Reformatory Term for Young Flannigan

Stuart Soldier Gets 1-to-3 Years

STUART—Daniel Flannigan, 18-year-old Stuart soldier, will serve a sentence of from one to three years in the reformatory for causing the February 23 traffic death of Mrs. A. H. Andersen of Grand Island. The youth was sentenced in Grand Island by District Judge E. G. Kroger.

Young Flannigan, who had recently returned to the U.S. from Austria on an emergency leave, entered a plea of no contest to a charge of motor vehicle homicide. He testified he had no recollection of the accident or of events leading up to it.

Mrs. Andersen was fatally injured when a car driven by her husband was struck by a machine driven by Flannigan at a Grand Island intersection on a wintry night. Mr. Andersen was seriously injured and is still hospitalized.

Judge Kroger said the youth was violating the law by drinking, speeding and running a stop-sign.

She was one of the nine chosen as "outstanding" from the sophomore class to present the sophomore recital for the university.

In connection with music, Miss Davis was pledged by Delta Omicron, national music fraternity, and was just informed of being cast in the Kismet Klub spring show presented each year at the Nebraska theater. This year's show is "Fenian's Rainbow."

Imogene has also made several appearances on television, her latest being on "Recital" over KFOT-TV.
