Short Evening Dress in Style

Accompanying Jackets and Overskirts Permit Costume Switches

This short evening gown is a strapless satin sheath with a separate overskirt of lace. The sheath is cuffed in lace and the dress itself is in heavy cocoa-brown satin.

NEW YORK—The short evening dress, a favorite this season and for some seasons past, stays in fashion because it is so well-suited to American living.

There are many evenings when the average woman does not want to "dress" in the sense of putting on a full-skirted evening gown and a formal wrap. The short evening dress is, then, the perfect answer to the small evening and to some large evenings, too.

The short evening gown, is, very often, a sheath with an accompanying jacket or overskirt which permits costume switches. In one such design, a strapless short evening dress becomes a dinner dress with the addition of a long-sleeved lace jacket. The dress, in carbon blue imported Chantilly lace over satin, has a slim-hipped skirt which flares away at the knee.

In another instance, one of this season's short evening dresses has a separate overskirt made of yards of imported lace. The dress itself is heavy cocoa-brown satin, a strapless slim sheath cuffed with lace.

Let's Talk About MY BUSINESS

I am one of the employees of Consumers Public Power District whose responsibility it is to provide dependable and efficient electric service for you.

I like to talk about my job and the organization I represent because I believe you realize the important part we play in the welfare of your community—in fact, your everyday life.

Consumers Public Power District and its employees are a part of the communities they serve . . . and have a great interest in seeing their towns prosper and get ahead.

You see, Consumers Public Power District is strictly a Nebraska organization, created by Nebraskans to bring greater electrical benefits to the people of Nebraska. It differs from the other Nebraska power agencies in that it is entirely Nebraska-owned, and controlled. Its primary function is the supplying of electricity to cities, towns and villages throughout the territory it serves.

Cooperating with the power and irrigation districts which make up the Nebraska Public Power System and function primarily as power generating agencies, and the Rural districts which were created for the purpose of farm electrification, Consumers Public Power District plays an important role in the state's public power program and in the development of all Nebraska.

Typical of the approximately 1,000 trained and experienced employees of Consumers Public Power District who serve you electrically is C. D. "Brownie" Weston, Norfolk lineman with over 25 years of electrical experience.
