Always read the labels on food or drug packages. The information given on the label or wrapper must conform to the regulations of the Food and Drug Act and is there for your protection. Fold sheets back several inches over the top blanket edge to protect it from soil and wear.

Just as too much jewelry spoils the costume, too many accessories clutter up an attractive room. If you'd like to remove the clutter from a room, take down the "space fillers" and "dust catchers." Sort accessories and discard those that really aren't worth saving. Store others for a while, then bring out a fresh group occasionally to give your room a different look.

When choosing accessories, think first where an item will be used, then make sure it is the right size, shape and color for the place.

Hamburgers are still an all-season favorite. For the best burgers ever, select meat carefully. That with a higher fat content will make juicier hamburgers and the cost will be less—but the shrinkage will be greater. Ground chuck makes juicy patties and is less expensive than ground round.

The meat you buy should be a bright cherry-red with the fat distributed evenly through the meat. For best flavor it's a good idea to use the beef the day you buy it or the day after. If it is to be kept longer, it should be frozen.

Shape hamburger patties before freezing and separate them with layers of freezer paper. This makes them handy to use when you take them from the freezer.

Moderate amounts of bread and potatoes, often considered as fattening, have an important place in any diet, even a slimming diet. Dieters will also do well to pay special attention to fruits and vegetables, because this food group offers many appealing choices, high in food value, to help fill in the gaps left by high-calorie desserts and snack foods. Switching to skimmed milk or buttermilk is also a good way of cutting calories.

Since food sheets are sanforized, about 5 inches of shrinkage may be expected in a sheet. For best service, choose 100 inch torn size for the average sheet and 113 inch torn size for luxury percales. Width will depend on the size of bed on which the sheet will be used.

Use tasty rounds of bread in place of crackers with dips. Cut day-old bread with a small cookie cutter and saute in melted butter to which you have added a dash of steak sauce.

Keep your first aid kit well stocked. It is also wise to have a good first aid book handy for reference in case of emergencies. "Think of all the types of accidents that could happen in the home and make sure that you have the right equipment to deal with them until the doctor arrives.

One of the most recent developments in the construction of wash-and-wear clothing is textured nylon thread. It was developed especially for wash-and-wear synthetic blends and treated cottons. The thread is being manufactured in 28 colors and black and white. Although the textured thread is only being market tested at present, national distribution should follow by spring. It is softer and easier to handle than conventional nylon thread. The process changes the texture of the yarn by disarranging and looping the filaments.

"Price per serving of a pork roast will be lower if you buy an entire pork loin than if you buy just the center loin roast. "Have the butcher cut out the size center loin roast you need, then prepare the rib and loin end for freezing. These can be cut into chops or frozen as roasts. You may choose to have the loin end boned and rolled for a roast that's easy to carve".
