Mrs. Cora Clifton, 80, of Royal May Be Champion Rug Maker

ROYAL—Mrs. Cora Clifton, a resident of Antelope county for close to 76 years and now in her 81st year, is one of the spryest women of her gae to be found anywhere, so say her friends, who believe she holds a record for making braided rugs.

Mrs. Clifton says she works 12 hours a day very frequently on her hobby. She doesn't make them because she enjoys the activity. She works at it relentlessly and then gives them away.

She has three 9x12, several 9x10 and altogether there are more than 20 of the braided rugs in her home. Mrs. Clifton is now working on a 9x12 for her granddaughter.

She said she wouldn't sell one of her rugs for $600, nor for any price because the time and labor spent in making them can't be estimated.

Asked where she gets her material she replied, "My friends give me wool suits, coats, pants and dresses and all kinds of good wool. I wash every piece, cut out the good parts, trim off the ravelings and weak spots and cut the material into strips 1 1/2 inches wide for heavy material and 2 1/2 inches wide for lighter material."

She sews the strips end to end with a bias seam, folds them in the middle and braids them. When the center of the rug is sewn together and it is too large for the table, the rug is laid on the floor and from then on she is up and down until the rug is finished. To keep from becoming overtired she divides her time around the different processes.

It takes $10 worth of thread and knit crossben to make a large rug.

Mrs. Clifton lives alone since the death of her husband some six years ago.

She has three living children, Ray and Carol, who live on farms near Orchard, and a daughter, Mrs. Eva McElhaney of O'Neill. She has eight grandchildren and nine great grandchildren.

For many years Mrs. Clifton did fancy baking for many social events. She has always done her own dressmaking for herself and her family. She has kept abreast of the times through newspapers and books and has pursued home-study courses in her favorite subjects.

Of slight build, Mrs. Clifton tips the scales at 112 pounds. She is agile as a teenager and could easily pass for a woman half her age. Her eyesight is very good and her hearing is unimpaired.
