Stuart-Card Clash Close for 3 Periods

SMA Pulls Away in Closing Minutes

A large crowd witnessed a nip-and-tuck ball game for three quarters as St. Mary's academy Cardinals opened their home season with a 51-36 victory over Stuart.

With Jim Becker hitting from the corner, the Cards moved to the front at the end of the first quarter, 10-9. The Broncos, rallying behind the outside shooting of D. Stracke and Allan Brewster, moved to a 24-21 advantage at half time. The Broncos, employing a tight zone, completely bottled up Dave Schaffer, the Cardinals' scoring ace, limiting him to but seven points during the first half.

The second half found Schaffer moving to the outside and connecting on four consecutive long shots. Two timely jump-shots were hit by Jim Froelich, moving the Cards into a 35-29 third quarter lead.

The Broncos were forced to move into a man-to-man defense pattern. This enabled the academy to roll into high gear. SMA gradually lengthened the margin during the final period.

The Cardinals' defense, which did a fair job of limiting Stuart's high-scoring guard, L. Seger, to nine points, blanked Brewster and Stracke during the final two periods.

Schaffer led the Cardinals with 19 points with Becker close behind with 14. Ten of Becker's points came in the first half.

The Cardinal reserves won easily, 56-30, with Gary Holly getting 20, followed by Bill Craig and Tom Schneider with 12 and 10 each. The main reserves built up a 50-22 lead during the first three periods, then sat back and watched the remainder of the game from the bench.

State Capitol News Patient - Release Policy Under Study

LINCOLN—The release system used at the Beatrice state hospital in other states shortly after the first of the year.

Members hope to visit schools at Kansas City, Kans., St. Louis, Mo., and Little Rock, Ark. Board Engineer Carl Botsford probably will accompany the board.

Harold Peterson, board administrative assistant, said "it is necessary that the board make these visits in order to get good understanding of what type structure should be provided for Nebraska blind children."

Nebraska's blind school is located at Nebraska City and the location was the center of much controversy during the last session of the legislature.

State Sen. Dwight Burney of Hartington, speaker during the 1955 session, said in Omaha he understands the percentage is high.

But Wittson said the 25 percent figure is "entirely too high."

However, he said experience in other places "certainly indicates that we can do a lot more about mental troubles than we have been able to do before."

The number of patients at the institution has climbed from 1,647 in 1950 to 2,147.

M. E. Wyant, newly-named superintendent of the home, said he plans a "complete survey of our release program so that we may determine the possible recommendations which can be made to the board of control and the legislature in order to expedite the release of any eligible boy or girl."

Wyant, formerly business manager of the home, pledged cooperation with the board, Wittson and the advisory board for the institution.

School Referendum—

A referendum for Nebraska public school employees will be conducted Friday and Saturday, under the supervision of state tax Commissioner Fred Herrington.

Herrington said if the referendum carries on whether teachers want social security, his five field men will instruct the more than 11,000 employees on how to file reports with his office.

The only school employees, who will not vote are those in the Omaha public school system and at the University of Omaha and the University of Nebraska.

Employees there recently favored social security by large majorities.

Herrington said ballots for the referendum must be postmarked not later than Saturday, December 17. Results of the balloting will be known about the first of the year, he said.
