Page Banquet in Oriental Setting

PAGE — A social event of the school year, the annual junior-senior banquet, was held Saturday evening, May 13, in the Page public school dining room.

To represent oriental gardens, the room was decorated with red and white streamers, the senior colors, and many Chinese lanterns were hung about. In the background was a miniature garden with poppies growing around a well.

Thirty-six guests found their places at the table by the place-cards, decorated with little Chinese umbrellas. The nut cups were little Chinese ships with dragons on the sails. Sweetpeas were also used in the decorations.

The program: "Soo Happee" welcome, by Jane Parks; "Thankee Honorable Ann," response, by Dale Braddock; "I Takee Much," by Margie Finch; "Confuscious Say," by Genelle Park; "Kowtow Our Honored Seniors," by Tom Hutton, high school teacher; "See No Evil, Hear No Evil, Speak No Evil," by Mrs. John Lamason, primary teacher.

Solo, "Slow Boat to China," by Jane Parks; solo, "Daddy's Little Girl," by Dena Knight; speech, "Future Possibilities," by Marion Mitchell, high school teacher; duet, "Faraway Places," by Jane Parks and Dona Knight; trumpet solo, "Blue Skirt Waltz," by Jim Ballantyne; "Soo Long," by Jane Parks.

The menu: Fruit cocktail, pear salad, creamed peas, baked ham, string beans, mashed potatoes, gravy, dinner rolls, angel food cake topped with whipped cream, maraschino cherries and tea.

The food was furnished by the juniors and prepared by their mothers.

Six sophomores — 3 girls and 3 boys — waited tables. Joyce Clasey, Roxie Simmons and Lorna Stevens wore kimonos and parted their hair in the middle with a bun on each side. The boys, Vernon Dorr, William Zemple and Bob Sorensen, wore coolie jackets and large coolie hats.

During the program Dona Parks and Maurice Waring were crowned king and queen. They were selected by the vote.
