Altitude Affects Cake's Rising

By BLANCHE SPANN PEASE, Homemaking Editor

St. Patrick's day is coming up next week. Maybe you'd like to celebrate the occasion with something green in the food line.

How about having an— IRISH MEDLEY DESSERT One package orange gelatin, one pint hot water, 1/2 cup canned crushed pineapple (drained), one cup lady finger or stale cake crumbs, one cup cream (whipped), one package lime gelatin, one pint hot water, one drop oil of peppermint.

Dissolve the orange gelatin in one pint of hot water. Chill. When slightly thickened, fold in pineapple. Turn into shallow pan. Chill until firm. Fold lady finger crumbs into cream. Pour over orange gelatin mixture. Dissolve lemon gelatin in one pint hot water, add oil of peppermint. Chill until syrupy. Place in a bowl of cracked ice and whip until fluffy and thick. Pour into cream mixture. Chill until firm. Unmold. Cut into shamrock shapes or squares. Serves 10 to 12.

Of course, you can serve Irish potatoes, too, on St. Patrick's day. Grin.

You can use a white frosting on a cake and cut green shamrocks from green gum drops for decoration, or use cake coloring and color the cake frosting a pretty pastel green. Or serve a chocolate cake with pastel green whipped cream on it.

Or maybe you'd like to serve—

CHOCOLATE PEPPERMINT PARFAIT

You'll need a box of chocolate pudding mix for this, one drop peppermint extract, green coloring, one cup cream (whipped). Prepare the chocolate pudding with milk as directed on the package and cool. Add peppermint and enough coloring to whipped cream to make a delicate green. Serve pudding in parfait glasses, alternating it with layers of whipped cream, having whipped cream on top. Serves six.

Must Alter Recipe to Avoid Mess

Hay Springs, Nebr.

Dear Friend: It has been some time since I wrote to you and every time that I read the column and enjoy someone else's letter I think that I must write you again. But it seems like when I am in the mood for writing, I don't have time, and when I have time to write, I don't use it. I have a lot of time to do my work in the house. I find that this time of year when I can't be scratching out in the back yard that I have time to do a lot of things that I did not have time for before.

One thing that I have more time for than I used to is house plants. I never had a house in the country that was warm enough in winter to be sure that the plants would not freeze. Right now my geraniums are blooming so prettily. I got a few slips from a lady here last fall that are blooming now. They are a deep red, geranium with blossoms that are double. I have another in bloom that is a soft salmon color, which I think is very pretty.

I had the unpleasant experience since I moved to this higher elevation of learning by the trial and error method that you can't use an ordinary recipe for cake in this altitude. The cake will rise up and overflow into the oven before it bakes, due to the higher altitude making things boil at a lower temperature. Now I am learning to bake at a higher temperature as well as to alter the recipe in order to not have a mess instead of a cake.

I was brought to realize something today as I stood washing dishes when I heard our little kindergarten youngster say, "Oh, mother, isn't that pretty?" I did not know what she was referring to and went to the door of the bathroom where she was standing. She was pointing to some clean bath towels that I had just put up. They were not new, but I had not put them up for some time and do not generally put the whole set on the racks, but because we are looking for company tonight for supper I had put the extra ones out for "pretty."

As I stood there finishing my dishes I wondered if we are not too inclined to fix things up for company that many times will not even notice it when they come, and fail to think of what a change once in a while will do for our own family. I think that a lot of fixing for company goes unneeded by our guests as we are so occupied with visiting that they scarcely will notice whether our finger-prints were all scrubbed off that door in the kitchen or the curtains were freshly laundered. On second thought, I guess it is a good thing for us to give our homes that critical eye to see how much we have let things slip this cold weather.

I am debating with myself (myself, because Joe, like many other husbands, is not very much help with ideas) about whether to buy new paper and re-do the walls of the dining room, living room and downstairs bedroom, or to buy some paint that is recommended for such use and paint over the present paper.

I saw a home in Chadron that surpasses mine in grandeur. The owner had put paint on over the paper and it looks nice. I wonder if it will loosen the paper so that it might peel from the wall. One advantage in doing it the paint method is that I think I can do

Childers Corn-Growing Champion

Lyle R. Childers (left) was recently proclaimed county corn growing champion at a banquet held in honor of Nebraska corn growing champions. His yield of 99.93 bushels per acre was the top yield in Holt county in the 1954 national DeKalb corn growing contest. Runner-up honors went to Ervin E. Hilligas, who was close behind with a yield of 99.13 bushels per acre. Unable to attend the banquet was third place winner, Robert Garner, who produced a yield of 95.59 bushels per acre and Wood Jartman, who took fourth place honors with a yield of 90.33 bushels per acre. The four contestants are from Chambers.

that myself and I'd have to hire a paperhanger.

Well, if I'm to have company tonight, I guess I'd better start the supper preparations, since it's nearly time for school to be out. MRS. JOE WADSWORTH

Replica of Church Goes on Display

CHAMBERS — The Waltham leaguers of St. Paul's Lutheran church have built a scale model of their church and placed the model on display in the Harley Hardware show window.

The replica is complete and includes shingles on the roof, neon cross, plastic yellow windows, steeple and details include doorknobs.

Background of the display is lenten theme posters: "February 23 to April 9—Time of Redemption to Christ"; "Won't You Come?" and a "bulletin board."

Safety Hazards to Be Noted

The Grattan Flats 4-H club held a meeting at the home of Morris and Dick Pongratz Monday, February 28.

Connie Brockman joined our club. All members responded to roll call. We got our new project books. Connie Brockman was elected song leader and Richard Ernst was elected as recreational leader.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Velda Ernst, each member to respond to roll call with a safety hazard they have seen.

We had a good lunch.—By Barbara Wayman, news reporter.

Curtis Praises State's REA Gains, Payments

Senator Carl T. Curtis said this week Nebraska can take great pride in its accomplishment under the rural electrification administration program.

He pointed out that 96.4 per cent of the farms in Nebraska were receiving electric power as of June 30, 1954. In addition, Nebraska REA borrowers are $2,727,000 ahead of schedule in repayment of loans. Nebraska led the nation in loans made during 1954 with borrowers receiving $13,671,000 for extension of REA service.

Senator Curtis stated that, under this administration, much of the red tape has been eliminated in making REA loans, and that the nationwide backlog of electric loan applications is now the lowest it has been since 1947. He predicted that, within the next few years, Nebraska's REA needs will be fully met.

It Happened In NEBRASKA---

When bands of wild horses roamed the Great Plains, the early plainsmen usually captured them by lasso. But expert marksmen sometimes "creased" the horse's neck with a rifle ball, striking a nerve which stunned the animal until it could be tamed.

From such hardy beginnings grew a strong, new state—modern in every way. One modern trend is a new public respect for the Nebraska tavern industry, earned by the diligence and responsibility shown by our tavern operators.
