. J. F. Lucas, president of the Omaha board of education.

Rev. C. H. Lemon, Lincoln, executive secretary of the Nebraska Council of Churches.

Rev. A. E. Egging, superintendent of schools of the Grand Island diocese.

Richard Johnson of Lincoln, public relations director for the Nebraska State Education association.

Morris Jacobs of Omaha, president of the state board of education.

State Sen. Glenn Cramer of Albion, past chairman of the legislature's education committee.

Mrs. Hazel Abel of Lincoln, former U. S. senator.

State Sen. Kathleen Foote of Axtel, member of the legislature's education committee.

Mrs. A. E. Haneman of Lincoln, former president of the Nebraska Congress of Parents and Teachers.

Dr. Earl Wilkie of Grand Island, superintendent of schools.

Dr. Frank Court of Lincoln, chairman of the Nebraska Committee for Youth.

Polio Shots Urged—
Dr. E. A. Rogers, state health director, has urged parents to make arrangements "as soon as possible" to have their children inoculated against polio.

Children should have their first and second shots soon "if they are to have maximum protection against the disease next summer," Rogers said.

The third "booster" shot of the vaccine must be given to persons within seven months after the second inoculation.

Kellar Club Host at Informal Party—
CHAMBERS—Kellar club feted Bethany ladies and families of both groups at an informal party in the American Legion hall Friday, October 7. Following a brief program consisting of music and readings, several games were played. At the close of the game period, lunch was served.

BASSETT SALE YARDS

52 Bulls — 22 Open Yearling Heifers

These cattle are mostly light in color and we think our best to-date. Here are a few that we would like to call your attention to. Then look at the others. You may find among them bulls you like equally well.

Lot 1—Grand champion fall sale Bassett, 1953. We are selling our one-half interest which gives us the right to use him from June 1st to November 1st. Lot 12—Yellow, heavy-boned, thick and smooth from end to end. Lots 7 and 27 are much alike, have size and quality. Herd bull material. Lot 22 is near perfect and lot 29 a close second. They belong in a top registered herd. Lot 37 is a hard bull to improve on. His mother was a top heifer at a Bassett sale. Nice, light color. Lot 14—Large, light, deep and thick. Lot 31—A good, light, thick Reflect Shadow. Lot 5—Shortest headed and shortest legged, a very thick bull. Not over fitted. Raised in the open with a large herd where they fight their way to rugged strength and health. A reason why Wentworth bulls make good. Don't pamper them, don't starve them. All they need is a little grain and a little time to become adjusted.
