

A Poem From Mrs. Eby . . .

In Memory of Harlan Lieswald killed August 3 at Monroe
Step softly here, for Harlan sleeps calm in death's embrace
The smile of conscious rectitude still lingers on his face
The heart that throbbled for others' troubles forever more is stilled;
Closed are the eyes which oftentimes with tears of pity filled.
A horrible wreck with a truck of bald hay. Fire took this bright young lad away.
Just seventeen years. Oh, so young his parents and friends all say.
And we can't understand why it should come to one so young as he.
But God sees the other side of the hill, while we just this side may see.
There is so much now we cannot see, our eye sight's far too dim.
But come what may, we'll simply trust and leave it all to Him.
While mourning for a "loved and lost" our hearts with anguish given
The Father of us all will settle the score. On the flowery paths of heaven.
(Della Stuart Eby)
