Street - Widening
May Save Highways

highways 20, 275 and 281 converge, but admitted it was protected by traffic signal lights.

Davis verbally offered on behalf of the city council to regulate traffic on the two streets by requiring parallel parking to provide four lanes of traffic and banning parking of wide trucks on the two highways within the city limits.

Reiss said the department would insist on correction of the dangerous drive-in theater corner 1 1/2 miles northwest of the city. He indicated consideration would be given to a sweeping curve south of the theater to supplant the slow, dangerous curve now in use north of the theater, where two persons were killed last fall.

Besides Nelson, Davis, Griffin and Krotter, other members of the delegation were Paul Beha, D. C. Schaffer, Dale Foree, L. D. Fulman and E. W. Peaton of the Nebraska Highway 20 association.

The delegation was armed with emphatically worded resolutions unanimously adopted Monday evening by the Chamber of Commerce. Fifty attended Monday's meeting—the largest turnout in many a month.

Reiss said the street pledge should be made in writing "very soon." The council will be faced with the street-widening problem from the Grattan township library corner (Sixth and Douglas) eastward to Tenth street, from the Texaco-Conoco corner (Second and Douglas) west four blocks to the curve, and from the Speltz-Ray Lbr-Fox hotel corner (Fourth and Everett) south three blocks to the Burlington railroad tracks.

In addition, some obstructions (such as canopies, fuel pumps, etc.) along the route would have to be eliminated.

Although the council has taken no formal action, the idea of a two-hour (or some other) limit on parallel parking would apply in the business districts. Some observers predict that access space used by some establishments necessarily would be reduced.

Enforcing the parking regulations would become the responsibility of the police department. "Roosters," townspeople who monopolize parking places, would be obliged to go elsewhere.

Legally, the city council can put the street-widening proposition to a general vote under the general obligation provisions of city government or the council can simply create an improvement district and assess the abutting real estate owners without a vote. In either event, 50 percent federal participation can be obtained.

It Happened In NEBRASKA---

Nebraska locomotives of the 1870's could have used "grasshopper catchers" as well as cow-catchers! Enormous hordes of grasshoppers plaguing the countryside were frequently crushed under the engine. The slick rails made the wheels spin; and it was often necessary to stop and clear the track!

Gone with the grasshopper scourge are our ancient attitudes toward taverns. Today Nebraskans are proud of an industry grown stable and upright as any business! Clean, orderly taverns are accepted as a normal part of our society.

Cardinals Lose
Coach to USAF

The St. Mary's academy Cardinals tried valiantly to hand Coach Bob Berigan a going-away victory in two tries during the past seven days. But they failed.

At St. Francis Mission, S.D., Friday night, the Cards were punished, 38-52, by the Indians, who boasted too much experience, height and speed. Duane Weier managed 15 points for the losers.

On Tuesday evening on the O'Neill court, the Ainsworth Bulldogs, the big guns in north-central Nebraska, rolled to a 68-33 victory over the luckless Cardinals. Weier and Terry Wanser spearheaded the SMA attack with 16 points apiece, but a lofty guy named Spearman grabbed 33 for Ainsworth.

The SMA seconds were setback, 42-23, in the preliminary Berigan leaves today (Thursday) for San Antonio, Tex. He has been in the air force reserve since his Creighton university days and is a second lieutenant. His wife will accompany him to Texas and return on Monday.

The Cards and SMA followers honored Coach Berigan Wednesday night. They presented him with a watch bracelet and cuff link set.

The St. Mary's game scheduled to be played in O'Neill tonight (Thursday) will be played instead at Creighton, starting time 7:15.

Holdrege TV Station Seeks Power Boost

An application went on file at 4:15 p. m., Monday with the federal communications commission which might result in a real break for television viewers in the O'Neill area.

Station KHOL-TV, Holdrege-Kearney, asked for permission to increase its channel 13 power from 56,000 watts to 266,750 watts. Increasing its signal strength five times, KHOL, a CBS affiliate, expects to be audible and visible here consistently. The transmitter is about 150 airline miles from O'Neill and at the 56,000-watt level reception is fair here.

Because of its geographic location, television enthusiasts predict the approval of the power increase for KHOL will be a formality.
