EWING—The General Missionary society of the Free Methodist church met Monday, November 23, at the home of Mrs. Edna Lofquist. Twelve members were present and two visitors, Mrs. Daisy Miller and Mrs. Florence Moore of Clearwater.

The study of foreign missions and their work was the lesson of the afternoon. At the business session the society voted to send five dollars to the "Nebraska Progress" and six dollars was given to the church treasurer for expenses of delegates.

Two boxes of cookies and used clothing were packed for the orphanage at Kansas City, Mo. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Howard Miller the third Friday of the month. Names were drawn for a gift exchange. On adjournment, Mrs. F. A. Hand, a member, was surprised when the ladies reminded her of a birthday anniversary, presenting her some gifts and serving a luncheon, including a birthday cake.

Safety Tips for Yule Season

Everyone is busy getting ready for Christmas. Extra guests soon will be arriving. There is real excitement. In such a situation safety measures are often overlooked.

Let's see what some hazards are in the living room.

Nothing is prettier than a tree decorated with bright colored lights, tinsel and colored balls. Nothing is more dangerous on a Christmas tree than lighted wax candles. The oil-filled pine needles are inflammable, and will cause a fire if a lighted candle touches the tree. Many a person decorates the fireplace mantle with fragrant pine and lighter wax candles. This, too, is very dangerous.

How about the cord and connection for the electric lights on your tree? Are they in top condition? It's smart to check into these things. Never leave the tree lights burning if you are going to be away from home.

Then, it's always a good idea to have extra ashtrays around, for with added holiday guests, more smoking is usually done. Save a possible burn in the rug, on a table, or even worse damage, a fire.

Falls may be caused by tripping over toys. Do your children understand about picking up their toys, after they are through playing with them? Skates, miniature cars, trucks and other toys, left in a hall, on the stairs or on the floor in any room for that matter, may prove dangerous—the cause of broken bones.

In case your son receives a bow and arrow set, a gun, or sure his father or another adult sees along on his hunting trips, until the boy learns the safe way to handle such equipment. A few lessons now will help to save his life later.

If you have to reach up in the Christmas decorations or other supplies, use a sturdy chair or ladder for high climbing.

Safety measures outside of the house are important, too. If the weather is stormy during the holidays, see that the porch steps are cleaned, and all the ice or snow removed. Sand or ashes can be spread on the steps and sidewalk to make walking easier . . . and safer.

A safe Christmas is a happy Christmas, and a happy Christmas is one you will remember all year round.
