Survey Reveals Accident Rate Up

Because almost 4 workers suffer last-time injuries every minute of the work-day, "accidental deaths and injuries in the United States rank high among the major problems facing the nation today," according to Vincent P. Ahearn, executive secretary of the National Sand and Gravel association.

"The reduction of occupational accidents," Ahearn said, "requires continued and unremitting education of both workers and employers in the very simple rules of safety. The Frontier is participating by conducting a locally sponsored campaign to focus attention on the problem."

"During the past year, one out of every 30 people employed in the United States suffered a last-time injury. So many accidents in factories, business offices, on farms and wherever people work need not occur. They can and must be prevented."

"This is not an impossible or even impractical request. It is something which could very easily become a reality. It is something which definitely must become a reality if the deadly toll of accidents and the resultant economic loss to business and the country are to be halted."

Sponsors of this week's safety campaign advertisement are: Lohaus Motor Co., Coyne Hardware and O'Neill Livestock Market.

The Frontier's Jack and Jill CORNER

LYNN AND KATHLEEN . . . The Jack and Jill editor this week presents an Atkinson boy, Lynn Mask, and an O'Neill lassie, Kathleen Tharnish. Personable Master Lynn, who is the 3-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. I. L. Mask, has blue eyes, blond hair. He enjoys his tricycle and ball games in that order. Little Miss Kathleen, 10 1/2-months-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Tharnish, of O'Neill, thinks as much of her stuffed puppy as she does her mom and pop. But when she turns on her personality through hazel eyes and against her very light brown hair, she's a heart-winner.—O'Neill Photo Co.

Ewing Trio Returns from 6,500 Mile Tour Through 9 States, Old Mexico

By MRS. HAROLD HARRIS Special Correspondent

EWING — Jack Pruden, Vincent Rotherham and Harold Bennett, all graduates of the class of 1950 from the Ewing high school, left May 24 on a trip which took them through 9 states and Mexico. They returned home Saturday night, June 10, having traveled a total of 6,500 miles.

Some of the highlights of the trip follow:

Santa Fe, N. M., one of the oldest cities in the U. S., was first on the list. It featured quaint old buildings, adobe huts and narrow streets. Continuing southward on into Old Mexico, they found many items of interest but what impressed them most was the love of the Mexicans for the American dollar.

Returning to the United States through Southern California, they found the country very dry, the grass appeared brown as winter in Nebraska. At Stockton, Calif., they visited the largest English walnut orchard in the world. It covered a square mile.

While at Stockton, they visited at the home of Vincent's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Martin.

At Biggs, Calif., the boys spent some time going frog hunting. The frogs were much larger than those found near Ewing so were much easier to spear. On arriving at Oroville, Calif., they called at the Henry Pruden home. They were guests of Vincent's brother, Patrick Rotherham, at Eureka, Calif., for 4 days. Here they visited a plywood mill, watching the process from the logs being dumped from the trucks to the finished product being loaded into freight cars.

Fishing for salmon was a sport enjoyed by all. The trip was made in a large fishing boat. The water was rough and some felt the pangs of sea sickness. They caught one salmon.

Continuing into Oregon, the boys visited Harold's cousin, Floyd Nutt, and family. Another visit was made to a saw mill nearby. At Salem, Ore., they were entertained at the homes of Mr. and Mrs. Perry Kleman and Millie and Jack King, all relatives of Harold Bennett. Here pictures were taken with their movie camera and they also made tape recordings. Some roller skating and bowling was enjoyed. Before leaving Salem, Jack Pruden registered for selective service.

Going into Idaho, the boys stopped at the home of James Bennett at Small Idaho. Mr. Bennett is foreman of a large ranch. Trips into the mountains were made on horseback, much to the delight of the boys, who love outdoor life and sports.

In their travels they saw many deer, antelope, a few elk and other wild animals.

On their arrival in Ewing, the old home town "looked mighty good," they said.

Brenda Sue Adrian's Great-Grandmothers Present at Tea

EWING — A mother-daughter tea was sponsored by the Women's Society of Christian Service of the Ewing Methodist church on Wednesday, June 14, at the church parlors at 2:30 p.m. Sixty-five mothers and daughters were present.

The guests were seated at 16 small tables which were decorated in pastel colors, centered with a low bouquet of flowers in season. A 2-course luncheon was served. Appropriate musical numbers were played before and during the tea by recording and the following program was presented:

Welcome, by Mrs. A. S. Evans; vocal solo, "Rainbow Valley," by Judy Jeffries; clarinet solo, "Clarinet Polka," by Patsy Pollock; reading, "Who," by Jean Welke; vocal solo, "My Mother's Eyes," by Marion Harris; presentation of awards, by Miss Anna Van Zandt.

The society presented a gift to Mrs. Leon Sisson, the oldest mother present, and to Mrs. Duane Jensen, the youngest. Mrs. Roy Tuttle, who has a family of 6 sons and a daughter, won the honors for having the largest family. Mrs. Z. H. Fry, was a close second when she brought as her guests her 5 daughters: Mrs. Frank Emsick, Mrs. Stanley Rickert, Mrs. Dale Napier, Mrs. Richard Napier, Mrs. Duane Jensen and her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Wayne Fry.

Little Brenda Sue Adrian, the 20-month-old daughter of Mrs. George Adrian, was also an honored guest, having had 3 great-grandmothers present: Mrs. M. H. Dierks, Mrs. Raleigh Tuttle and Mrs. Leon Sisson, and her grandmother, Mrs. John Sisson.

Pictures were taken of the group after the tea.

Society members who had charge of the preparation for this social affair were: Menu, Mrs. J. L. Pruden, assisted by Mrs. N. A. Bergstrom; tables, Mrs. Sis Ebbengaard, assisted by Mrs. William Spence; decorating tables, Mrs. Harold Harris, assisted by Mrs. Earl Billings; Mrs. William Spence, Mrs. Sis Ebbengaard; program, Mrs. A. S. Evans; hostess, Miss Anna Van Zandt and Mrs. A. S. Evans; waitresses, Mrs. William Spence, Mrs. Sis Ebbengaard and Mrs. Harold Harris.
