Offers Grain Use in Synthetic Rubber

U.S. Sen. Carl T. Curtis said Wednesday that domestic consumption of synthetic rubber offers a substantial opportunity to consume surplus grains now in government storage.
Curtis stated that last year the United States consumed 878 thousand long tons of synthetic rubber. It is expected that domestic consumption during 1956 will far exceed 900 thousand tons. Curtis pointed out that synthetic rubber is made from butadiene. Butadiene can be manufactured from industrial alcohol rendered from grain. It takes 350 bushels of corn to make one ton of synthetic rubber.
