

Bassett Nudges Broncos in Thriller

3 TD's Scored in 4th Period

STUART — The Bassett high school Tigers nudged the Stuart Broncos, 19-6, at Stuart Friday night in the final scheduled game of the year.

The big fireworks came in the fourth quarter when Bassett scored twice and Stuart once.

Bassett tallied in the second quarter on an 85-yard run by Marv Bussinger after Stuart had muffed a scoring chance when a Hytek-to-Bigelow pass from the 50 had set up Stuart on the 12. Stuart failed to make a first down and Bussinger broke through the middle on the second play.

Stuart got another chance immediately afterward on a 65-yard pass and run from Hytek-to-Faxton but penalties hurt and Stuart lost the ball again—this time on the 10.

Stuart threatened again in the third when Brewster and Hytek carried to the 20, but a 15-yard clipping penalty stalled the drive.

In the fourth period Bussinger again went 80 yards on a straight buck to make the score 13-0. A blocked kick setup the last Bassett tally with Richards going over from the 7.

Stuart scored immediately after using a spread formation on a seven-yard flip from Hytek to Brewster.

Both teams played excellent ball and looked impressive but Bassett cashed in on the excellent running of Bussinger.

Stuart lost three chances to score inside the 15. Bassett's line was especially tough on pass defense and on rushing the kicker.

Melton 'Superb' in Concert Here

on the novelty side, by Daniel Wolf; "Mister Jim" by Malotte and "I Rise When You Enter" by Chandler.

Mr. Melton's encores were indeed varied. He did two Irish folk songs, one typically American Negro folk tune, and used a miniature pop gun to bring down the house with "Cowboy's Lament"—a forlorn ballad done in true western style. He aptly demonstrated he could capture the mood of music of all types even though he is singularly noted for his work with the Italian, French, Spanish and German classics.

These were interspersed with Dave Rose's "Holiday for Strings," Shubert's "Serenade" and Jerome Kern's "The Way You Look Tonight."

One of the highlights of the program was inviting Little Miss Jolee Lofflin, 8, from the audience. He said his own little girl about the same age loved "Surrey with the Fringe on Top" from the score of "Oklahoma." This was a tender scene with Mr. Melton and Little Miss Lofflin seated together on center stage and won everyone's heart.

Little Jolee had warmed her way into Mr. Melton's dressing room at intermission and asked for an autograph. Mr. Melton told the audience this was the reason for choosing Jolee.

The thoroughly enjoyed opening concert which delighted so many people and transformed others from passive to active music-lovers has assured the success of the 1954-'55 concert season. Most agreed he was a "perfect choice."

Perhaps, more than that, Mr. Melton's music assured a good many concert series in the years ahead.

Choral Clinic Is Set at Ainsworth

AINSWORTH—About 400 high school vocalists are expected to take part in the North-Central Nebraska conference choral clinic to be held at Ainsworth Friday, November 12.

Robert Martell, vocal music instructor in the high school here, announced that the clinic will be held at the city hall with Thomas Wikstrom as director. Mr. Wikstrom is teaching at the University of Nebraska. He spent several years at the University of Florida as assistant conductor of the University singers and concert master of the symphony orchestra.

Schools and directors taking part in the clinic are: O'Neill — Richard Smithson; Atkinson — Miss Leona Kilmurry; Stuart — Robert Bichel; Long Pine — Mrs. Esther Miller; Bassett — Duane Miller; Springfield — Davis Law; Valentine — Paul Austin, and Ainsworth — Mr. Martell.

It is hoped by all those who are participating in the clinic that a large audience will be present for the final concert, for the public can hear what the schools are doing in music only rarely during the school year.

This concert offers one of the best opportunities to hear vocal music at its best, for untold hours have been spent in preparing the music for the final concert.

Mrs. Lyle Benda, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Gilg and Mr. and Mrs. George McCarthy.
