

State Capitol News Penny-Per-Gallon Increase Ruled by Unicam with Emergency Clause

LINCOLN—The budget committee of the legislature this week unhooked its recommendation for state appropriations for the next two years.

The committee report wasn't yet off the presses when the $172½ million it recommended was upped by $18 million with Gov. Robert Crosby's signature of the bill increasing the state tax on gasoline from five to six cents a gallon. The bill with the emergency clause was passed on Wednesday, May 6, and signed by Governor Crosby at midnight Saturday night, May 9, placing it into effect Sunday morning. The supply tanks in the state were brimming and the one-cent increase wasn't expected to be noticed at retail level immediately.

With other revenue measures pending, the grand total is likely to reach $195 million, far and away the biggest budget ever adopted by a Nebraska legislature.

Crosby made no provision for the Milford trade school. The committee recommended $400,000. Crosby lopped $30,000 from the state fair board. The committee put it back. Crosby slashed department of public instruction funds which the department said would mean the end of the school lunch program. The committee restored $23,000.

Crosby, the committee found, over-estimated agencies' balances in several places.

Here's how the committee recommendations stack up against other standards: Committee: $172,590,039. Governor: $166,379,614. Asked by agencies: $172,267,416. Current appropriation: $173,383,571.

The general fund (general property tax, cigarette tax, liquor tax, drivers licenses, etc.) appropriation: includes $51.3 million in new money compared to $55.1 million for 1951-53.

Highways— Nebraska had a highway program this week with the signature into law by Governor Crosby of a bill increasing the tax on gasoline from five to six cents. The boost is expected to bring in $9 million of additional revenue for road construction in the next two years. All of this can be matched with federal aid, so the total increase will be $18 million. The legislature this week also started a registration fee bill and a diesel bill on their way to passage. Both measures were due for some fire but sponsors were optimistic they could save their bills.

The fee bill, as it now reads, would produce an estimated $3 million. A third of this would go to the state highway department and the other two-thirds to counties and municipalities, but all is eligible for matching with federal aid.

The diesel bill would tax all other motor fuels by the gallon, the same as gasoline, but it is not expected to yield any more revenue than the old equalization fee charged for vehicles using some fuel other than gasoline.

A cardinal duty for the seven-member advisory highway commission set up under a bill passed last week would be to lay out primary and secondary highway systems for Nebraska. And a bill ready for a final vote this week would require county boards to establish county road systems; and the plans with the State Highway Department or else lose their state funds.

The legislature is expected to complete its work this week on the five percent truck weight "tolerance bill."

Diversion— The legislature's most controversial bill, the water diversion measure, is slated for debate on the floor starting next week. Sen. Richard Marvel of Hastings, author of the hot-potato proposal, obtained unanimous consent for the bill to be a special order of business next Thursday. Agreement on the date came after Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff suggested the bill be brought up this Tuesday. By then, Carpenter said, Sen. W. J. Williams of Kearney, one of the bill's chief opponents, would be able to return to the legislature.

Williams has been hospitalized in Omaha with a stomach ailment.

What Makes One Job Better Than Another?

What if the tables were turned... and college graduates stopped filling out job applications, and instead, submitted questionnaires for companies to fill out? It might be they would ask:

"Why should I work for your company?... Is your bank balance healthy?... Are you expanding fast?... Will I get responsibility in a hurry?... Can I pick the type of work I like?... Are you fun to work with?... Do you have smart men I can learn from?... Free schooling to train me further?... Research and know-how?... Money for the finest equipment?... Will you recognize and utilize my talents?"

Isn't it a sign of a pretty good job when young men with talent can have a clear road ahead, can learn from people they respect and admire, and can work on projects of national importance?

From where we sit, we've been watching this happen. Teams of people at General Electric—in their twenties most often—are solving problems of jet plane engines, new chemicals, home appliances, guided missiles... everything from atomic power to air conditioning. And they're working in responsible jobs, with experts of recognized authority.

Maybe it's because we're growing fast that young men move into new and bigger jobs. Or because we've been lucky enough to hire the type of men who grab responsibility and work hard to achieve success. Whatever single factor or combination it is, young men and success do go together at General Electric.
