Sherbet Calls For Seconds

Sherbet is a general dessert favorite of folks, adults and youngsters alike. Here's a recipe for Apricot Sherbet that the family is bound to enjoy, and mother can make it quickly, easily and inexpensively with economical nonfat dry milk.

Nonfat dry milk is available at the grocer's in two handy packages. The foil-lined one-pound package will yield five quarts of dairy-sweet nonfat milk for about eight cents a quart. The three-quart package features three foil-lined envelopes, each of which is pre-measured to make one quart of nonfat milk. Nonfat dry milk is a good buy in nutrition for it contains a wealth of these important milk nutrients—protein, calcium, riboflavin and lactose.

For one quart of delicious Apricot Sherbet:—

- 1 cup canned apricot nectar
- 1/4 cup lemon juice
- 1 cup sugar
- 3 cups liquefied Starlac nonfat dry milk
- 2 egg whites

Set refrigerator control at coldest point. Combine apricot nectar, lemon juice and sugar; blend well. Slowly stir in liq. fed Starlac nonfat dry milk, until well blended. Pour mixture into two refrigerator trays. Freeze until almost firm. Remove from trays to a chilled bowl. Beat egg whites until stiff but not dry. Fold egg whites into frozen sherbet. Return to refrigerator trays and freeze until firm, about 2 to 3 hours.

*Make liquid Starlac nonfat milk according to package directions.
