

Burney Seeks Warner Vacancy

LINCOLN—A veteran member of the legislature and its present speaker, Sen. Dwight Burney of Hartington, will be in the race for lieutenant-governor on the republican ticket.

Burney picked up his filing papers last week at the secretary of state's office. The 64-year-old farmer and livestock raiser has, since the death last year of Lt. Gov. Charles J. Warner, performed functions of the office.

In a statement to newsmen, Burney said:

"I feel justified in filing for the office, because of my experience. After six sessions in the legislature, I feel that I have a reasonable knowledge of state government."

"Especially because of the last session, when I was speaker, I have had considerable experience presiding over the legislature, which is the biggest job the lieutenant governor has."

The first republican to file for the office was Carl Swanson of Omaha, a former state treasurer.

Shortage to Continue
 The demand for teachers in Nebraska will probably be just as strong this year as in 1955.

That's the belief of the Nebraska State Education association. It said although college enrollment is up, potential teachers will not be available for the 1956-'57 school year.

"An" said the association, "even with the amount of school district reorganization accomplished in Nebraska, the number of teachers made available by the action will be considerably less than the demand caused by the increased enrollment of the larger towns of the state."

The association said with the teacher supply short in Nebraska, competition from surrounding states adds to the difficulty.

Nebraska's average annual salary for classroom teachers is $13,237, far below the average for surrounding states.

The association said a "more equitable method of financing the schools, and an increase of the wealth devoted to education to at least 2.5 percent probably would justify funds for a general upgrading of teachers' salaries throughout the state."

According to the state department of education, only 2.185 percent of the present taxable wealth in Nebraska was devoted to education in 1954-'55. That is the state-wide figure. The amount from district to district is sharply different.

The present instability in the teaching profession, the association said, probably cost the American people more than it would to provide adequate salaries and good working conditions for them.

Lawyers to Ballot
 Members of the legal profession in Nebraska are going to ballot on whether they want to be included under provisions of the social security act.

Originally passed in 1935, the act was for industrial and commercial workers with the professions excluded.

In 1950, the house of delegates of the American Bar association went on legislation to include self-employed lawyers.

In 1953 resolutions were introduced to overrule the previous action but no final action was taken pending an opinion survey. The poll showed a substantial majority favored inclusions on a voluntary basis and a resolution was adopted so stating.

School teachers of Nebraska recently voted overwhelmingly in favor of retirement under the social security system.

They hope for another reduction in traffic deaths. Col. C. J. Sanders, chief of the state safety patrol, said fatalities were down 3.6 percent in Nebraska last year, compared with 1954.

"This reduction, however small," he said, "means that Nebraska was one of the nine states that did not experience an increase in traffic deaths last year."

Twenty-four counties went through 1955 without a fatality: Arthur, Banner, Blaine, Brown, Chase, Dakota, Frontier, Garden, Gosper, Grant, Greeley, Hayes, Hooker, Keye Paha, Knox Logan, Loup, McPherson, Pawnee, Thomas, Valley, Webster, Wheeler and York.

Counties reporting 10 or more deaths were Douglas, Lancaster, Dodge, Buffalo, Dixon, Dawson, Merrick and Saunders.

Diers Files
 The former chairman of the board of control, which governs up state institutions, William K. Diers, has tossed his hat in the ring for the legislature.

Diers, whose legal residence is Gresham, filed in the 24th district, comprised of York and Seward counties, his brother, Sen. H. K. Diers, will not seek reelection.

Asked if he had any legislative reforms in mind for the Board, Diers said: "Not at this time." He said he has at the present time, "only one plank—economy."

Diers served four terms in the legislature and had a record of eight years on the board.

School Land Cut
 A mixup in rent on state-owned school land in Keith and Lincoln counties should be cleared up in time for rent reductions to take place on July 1.

That's the hope of the state board of educational lands and funds which administers the land.

Tom Coffey of Alma, board chairman, said a mixup dating back to 1953 before the present board was created and before Robert Hiatt was secretary, left rentals too high in the two counties.

Recently the board cut the value in the two counties and 13 others. Now it appears Keith and Lincoln counties will get an even greater reduction.

Lower rent is expected to become effective in other counties in the state by January 1, 1957.

Windup 'Farm for God' Project for 1955

The Young Adult Sunday-school class of the Methodist church shelled about 650 bushel of corn Saturday, Kenneth Aevell of Star was the purchaser. This completes the corn project of their "farm for God" operations for 1955. A load of cobs was delivered to Mrs. Nell McIntosh.

The young adult class held its family party on Wednesday evening, January 11, at the church basement with a good crowd in attendance. Mrs. Richard Asher had the devotions and an election of officers was held.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Heiss were chosen as presidents; Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Heiss, vice-presidents, and Mr. and Mrs. William Ragland, secretary and treasurer.

Mr. and Mrs. Dale Stauffer were in charge of the recreation period. Games were played.

Committees were appointed to arrange for the lunch and special number the class will sponsor on Sunday evening and to make inquiries concerning farm land for rent to continue their "farm for God" project.

Pie and coffee were served.
