700 Volunteers
Fight Prairie Fire

BARTLETT—A crew of fire fighters estimated at up to seven hundred men from half a dozen towns and many farms and ranches won a seven-hour battle with a prairie fire Friday. The fire started about 10 a.m. from a smouldering haystack on the Dutcher farm eight miles south of Ericson. The stack had been burned out a couple of days before but a 50-mile-an-hour wind Friday whipped up embers. Before it was stopped the fire covered an area some four or five miles wide and 12 to 15 miles long. Only one farm building was destroyed but hundreds of tons of hay were lost and many sections of grass land burned over. The wind from the southeast sent the blaze roaring up the valley between the Calamus river on the west and the Cedar river on the east. Backfiring finally halted the fire at highway 53, which runs east and west between Burwell and Ericson. Fire departments were called from Ord, Burwell, Scotia, Greeley, Bartlett, Elgin and Ericson. Warren Lincoln, member of the Ord fire department and engineer at the city light plant, said the fire traveled so fast fighters couldn't keep up. Mr. Lincoln said they were able to save the H ranch layout of Charlie Peterson northeast of Ord.
