Let's Vote

Someone has said:
You are a leech and a sloth if (1) you are an "I-guess-so" voter; (2) you are a "hometown-man" voter; (3) you are "a one-party-man" voter.

If you belong in these categories you are deliberately discarding the most fundamental right and responsibility available to you in a democracy. Moreover, by a careless vote you are jeopardizing the rights of your neighbor by cancelling his good vote with your bad vote.

The predicament of peoples in the non-democratic world should be sufficient evidence as to why you should join with other eligible members of your family and eligible friends in marching to the polls on Tuesday, August 8.

Some observers hold that the primary election in Nebraska is the more important of the two. This idea is based on the proposition that if you're a winner in the primaries on the right ticket the "one-party" floodtide will carry you through.

In good midwestern parlance the primary is simply a "culling out" process, narrowing the field to two or three people.

Plato had another suggestion for maintaining real democracy. He thought it might be a good idea to "force" all citizens to hold a public office and to "force" each citizen to do a good job while he was a public servant.

Would you like to be drafted for a few years "just" to hold public office?

Well, then turn to pages 6 and 7 of this issue of The Frontier, examine the list of candidates on the sample ballots printed thereon, make a few discreet inquiries where necessary, and march to the polls on Tuesday, August 8.

Upon arrival at the polls don't be a leech or a sloth.

Hundreds of curious autoists have been driving by the site of the new 40-bed, 420-thousand-dollar St. Anthony's hospital. Drive two blocks north from the O'Neill center, then two blocks west.

Soon will be fair time again. The Frontier's printing department is already at work on the premium list.

If there has been a cooler or wetter summer on record, we'd like to know about it.

Little Mother Can Do After Seeing Son Off to War but Seek Quiet and Cry

By ROMAINE SAUNDERS

LINCOLN—One of the traditions of American patriots is all-out support of our armies on the field of action. We wonder why young American manhood is now being sacrificed to the gods of war in a far distant land.

The American participation in hostilities in Korea raises some questions.

There are critics, too, of congress and the citizen sentiment back of congress for having cut down military expenditures upon the plea that the nation is inadequately armed for defense.

Where does defense of America's boundaries come in by sending our army, navy and air force to a peninsula sticking out from the mainland of China into the Yellow sea 10-thousand-miles from either of our shores?

Our military establishment is altogether ample to guard our shores and territorial possessions, so completely adequate that no foreign bully would venture an attack if our fighting forces were kept at home on the alert.

How much war and bloodshed would there be if those who issue the marching orders were to face the guns? American fathers and mothers, sons and daughters, fathers and mothers and sons and daughters of the world everywhere, are not wanting wars, but they pay the price in blood and treasure.

There is a pitiful lack of credit, honor and recognition due womanhood.

FOR REFERENCE: ASK THE FIRST 10 MEN YOU MEET!

It is the women who keep alive the activities of the churches, education, arts and cultural aspirations, maintain the homes, often going out to work to supplement the family income in addition to carrying the work and responsibility of the home. They initiate, get behind and put over many of the social and community reforms, have the responsibility of bearing and rearing the children, work on into the night at household duties, provide tons of glass jars filled with fruit and vegetables and can be relied upon for works of mercy.

Men are the showoffs—get their pictures in the papers taken from photographs in which they assume an attitude of lordly consequence, being introduced as president of club or society, secretary of so-and-so outfit, a school superintendent, a mayor of a jerkwater community or an ecclesiastical dignitary.

A galaxy of clergymen of a church group were shown in print in the papers just the other day, all of whom would have to resign their posts of ministry if the women withdrew from church worship and church activities. A woman down the street with a home and family to care for passes by my abode in the morning and returns at evening after a day's toil in the city's industry. She is but one of hundreds who are forced into the industrial world in an age that involves ceaseless struggle for livelihood.
