PHASE I: ON THE LINE!

The conventional steam power plant facilities at Consumers Public Power District's Sheldon Station at Hallam are now on the line, completing Phase I of a two-phase program of importance to the entire state.

Nebraska's supply of dependable low-cost electricity has been increased by 75,000 kilowatts—enough to supply the needs of a city of approximately 100,000 population.

Phase II will be completed next year when the Station's nuclear reactor is put into operation—and Nebraskans served for the first time with electricity generated from atomic energy.
