Using the "already laid out" highway program as an argument, Crosby is able to "lead from srength" in talking to road delegations.

A good example was the way He has gone all the way down the line for the state highway for the next two years. Under this program priority goes according to the scientific method of determining highway needs. This is called the sufficieny system.

A good example was the way he answered a delegation from Custer county which sought to have state highway 92 paved from Loup City to Ansley. The group presented a number of strong arguments, including the fact that 92 could be a part of an interstate route if only the 23 mile stretch in question were department: Miss Fern Pruden.

Several counties appealed from the State Board of Equalization's widespread increase of valua-tions. Grant county (Hyannis) was first to file a notice it would appeal to the supreme court, followed by Douglas (Omaha), Buffalo (Kearney), Box Butte (Alliance). Hamiliton (Auroa). and Howard (St. Paul). The Burlington and Union Pacific Railroads also filed protests.

This caused one member of the State Board to remark: I wonder why these counties a will cut their valuations. Then what if the railroads win and counties will lose railroad tax revenue. And that will throw the tax right back on their property owners.
