Icebox Recipe Keeps Kitchen Cool

Dessert Delight Needs No Cooking

BY GAYNOR MADDOX, NEA Staff Writer

WHETHER it's a canasta party on the porch or just a friendly gabfest, something to eat is in order. On hot summer days or evenings, you want something that can be made far in advance, so there's no last-minute fussing in the kitchen. Why not serve a refrigerator dessert such as this Icebox Pudding.

Made with layers of crunchy corn soya shreds and a pineapple-nut mixture, it's good eating for warm weather. There's no cooking involved, therefore the kitchen will be cool. This dessert is attractive when cut in squares and served with a topping of whipped cream and a mint-flavored cherry.

Corn Soya Icebox Pudding (6-8 servings)

One-half cup butter or fortified margarine, 1 cup sugar, 3 egg yolks, 1 cup crushed pineapple, well drained; 1/2 cup chopped English walnuts, 1 1/2 cups corn soya shreds, crushed; 1/2 cup whipping cream, 6 to 8 mint-flavored cherries.

Cream butter and sugar, add egg yolks and continue creaming until well blended. Add pineapple and nut meats. Arrange alternate layers of corn soya shreds and pineapple mixture in shallow pan, 6x10x2 inches, using cereal for bottom and top layers. Place in refrigerator for at least 4 hours for flavors to blend; serve immediately. Cut in squares and top each serving with whipped cream garnished with mint cherry, if desired.

Have you tried the new frozen lemonade? It tastes wonderful and banishes lemon squeezing. There's also frozen grape juice for summer coolers. Pungent as freshly-crushed blue grapes, it combines perfectly with other fruit juices.

CEREAL, PINEAPPLE and nut icebox pudding for the porch party.

Nebraska Plans 1,250-Man State Guard; War-Time Air Plan Being Drafted

LINCOLN—Nebraska's total 1950 tax levy is 5.86 mills, a decrease of 1/10 from the 1949 figure. The levy was set by the state board of equalization after Tax Commissioner Philip K. Johnson announced a 2.8 percent increase in the state's property valuation.

Assessors figured the 1950 valuation at $2,712,505,446, an increase of nearly $75,000,000 over 1949.

"Progress made in the last 4 years toward obtaining a more complete listing and better valuation of property," was credited by Johnson for the increase. A decline in individual personal property assessments of nearly 5 million dollars was offset by assessments on farm lands and improvements, city lots and improvements and on business and special schedules.

"In my opinion," Johnson said, "the assessors, county boards of equalization and the taxpayers themselves are to be congratulated upon the amount of progress made in the last 4 years toward obtaining a more complete listing and better valuation of property."

Total tangible assessments for 1950 represent a 25.5 percent boost over the 1946 amount which was the last year of property assessment before the 1947 legislature changed administration of property taxes.

Johnson said the assessment job had been improving every year since then.

Governor to Conference

Nebraska is drafting plans for a 1,250-man state guard. The 5 battalions of military police troops, composed primarily of war veterans, would be called to duty after the national guard is federalized, Gov. Val Peterson said.

The governor said Brig.-Gen. Guy N. Henninger, state adjutant general, had prepared a civil defense plan for the state but that its details were not being released until after co-ordination with the national civil defense plan. Peterson will attend a meeting in Chicago, Ill., September 8 of the executive committee of the national governors' conference. The state chief executives will be briefed on the nationwide program.

Flying Restrictions Seen

At the same time, state aeronautics officials are developing a plan to use civilian planes if an "all-out emergency" occurs.

James D. Ramsey, director of the state aeronautics department, said the civil aeronautics administration's aviation development advisory committee will meet next month to write a large-scale program.

During the last war, Ramsey said, all privately-owned planes were grounded for a short time, then were allowed to fly under severe restrictions.

Airfields which accommodate large planes doubtless would be attacked, Ramsey said. Small planes could be pressed into service to help evacuate persons and transport medical supplies.

$4-Million Spent

The state highway department spent $3,943,345 on road construction during the first 6 months of the year, State Engineer Fred Klietsch has reported to the legislature.

He said $2,445,000 went for maintaining roads and $2,630 to help maintain bridges.

Several months ago, Klietsch estimated the gasoline tax would yield $12,900,000 during 1950 and registration fees $2,600,000. The June 30 report showed these figures to be fairly accurate. The gas tax produced $6,500,000 during the first half of the year and fees for license plates $2,463,000. Virtually all fees are in by July 1.

Admit Defeat

Nebraska voters will find only 3 issues on their November ballots.

First to admit defeat in campaign for signatures were the backers of a move to place legalized gambling on the ballot. A few days later, the Nebraska New Car Dealers association tossed in the sponge as it came up to the filing deadline seven thousand signatures short of the required 47,500, to get a vehicle tax proposal before the electorate.

Dudley and Eugene Gray, along with Glenn Williams, all of Superior, had been at work thumping the tubs for the gambling petitions since last fall when James H. Anderson, then the attorney-general, announced his statewide crackdown on all forms of something-for-nothing.

Observers here feel that one of the Superior men's biggest mistakes was in counting on the support of veteran and lodge groups.

There were 2 things wrong with this, they say. One is that the clubs, especially the veterans, found that while it might be rough financially, there were a lot of advantages in being rid of the one-armed bandits. The other factor is that none of the clubs wanted to have slot machines if they were also to be in every corner drug store and filling station. Unless the clubs had a monopoly, they didn't want the machines at all.

The Nebraska New Car Dealers association had wanted the voters to consider the substitution of a uniform motor vehicle use fee instead of the present property tax method. John B. Quinn, the Lincoln promoter who is manager of the association, said the effort spent in gaining 38,000 signatures would not all be wasted. He filed petitions with the legislative council and issued a statement, which said, in part:

"These petitions are positive and dynamic evidence of the statewide appeal for the legislature to initiate a similar measure for a vote of the people at the next general election. This would partially solve the general tax problem until a constitutional convention is held."

Quinn said the association had appropriated $5,000 for the petition undertaking.

The Farm Council circulated petitions against the 2 laws hoping to get enough to enjoin their becoming effective. The farm organizations failed in this, but did have enough signers to force a vote on the issue.

Price said he felt the resource division was on the right track, but "we simply should have started this intensive effort about three years ago."

John H. McCarville departed Sunday for Ellsworth, Minn., to join Mrs. McCarville and son, Michael, for a 2-weeks' vacation with relatives.

The legislative measure would provide:

A legislature of from 30 to 50 members. The present membership is 43.

Annual or biennial sessions "as provided by law." This means the legislators themselves would determine whether they would meet every year or every two years.

That if sessions are held annually in even-numbered years, the legislature would only work on appropriations and appointments unless specifically requested by the governor to undertake other business.

Industries Sought

Nebraska, says the director of the division of resources, has a chance at locating 14 eastern manufacturing companies. C. V. Price, who just returned from a 3-week tour of the east, described the firms like this:

"Four of those are the so-called needle trades—well-rated concerns manufacturing hosiery, underwear and so on. Three are chemical, one electrical, one a large watch assembler, one a woolen enterprise, one a large fertilizer concern, one heavy machinery, and one a 'blind' manufacturer, whose contact with us is being conducted by a large New York realty outfit. Then there are two large wallboard manufacturers who have indicated their interest in the possibility of a wheat-straw plant for Nebraska. One of these is definitely interested and is counted among our 14 prospects."

Price said he felt the resource division was on the right track, but "we simply should have started this intensive effort about three years ago."

John H. McCarville departed Sunday for Ellsworth, Minn., to join Mrs. McCarville and son, Michael, for a 2-weeks' vacation with relatives.

A Vital Message Concerning COMBINES

Due to the popularity and customers' acceptance of Massey-Harris combines, the Outlaw Implement Co. of O'Neill regrets that we were unable to meet the demand for these machines this year.

To meet this situation, the Outlaw Implement Co. is offering to their customers the opportunity of accepting combines under the following terms: The Massey-Harris company will guarantee delivery at present prices up to December 15, 1950. They will guarantee to deliver to you combines shipped from the factory on or before December 1, 1950, on customers' orders which have been accepted by the company.

A deposit of $1,000 on each self-propelled combine purchased, and $350 deposit on each Clipper combine purchased, regardless of trade-ins, shall accompany the customer's order, and the unsettled balance shall be paid on arrival of the machine.
